A Gift Indeed . . .

For many years certain individuals in Garrett County have gone far out of their way, and deep into their pocketbooks, to help make July 4th a memorable day for a lot of people. We refer to those persons who are responsible for the spectacular displays of fireworks year after year.

These few persons have made July 4th a day to look forward to with great anticipation and excitement. For hundreds of people, the fireworks are the focal point of Independence Day activities. The holiday could certainly still be observed without the fireworks, but July 4th without fireworks would be like Christmas without a Christmas tree or Thanksgiving without a turkey. The tremendous boom of an aerial bomb echoing off the mountains and the dazzling brilliance of multicolored balls of fire high in the sky quickly puts one in the mood for celebration, the celebration of our independence.

Like so many things that provide such entertainment, fireworks are quite expensive. These generous people have spent literally thousands of dollars over the years to make it all possible. They reap no monetary benefits for their efforts. They do it because they enjoy making others happy. It is indeed a gift, given to so many people — young and old, rich and poor, friend and stranger.

In particular, we name the Robert Proudfoots and the Emile Germains of Oakland, and the Charles Morans of Deep Creek Lake. If there are others, please include yourselves on this list. On behalf of hundreds of pleased viewers, this editor thanks you!

Education Board Adopts Budget At Special Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education adopted its 1979 fiscal year budget, amounting to $8,896,613, during a special meeting last Thursday evening.

The only action taken to change the budget was to remove $16,000 of the food services budget and placing that money in the instructional equipment budget, while another $4,000 of food services money will be used for field trips.

Herbert G. Harman, president of the school board, supported the transfers, noting the instructional equipment budget has been "getting it in the neck" as a result of cuts made in years past.

The budget will enable the school board to meet the salary package negotiated with the teachers and other employees. Starting salary for teachers in Garrett County is now $9,200, while the top pay is $16,950 and can be drawn by teachers with 15 years or more of service in the county.

Robert Yunker, president of the Garrett County Teachers' Association, said he is happy the board funded the teachers' contract, but he said GCTA is still not satisfied with wages. "We will continue to press for better wages for teachers who are doing as good a job or better than other teachers in the state," he said.

Classroom size under the new budget will average 27 children per teacher in elementary and middle schools and 23 pupils per teacher in secondary schools.

The budget eliminates four teaching positions.

In other action the Board of Education appointed Mrs. Wilda Massi as the Assistant Principal at Southern Middle School and Elmer Redinger, Jr. as the Assistant Principal at the Northern Middle School.

The Board expects the Northern Middle School to be completed sufficiently by July 15, in order that they can conduct an inspection tour in the morning prior to the regular Board of Education meeting at 1:00 p.m. at the Board Office in Oakland.

MOVING OUT TEMPORARILY from the Smith residence in Crellin was Tim Smith, one of the residents. Water was knee deep or more where the Snowy Creek meets the Yough, but fortunately the rain slackened and water began receding before homes were inundated. Many people removed their possessions when they left their homes, including the Smiths, who took along their grandfather clock.

One-Car Mishap Claims Life Of Wm. Ravenscroft

Services were held Monday morning for William Rogers Ravenscroft, 23, of Deep Creek Lake, who was fatally injured in a one-car mishap Friday evening on the Glendale Road, one mile east of Beckman's Peninsula Road.

State Police said the victim was traveling alone westbound on Glendale Road at about 7 p.m. when an unidentified vehicle eastbound apparently crossed the center line while attempting to make a left turn. In attempting to avoid colliding with the turning vehicle, Ravenscroft swerved and the right-side wheels of his 1978-model vehicle went off the right shoulder. The victim lost control of the vehicle as he attempted to bring the wheels back onto the highway and it overturned several times in the middle of the roadway.

Ravenscroft was thrown from the vehicle. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad where he died a short time later. Death was due to head and internal injuries.

Mr. Ravenscroft was born in Cumberland, a son of Catherine Elizabeth (Ruehl) Ravenscroft Friend and the late Claude R. Ravenscroft.

He was a salesman and vice president of Patterson's Boat Company and also worked for Rudy's Ski Shop. He graduated from Southern High School in 1972 and attended Frostburg State College, Bridgewater College in Virginia and Garrett Community College.

Besides his mother, surviving are his step-father, Richard E. Friend; two sisters, Catie Ravenscroft, at home, and Robin Ravenscroft, Washington, D. C.; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Norris Ravenscroft, Plantation, Fla.; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Pearl Miller, Woodland Hills, Calif., and step-grandmother, Mrs. Genevieve A. Friend, Oakland.

Friends were received at the John O. Durst Funeral Home. Services were conducted by Rev. Paul Byrnes. Interment was in Greenmount Cemetery, Cumberland.

Anyone interested may contact Ward Lavengood or Burton Lytle for additional information.

LOOKING SERENELY UNTROUBLED by the swirling waters Monday, this house at Crellin seems centered in its own reflecting pool. Although water lapped at the foundation, the interior was undamaged and structurally sound. The last floodwaters to reach this depth in Crellin were seen in the early 1960s, according to local residents.

Deputies Check Minor Larcenies

Several minor incidents of larceny and destruction of property are under investigation by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week.

On June 29, a larceny was reported by Charles William Kifer, Jungle Lane, who told police someone had carried away 75 feet of black plastic pipe, valued at $29.25, from his home.

On June 28, a breaking, entering and larceny was reported at the home of Earl and Oliver Lewis, Mt. Lake Park. Mr. Lewis told the investigating officer someone had entered his trailer through a rear door and made off with a cookie jar containing approximately $100 in coins.

John Patton, Pittsburgh, told police that someone had removed his mailbox on Lake Shore Drive. Value of the mailbox was estimated at $10.

On July 1, Joseph Locke, Route 1, Grantsville, reported that someone had shot out a window at his home. Value of the damaged window was set at $30.

On July 3, Lewis Craven, Route 1, Swanton, reported that a battery valued at $60 had been removed from his auto while it was parked in the Turkey Neck section.

Later that day, Jack R. Snyder, Route 1, Swanton, (Green Glade Road) reported that someone had carried off his mailbox. Original cost of the box several years ago was set at $4.50.

Michael Hall, proprietor of Backbone Flea Mart, Route 50 at Table Rock, told police Monday that someone had taken several articles, including a calculator, from his shop. Total value of the items was $20.

Fire Damages Mobile Home

A mobile home on Water Street in Friendsville sustained smoke and water damage Tuesday evening as a result of a furnace fire.

Friendsville firemen were called to the scene around 6 p.m. after the furnace in the trailer reportedly caught fire. Firemen remained on the scene nearly an hour. No one was injured, but damage to curtains and the floor was considerable.

The mobile home is the property of Roy and Bonnie Cowan, and was rented only last week by a young couple from Transiontown.

Accident firemen responded to their station to stand by for Friendsville if needed.

$1180 Taken From Deer Park Home

A total of $1180 has been taken from a home in Deer Park, during the July 4 holiday, according to a report this morning by the Garrett County Sheriff's department.

Steven Eugene Ervin, who lives on Church Street, told police that someone had broken into his home and removed a gray tackle box containing $1180, property of the Deer Park Sportsmen's Club. Some $300 of that amount was in coins, and an additional $120 was in checks. Mr. Ervin works parttime at the club.

The investigation is continuing, said a spokesman from the sheriff.

High Waters Force Families From Their Homes During Monday's Rain

Several families in the county were forced to evacuate their homes Monday as rain-swollen rivers and streams climbed their embankments. Particularly hard hit were residents in the Potomac River area of Shallmar, and people living in the vicinity of Snowy Creek and the Youghiogheny River at Crellin.

Several elderly and shut-in residents of Shallmar were removed from their homes during the early afternoon by members of the Kitzmiller fire department. Members of the county sheriff's department and local Civil Defense officials also were in the area to assist if needed, but most residents chose to remain in their homes as long as possible.

At Crellin, several families were forced from their homes by the waters, but no extensive damage was listed. Three accidents were noted at the curve of Route 38 just before entering the town, but no one had been seriously injured.

By 3 p.m. Monday, the river had reached 15 feet in Cumberland, with the flood stage mark at over 16 feet.

Most residents forced from their homes were able to return late that night after waters had begun receding, according to George Comp, Civil Defense leader here.

The county roads department reports no known bridge or road damage due to flooding, but several roads were barricaded due to high waters. Some roads closed included Bert Sinnoise Road near Loch Lynn; Pleasant Valley Road, Shallmar Road, the road through Crellin, Underwood Road at Cherry Creek, Silver Knob Road, and Steyer-Gorman Road.

Parts of Route 495 were also underwater, according to the State Highway Administration.

Several area fire departments were kept busy pumping water from area basements, especially Kitzmiller, Oakland, Deer Park and Deep Creek.

It is apparently too early to assess crop damage, if any, caused by the high water, and no damage reports have been made to Jim McHenry, county extension agent.

Richfood Reports $938 Larceny

An investigation is underway today into a breaking, entering and larceny reported at Richfood, Inc., Mt. Lake Park, where a total of $938 has been reported stolen.

According to the sheriff's department report, sometime between 11 p.m. Monday and 8 a.m. Tuesday, July 4, someone entered the building by breaking glass from the overhead delivery door and climbing in.

After entry, the intruders forced a door open and entered the office, where they pried open a cabinet-type safe. Missing was a total of $938, with over half the money in change.

Four Injured In Vehicular Mishaps

Three persons were injured in two one-vehicle mishaps in the past week near the Thayerville area. Another woman was injured while sunbathing.

Ralph Wilson Livengood, Jr., of RD 4, Deer Park, was injured in a one-car accident.

He was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital having been taken there by the Southern Rescue Squad. Livengood was southbound on the Sand Flat road just north of Perain Farm road. The right front wheel dropped off the roadway onto the soft shoulder. His car was then pulled into the ditch, due to the softness, and struck a culvert and came to rest. Tfc. J. E. Foley investigated.

Two persons were slightly injured in a wreck on the Glendale road just east of the end of the Glendale Bridge very early last Friday morning. Donald S. Nemith, 19, operator, and his passenger, Victor F. Gardea, 22, both of Oakland, were westbound on Glendale road when Nemith lost control of his car on a right hand curve. The vehicle crossed the road, struck an embankment, spun around and hit the embankment again and then rolled over on its top. Tfc. E. J. Upole charged him with operating at excessive speed for existing conditions.

One woman was injured while taking a sunbath on a lawn at a residence on State Park road early Saturday evening. Patricia Ann Falce, 19, Pittsburgh, was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital with a broken pelvis by the Southern Rescue Squad. The woman was lying in the front yard of the Rodney McIntosh residence. William Edward Stewart, Gaithersburg, was southbound on State Park road, made a left turn into the driveway of the residence and then a sharp right into the front yard. The driver failed to see the woman and the left tires of the Chevrolet Corvette ran over the upper part of the READY, SET, GO! — Calf roping is a race against time with seconds counted in decimal points. To win, horse and rider must work together with precision teamwork. The contest begins behind the barrier with a rope stretched across the box. Where the rope end meets the calf's neck, there is a loop of rope around the calf's neck. When the calf is to be roped, the barrier is lowered and the rope is released. The calf, released from the chute, reaches the end of the twine to trip the barrier. The roper and his horse try to hit the barrier at the exact moment it is released. Even a tenth of a second might make the difference between winning and losing. A good horse will come to the calf quickly and make the difference between winning and losing. A good horse will come to the calf quickly and hold a steady interest regardless of how the calf performs. Most ropers like their horse to stay a length behind and a fraction to one side to give a clear throw. If the loop misses, the cowboy gets a penalty added to his overall time. Another rope ready-tied to the saddle. The above photograph was taken during Saturday's Rodeo at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The rodeo prize drew a large crowd and all-in-all, cowboys participated in several traditional events. See picture feature on page 14.

Torrential rains Monday put many rivers and streams over their banks resulting in much flooding. Sunday's and Monday's rains added up to 4.17 inches. There has been a trace or more of rain every day the past week. Considerable thunder and lightning accompanied many of the downpours.

Monday's rains, 3.4 inches, came within .6 inch of the all-time record for a day in July set in 1912. Cool Temperatures accompanied the rain period.

Skies were variably cloudy last Wednesday. Thursday began the same with showers in the afternoon. Friday began mostly cloudy with a mid-day shower then cloudy the balance of the day. Saturday began foggy with mostly cloudy skies following. The rain spell began late Saturday and continued through Monday. Tuesday was overcast with mist later in the day. This morning was mostly cloudy.

Temperatures averaged 4 degrees below normal. High averaged 71.4 degrees or 7.7 below normal. High reading for the week was 80 degrees last Thursday. The day of the big rain, Monday, the mercury only got up to a cool 60 degrees. Lows averaged 53.5 degrees or only .3 degree below normal. The low reading for the week was 52 degrees last Fridav.

RAGING WATERS appeared where normally placid rivers and streams wind through Garrett County, as demonstrated by the swollen Yough at the Herrington Manor bridge. A total of 4.17 inches of rainfall fell Sunday and Monday, heaviest rainfall recorded in that length of time for many years.

Straight Talk About Aging

EVERYBODY'S DISEASE

"Everybody's disease."

That's what people have called arthritis — and with good reason: arthritis is one of Maryland's most wide-spread chronic diseases.

And, even though it is not exclusively a disease of the elderly (the very young get it, too), arthritis does affect more than 25 per cent of all individuals over 65. Most people have only hazy, often incorrect, ideas of what the disease is and does.

Some of those misconceptions can be dangerous, especially the ones that lead people to think that arthritis is not a serious disease. It is. One form of it — rheumatoid — is so serious that it can cripple and grotesquely disfigure its victim if not treated in time.

The word arthritis means "inflammation of a joint." Granted, that's a pretty broad definition. It's broad enough, in fact, to include gout and rheumatism, which are, believe it or not, forms of arthritis.

In addition to gout, the most common varieties of arthritis are osteoarthritis, lupus arthritis, and the above-mentioned rheumatoid arthritis.

Osteoarthritis is the most widespread form of the disease. Relatively mild and rarely inflammatory, it is largely a matter of wear and tear within the joints. Most often, it comes with age. As the Arthritis Foundation points out, "Everyone gets at least a touch of it sooner or later if he lives long enough."

Lupus arthritis attacks the body's connective tissues, which are the main constituents of tendons, ligaments and cartilage. It can also inflame, change, and damage such organs as the kidneys, heart and lungs. Often it affects the skin, sometimes causing a butterfly-shaped rash on the face.

The most destructive and disabling form of arthritis is rheumatoid. It can strike suddenly and progress rapidly to a seriously damaging stage. More often, however, it comes on subtly and deceptively. The symptoms appear for a few days and then go away — only to come back later, a little worse. Rheumatoid arthritis usually invades more than one joint, causing them to stiffen, swell, and become tender. Full motion is difficult and painful. Typically, the aching and soreness are at their worst in the morning, upon rising. During periods of rheumatoid inflammation, real damage is done to the affected joints. Protective membranes and cartilage can eventually be worn away, allowing scar tissue to form between bone ends. When that happens, the joint becomes fused, permanently rigid and immovable.

Such damage does not have to occur. With prompt and proper treatment, it can most often be avoided. Let me emphasize those words prompt and proper.

One of the worst features about arthritis is the quackery that surrounds it. Amulets. Potions. Quick cures. Special diets. Those things are expensive — they cost their victims $408 million every year — and there is no evidence that they work. They can't. They do not impact on the disease process nor are they related to the potential causes.

Again in the words of the Arthritis Foundation: "When you get Hong Kong flu, you expect to get over it. When you get arthritis, you've got to make keeping it under control a way of life."

And, in most cases, it can be kept under control — but only the proper medical supervision and a treatment program that typically includes medication, rest, "quiet" exercise, splints, heat, and good posture.

That other word I wanted to emphasize was prompt. Early detection of arthritis is vitally important. Because the average victim waits up to four years before seeking medical care for arthritis, many people are crippled needlessly. The damaging effects of the disease can be reduced significantly by treatment begun early. The late effects of the disease can rarely be reversed by treatment

What are the symptoms of the disease? There are several:

1. Persistent pain and stiffness on arising in the morning.
2. Pain, tenderness or swelling in one or more joints.
3. Recurrence of the symptoms, especially when they involve more than one joint
4. Persistent pain and stiffness in the neck or lower back.
5. Tingling sensations in the fingertips, hands and feet.

Should you develop the symptoms of "everybody's disease" — and there is a high probability that you will — it is advisable to consult with your physician.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir

In last week's Republican an article reported the success of the Garrett County participants in the Maryland Special Olympics at Towson. When a contingent of 24 competitors returns with a total of 27 medals in a statewide meet, it speaks well for the caliber of our local athletes. It also says something about their training.

Much of the credit for their success goes to the tireless efforts of Mrs. Dorothy Leuba who has been training coordinator for the Special Olympics in the county schools for the past three years. Others who have worked tirelessly in the program at the Adult Activities Center are Jody Bennett and Rick DeWitt. The enthusiasm and dedication of these people have been a source of inspiration to the other trainers and to the participants.

The article mentioned that the trip was financed in part by Garrett Community College. This is only part of the story. Every year the Student Government Association has voted to support the Special Olympics, and college students have helped to train the Special Education students for their participation. The SGA assumes the entire cost of the local meet, as well as the costs of transporting the school participants and their chaperones to the meet in Towson. This year GCC students Jeanne Gilbert, Scott Hollingsworth, Nancy Meyers, Jonn Hutt, and Cathy Paugh gave many hours of their time for this training.

Many other GCC students and faculty members volunteer their time to be judges, timers, and scorekeepers. It is a major effort for one of the smallest community colleges in Maryland, and still the only one to sponsor a Special Olympics program.

I feel that we owe a big "thank you" to all those who have made it possible for some very special people to experience the thrill of competition.

Sincerely,
Joan B. Crawford,
Faculty Coordinator,
Special Olympics

Sir

In last week's issue Mr. Reed, Test Systems, Accident, attacked Hubert Friend for a statement to the effect that "Industries that have to depend upon our taxpayers to buy the land and build the facilities to put them in business are apt to become a liability instead of an asset." This is a sound statement and a fact. Mr. Reed has no good reason for taking offense.

The high cost of the Accident plant that Mr. Reed is using has resulted from the fact that the location and construction was managed by free spending public officials. They, of course, were spending the taxpayers' money, not their own. They paid more than the market price for the land, and they constructed a building much too large for any occupant that employs not over twenty people. Most of the time not over four or five local people have been employed. The expenditure of $300,000 dollars was not justified. As Hubert Friend stated, $100,000 would have met the requirements.

As taxpayers we strongly oppose spending more of our tax dollars to buy land at Crellin, Grantsville, and additional land at Accident for more so called industrial parks. If this Board of Commissioners is permitted to do so we will all pay dearly.

Let us maintain a climate that will induce sound business people to come in here and choose their own land and establish their places of business out in the country where they can negotiate with private land owners. Then the people will be free and they will find employment with sound business men who will stand on their own feet. Only when we get business people who will invest their own money can we expect to get sound business that will be a real asset to our county.

Clifford Friend

Dear Editor,

When I turned on my radio earlier last week to the local station to catch the morning news, as I usually do, I noticed a young, unfamiliar voice reading the news stories. I turned the radio up and paid closer attention, to find out who the voice belonged to. For a moment, I thought the old radio quiz show "Name That Voice" was being broadcast again. But to my surprise, another announcer spoke up and introduced the mystery guest as his nine-year-old son. I was rather irritated by this, as I had tuned in specifically to hear news...not "Kiddie's Korner". One day should have sufficed the child's curiosity of radio. But for quite a few days following, the boy remained on the air. I see no need for the youngster to be on. If Mr. Butscher were babysitting, his son could have waited in an outer office, or even in the studio...but silently. I am one of many listeners who is interested in hearing news in the morning, but not read by a nine-year-old boy. Perhaps if this opinion is brought to Mr. Butscher's attention, he may realize that his listeners are irritated, not charmed, by his actions.

Sincerely,
L. K. Hall,
McHenry, Md.

Four Injured

leg area of the woman. Tfc. D. H. Riggleman made the report.

In other week-end accidents, those involved escaped injury.

Barbara Ann Lenhart, Salisbury, Pa., was northbound on U. S. 219, north, just a mile north of U. S. 40 about 6:20 Saturday evening. She had pulled into the southbound lane to pass a slow moving vehicle. As she got into the southbound lane, she noticed a vehicle approaching, at what she judged, was a more high rate of speed. She hit her brakes too hard as she turned into the northbound lane, slid onto the shoulder, off the road into a mailbox and then struck an embankment. Sgt. H. W. Graham made no charges.

A car-pick-up collision occurred on the Mattingly Hill road at First Street, Friendsville last Thursday afternoon. Richard K. Meyers, RD 1, Friendsville, was driving north of Mattingly Hill road. Carol J. Ross, Star Route Friendsville, in a pick-up, had stopped at First Street but failed to see the Meyers car, pulled out and struck it in the side. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland investigated.

A mechanical failure caused a minor mishap at the intersection of Youghiogheny Drive and M Street in Mt. Lake Park, Sunday morning about 10 o'clock. Charles E. Ahern, Q Street, Mt. Lake Park, was traveling south on M Street. Victor D. Nazelrod, Jr., westbound on Youghiogheny Drive, attempted to stop but on applying his brakes discovered they would not respond. Nazelrod then continued on through the intersection, struck the Ahern car and a mailbox before coming to rest. Tfc. L. C. Smith made the investigation.

Two minor mishaps occurred at the intersection of Md. 135 at Foodland.

Friday just before midnight, David R. Shaffer, RD 1, Swanton and Randall T. Clemons, RD 4, Deer Park, were both westbound on Rt. 135. Shaffer had been stopped for a red light and had just started to move forward when his car was struck in the rear by the Clemons car. Tfc. J. E. Foley investigated.

The following morning Frank W. Antkievicz, Baltimore and Frederick R. Strasser, Sewickley, Pa., were westbound on Rt. 135. Strasser attempted to move to the right turn lane and struck the other car already in the right lane, causing minor damage. Tfc. L. N. Smith investigated.

Late last Thursday night one man escaped injury when he apparently fell asleep while driving west on Sang Run Road near Hoyes Run Road. The pick-up driven by John F. Ashley, Jr., Star Route 1, Oakland, ran off the road into a creek and struck a stump. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated.

Soyuz 30 Safely Returns To Earth

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Polish and Russian cosmonauts aboard the Soyuz 30 space capsule returned safely to earth today, ending their eight-day mission in space.

Cosmonauts Pyotr Klimuk of the Soviet Union and Miroslaw Hermaszewski of Poland made a soft landing in their space capsule 186 miles west of Tselinograd in Soviet Kazakhstan, the Tass news agency reported.

The Soviet agency said Klimuk and Hermaszewski were in good condition after their return.

They were launched into space June 27 and the following day linked up with the two Soyuz 29 cosmonauts who were already aboard the Salyut 6 space lab.

According to Tass the Soyuz 30 undocked from the space lab at 1:15 p.m. (6:15 a.m. EDT) today for the return voyage.

LAST CHANCE — History buffs might want to preserve the old Garrett County jail in a photograph because demolition crews are making steady progress with the old structure. The outdated building is being replaced by a modern complex that is more comfortable, efficient and secure. The prisoners are being housed in the Allegany County jail awaiting completion of the new complex.

Thomas Dabney Candidate For State's Attorney

Thomas B. Dabney, Jr. has announced his candidacy for State's Attorney for Garrett County for the fall elections. He has filed as a Democratic candidate.

Mr. Dabney has been involved in the private practice of law in Oakland since 1972. In 1974, he ran as the Democratic candidate for the office of State's Attorney against Ralph M. Burnett.

Prior to his admission to the Maryland Bar, Mr. Dabney attended the John Marshall Law School, Chicago, Illinois, where he received his Juris Doctor degree in June, 1972. He also attended Villanova University, graduating in 1966 with a BA degree.

Mr. Dabney is an active member and past president of the Garrett County Bar Association; he is also a member of the Maryland State Bar Association and the American Bar Association, and the Garrett County Democratics State Central Committee. He attends St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church and is presently serving as a member of the Parish Council. He is a member of the Fraternal Order of Police, Western Lodge No. 99 and also serves as the attorney for the Lodge.

Mr. Dabney makes his home in Mountain Lake Park with his wife, Dayle, and their two daughters, Erin and Shannon. Mrs. Dabney was formerly employed as a kindergarten teacher at Friendsville and Oak Street.

Corrections Noted For Drug Article

An article concerning drug cases in last week's Republican stated that in a case under investigation on Devil's Half Acre Road, the daughter of a nearby family had reported the incident. This statement was incorrect and had in fact never been made to the police.

In the same article, it was stated that the landlord of an apartment building in Loch Lynn had advised the police that a tenant was selling drugs. This statement was also incorrect, and an apology is offered by the local police detachment.

Lutherans believe . . .
IN HOLY BAPTISM OF INFANTS

Infant baptism reveals the grace of God in a remarkable way. Read on if that phrase 'the grace of God' bewilders you!

When an infant is baptized, the child isn't aware of what happens. There can be no appreciation, not even a smile or a spoken 'thank you.' Helpless, the baby has absolutely nothing to offer God.

Yet God comes to the infant and gives himself. He makes this tiny human being his child. He gives eternal life through Jesus Christ. He who is the sovereign ruler of the endless stretches of the universe comes in love to one small person.

This is the grace of God - his kindness and concern for us who do not deserve his mercy or his affection. To us who can give God nothing he gives everything. For this world, God gave his Son.

Baptism like Holy Communion is a sacrament. It is God giving while man receives. It is a channel which Christ established.

Baptism is a way by which God bestows his love. Certainly God wants infants to know his mercy. No one has any right to say that babies are to be left out. "Let the children come to me, and do not hinder them . . . Whoever does not receive the Kingdom like a child shall not enter . . . Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them . . ."

Lutherans baptize babies in order that they may share God's forgiving love and enter the Kingdom of his Son, Jesus Christ.

Would you like to know more of this confessional and ecumenical church? A cordial welcome will be yours.

State Route 135 — Oakland, Md. — Mid-Towns Plaza Phone 334-9457

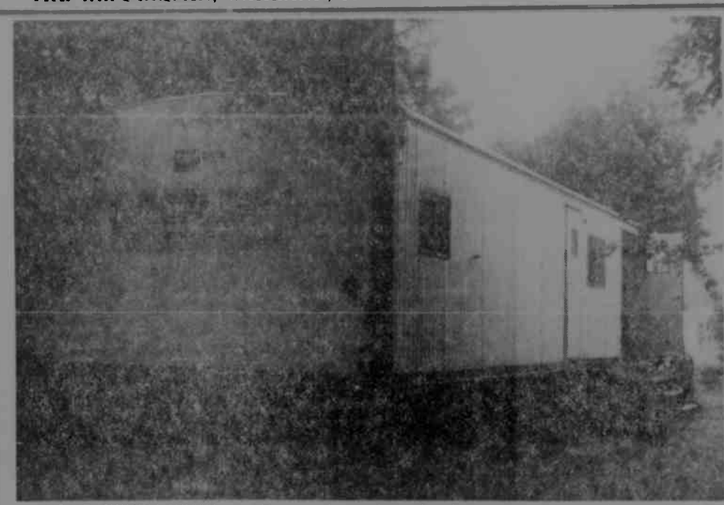
IMPROVED VIEW — Garrett Countians will soon be able to visit the beautiful plaza that will top the new courthouse complex. The plaza and complex, which were designed by a Pittsburgh architectural group, will be landscaped with flowers, shrubbery and benches to highlight the existing courthouse. The courthouse itself will be cleaned next summer so that the bricks on it and the new structure will match. The entire structure was paid for by a 3.4 million dollar Federal Economic Development Corporation Grant, with the balance paid by Federal Revenue Sharing monies and the sale of surplus county property on Rt. 219. As County Administrator, Marshall Rickert, points out, "This is one of the few facilities of this type in Maryland that was paid for the day it was occupied." The new facilities are expected to open August 1



HOME SWEET HOME — After much moving, cleaning, reorganizing and relocating, the Garrett County Sheriff and his staff finally settled into this mobile office on the corner of Oak and Fourth Streets, Oakland BUILT LIKE A FORTRESS — Workmen continue to demolish the old Garrett County jailhouse, but their work goes slowly because the jail is more substantially constructed than most buildings. Many of the fixtures and furniture from the building were auctioned last Saturday. The building is being torn down to make room for the rear office complex that will extend behind the courthouse.

LET THE SUN SHINE IN — This workman is putting the finishing touches to a wall directly below one of the plaza skylights that will illuminate the new Garrett County jail. The skylights will be enclosed in mirrored amber glass to allow the inmates to look out, but prevent the public from looking in.

AMA HEALTH TIPS

SAFETY GUIDELINES WILL SAVE SWIMMERS

As the outdoor swimming season approaches, the safety experts predict with certainty that some thousands of Americans will drown in the coming summer months.

They will drown in swimming pools, in lakes and streams, at ocean beaches. Some will drown while in for a refreshing dip, and others will fall out of boats and off docks and piers.

Many, if not most, of these drownings need not happen.

The American Medical Association offers some basic safety rules that will help to avoid a tragic water accident for your family.

Learn to swim, and to relax in the water.

Never swim alone.

Do not swim when overly tired or when the water is extremely cold.

Do not overestimate your ability and endurance.

Swim at protected pools or beaches under the supervision of a trained lifeguard.

If a boat overturns, stay with it. Don't try to swim a long distance to shore.

Never dive into waters of unknown depth.

Try new activities, such as water skiing or scuba diving, only after learning the skills from qualified instructors.

Many families will do most of their swimming this season in private pools, in their own backyards or in those of a friend or neighbor. There also are some special safety precautions for private pools.

Make certain the pool is kept clean and the water chemically purified.

Walk, don't run, about the pool. Horseplay is dangerous.

Fence the pool and keep the gate locked to keep out small children.

Keep handy rescue equipment, such as long poles and ring buoys.

Keep bottles and glasses away from the concrete or metal pool deck.

Traffic Deaths Total 795 Over Holiday Weekend

A count by United Press International at 7 a.m. EDT today showed at least 634 persons had been killed in traffic deaths since the holiday weekend began at 6 p.m. local time Friday. The counting period ended at midnight Tuesday but reports from some states were not complete.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic 634, Drownings 140, Planes 21. Total 795.

California led all states with 68 traffic deaths, followed by Texas with 44. Illinois recorded 29. New York had 26, Florida 24, Georgia 22, Arizona 21 and Indiana and Alabama 20.

Household Hints

Potomac Edison Home Service Representative

Keep Cool...But

Sure it's hot. No argument.

But...in this time of energy shortages and high utility bills there are ways to cut back on power use, thus keeping bills as low as possible.

As we've mentioned before, all energy-using devices have an energy-saving position on the controls. It's called OFF. This summer, avoid air conditioning if you can. Many people complain of summer colds that never seem to go away. Ask them if they have tried turning their air conditioners off.

Make sure that all windows open so that you may benefit from seasonally cooler weather.

Keep windows shaded to prevent solar heating.

Close off areas not used in the summer.

If you must have air conditioning, install units in occupied spaces only and avoid use when the weather is tolerable.

Use dehumidifiers rather than air conditioners when possible to save on energy.

Grantsville Downed By Victory Post

A five-run second inning sparked a 12-2 victory by the Victory Post over visiting Grantsville last Wednesday in a Mountain District Junior Legion game.

Victory Post's Rusty Metcalfe scattered four hits over nine innings and Holly Martin tallied a two-run homer and a pair of singles while Randy Cirillo had a perfect four-for-four evening at the plate.

Nesslerod, Thorne, Lewis and Sullivan each had one hit for the Grantsville team.

Metcalfe fanned five and walked a pair as he took the win. Simms was slated with the loss for Grantsville.

Local Driver Wins Feature Saturday

Veteran stock car driver Red Frederick, from Mt. Lake Park, returned to the track Saturday, and ran away with the feature race for semi-late models at Morgantown Raceway.

Red, driving the car for Randy McCartney, also of Mt. Lake Park, took the lead early and never relinquished the number one spot. Randy drove the car in the heat race and had come in third.

Other local drivers did not fare as well. Frank Lewis, Oakland, finished second in the late model heat race and eighth in the feature. Bob Arsenberger, driving a semi-late car for Dewey Wakefield, Friendsville, finished first in the heat but did not finish the feature due to car problems.

Bob Hershman, Deep Creek, finished second in the heat for semi-lates, and fifth in the feature.

OLD GLORY — A parade of flags and banners opened the first annual rodeo held last Saturday and Sunday at Western Trails Campgrounds. An enthusiastic crowd turned out despite cloudy weather and watched both local and out-of-state competitors participate in bull riding, team roping, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding and calf roping. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was on hand to pick up the pieces; there were few injuries - just some bruised egos.

SEND IN THE CLOWNS — Although these two comical characters delight audiences with their antics, they serve another purpose in protecting the bronc and bull riders. Because the bulls will charge their upended riders only the clown can help him. Men on horses are useless - the bull will charge them and the horses spook. The clown's courage and anticipation of what the bull will do makes him a necessity to the rodeo circuit.

WELL I'LL BE HOG TIED — After the cowboy comes off his horse running he throws the calf by hand. The calf may be downed either by "legging" - using a foreleg as a lever to trip him over - or by "Flanking" - picking the animal up bodily and laying him on his side. Then the cowboy quickly gathers three legs and ties them with a light rope called a "pigging string" which is carried either in his mouth or tucked in his belt. Then he signals completion by raising both hands.

NO HITCH HIKERS — The rodeo clowns caused quite a commotion with their souped up German import. Their intermission performance provided a welcome rest for the tired cowboys.

TAKING A TUMBLE — This rider had his hopes dashed and several other parts of his anatomy bruised, when he was thrown a few seconds out of the gate. In bareback bronc riding, it's not whether you win, but how you play the game - just getting on the horse is a supreme test of bravery.

DOES THIS THING HAVE SEATBELTS? — The eight-second bareback ride is confusing because sometimes a cowboy's wild spurring appears to be simply showing off, while in fact, the rhythm of a man's legs on his horse is all that keeps the rigging - a hand-hold on the surcingle - from being torn out of his hand. The bareback rider throws his feet forward in time with the horse's jumps, and at the same time this motion keeps his seat close to his riding hand. He's well aware that once he slips away from the handhold he's on the launching pad. The further back he gets on a high-kicking horse the further out he is on the catapult. Also the cowboy who has his riding arm straightened invariably winds up having his clenched riding hand jerked open. Rules require the rider's dulled spurs be over the break of the horse's shoulders when the animal lands the first jump out of the chute. Some bareback broncs wheel out almost as quickly as the gate can be jerked open and the cowboy has a hard time keeping that outside foot where it is required to be. The judges are looking for the horse that gives the rider the most trouble for the full eight seconds. Onlookers when hearing the score often are mystified because the bronc who threw a spectacular "whingding," perhaps several times, wasn't marked higher. They failed to take into consideration that for some of the eight seconds, the horse in the judges' opinion wasn't difficult to stay on. Pictured above, Danny Hull of Terra Alta, does his best to stay aboard. He turned in a good ride and cleverly dismounted right over a fence. It's hard to believe that during the week, Danny is an employee of the First National Bank of Terra Alta. What a way to spend a weekend!

A LOT OF BULL — The most popular rodeo riding event and the most dangerous, is bull riding. Many of the big crossbred Brahmas go a whole season without being ridden the required eight seconds. This one looked quite docile - out of the ring.

More Motorcycle Mishaps Noted

Four motorcycle mishaps have been noted in the past two weeks in various parts of the county.

The operator of one cycle was taken to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by the Northern Rescue Squad. Robert A. Yutzy, 18, Springs, Pa., was traveling West on U. S. 40 just east of U. S. 219, north. He stated fog and rain had clouded his face shield and he could not see. Yutzy further stated he started to pull off the roadway, ran into dirt caused by rushing water and lost control of the cycle. He was thrown from the vehicle in the accident which occurred shortly before 11 p.m. Tfc. Gary Resh investigated.

The previous afternoon, Robert Louis Humberson, Carteret, N. J., was injured as he was driving north on Md. 42 just south of Gap Run road in the Hoyes area. Humberson could not give a reason for running off the road onto the right shoulder. He went into a ditch at the edge of the black top, washed out by water, which caused him to lose control the cycle, and overturned. Tfc. R. C. Georg made the investigation.

The other two motorcycle mishaps occurred June 21, with loose material blamed for both wrecks.

About 4:20 in the afternoon, Richard Charles Wilson, 37, RD 1, Swanton, was attempting to make a U-turn on Md. 135 about a mile east of Bloomington Hill road. The cycle overturned when it hit some loose material, trapping the operator under it. Wilson was taken to the Potomac Valley Hospital by the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad. Tfc. L. R Rosage made the investigation.

Later the same evening, Michael Jude Smith, Rockwood, Pa., was thrown from his vehicle and taken to the Meyersdale Community Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad. Smith was northbound on U. S. 219 just north of Accident about 10:40 p.m. He said his vehicle struck some loose material on the roadway and caused him to lose control of the cycle. He then struck a sign post and grape arbor after he left the roadway. Rain had apparently washed the material onto the roadway. Tfc. Resh investigated this one also.

Scouts Attend Camp Potomac

Camp Potomac, the summer camp operated by Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, near Oldtown, has opened for its 28th year according to William L. Gardner, Keyser, Council Camping and Activities Chairman.

The Camp will operate for four more weeks, Mr. Gardner said, and urged Scoutmasters who have not made reservations to do so as quickly as possible. Each Troop selects the date they prefer to come to Camp. The Camp week starts after lunch on Sunday and ends the following Saturday noon. Parents are urged to visit Camp on Wednesday evening for the special campfire program.

Provisions have been made this year for Scouts to attend Camp individually even though their troop does not attend, Mr. Gardner said. Also Scouts may return for the second and third week of Camp without their leader and become a member of a provisional troop.

Eric Bruner of the Council Professional Staff is Camp Director assisted by Robert W. Rephan, also on the Council Staff, as Program Director. They have numerous assistants to offer Scouts an outstanding program in boating, canoeing, swimming, marksmanship, archery, scout craft skills, and handi-craft.

Troop 68, St. John's Episcopal Church, with Rev. John Grant as Scoutmaster, Charles Hardesty, Kenneth Pierce, Marshall Godwin, Kenneth DeWitt, Terry Roth, and Darryl Tasker.

Potomac Council serves youth in Allegany and Garrett Counties in Maryland, and Hampshire, Hardy, Grant, and Mineral Counties in West Virginia and is a participating agency of the County United Way.

Correction

It was incorrectly stated in the story about the death of Dennis Evans in last week's edition of The Republican that Roy C. McCrobie is the owner of Nayburlee Farm along Route 495 south of Bittinger.

The farm is actually the property of Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. McCrobie.

Maryland Police Solve 24% Of Crimes Last Year

On the average, Maryland police solved one out of every four crimes committed in Maryland last year.

According to the annual report released by the State Police, 24 per cent of the 235,902 reported crimes were cleared through the arrest of a suspect. The National average for clearing crime is 21 per cent. The highest clearance rate for any serious crime was for murder, where 83 per cent of the investigations were solved. The lowest clearance rate was for larceny-theft where police solved 19 per cent of the cases.

The highest concentration of age groups for persons arrested for murder, forcible rape and aggravated assault was the 25 to 29 age group.

The other serious crime categories all recorded juveniles as the largest group arrested which included 16 year olds arrested for robberies, motor vehicle thefts and breaking or entering. The thirteen to fourteen year olds were charged with larceny-theft.

Property stolen in Maryland during 1977 represents a loss of $79,744,424; a two per cent increase over the 1976 figure. Thirty four per cent of this property was recovered, representing a total loss of $52,484,411 to victims in Maryland.

A total of 3,335 law enforcement officers in Maryland were victims of assault in the line of duty during 1977, as compared to 3,284 assaults during 1976, resulting in a 1.6 per cent increase.

Physical force was used in 82.9 per cent of all assaults on police officers. Disturbance calls provided the setting for 38.5 per cent of the assaults.

Last year there were four police officers killed in the line of duty. A Charles County Deputy Sheriff and an Anne Arundel County Police Officer were killed in traffic accidents. A Baltimore County Police Officer was shot and killed after responding to a disturbance call and a Maryland State Trooper was gunned down after stopping a suspicious motor vehicle.

X-Ray Patients To Undergo Exam For Cancer Signs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Michael Reese Hospital officials are looking for about 2,000 former X-ray patients who have been asked to undergo an examination for possible signs of cancer.

The officials say less than 25 per cent of the more than 5,000 patients have contacted the hospital in the last four years.

The patients underwent X-ray treatments of the neck as children in the 1940s and 1950s. In recent years, however, researchers have linked the radiation treatments with cancer of the thyroid.

In January, 1974, the hospital sent notices to 5,266 former patients on which records were intact asking them to undergo an examination.

Only 1,476 patients have returned for the examination, said Dr. Arthur B. Schneider, head of the recall effort. About one-third of them were found to have thyroid nodules and about one third of nodules were cancerous. Salivary gland tumors also were found in 17 patients.

It is estimated that 1 million to 4 million Americans received neck X-rays when they were the accepted treatment to reduce the size of tonsils and for other neck and chest conditions.

"Anybody who has had irradiation of the neck should tell this to his doctor so the thyroid and parotid glands may be checked," said Schneider.

Doctor Questions FDA Rules For Liquid Protein

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It's the way liquid protein is used — not the product itself — which caused the deaths of some people using the protein diet to lose weight rapidly, according to the doctor who developed it.

Dr. Robert Linn, author of the "Last Chance Diet" and originator of the widely copied cherry-flavored liquid called Pro-Linn, said "Obesity is a chronic, debilitating disease for which there is no cure."

"It is unfortunate that the recent Food and Drug Administration allegations regarding liquid protein products have constrained one of the most effective methods of obtaining a remission in this chronic disease," he said.

FDA said it has on hand 58 reported deaths of people who used the liquid protein fast technique. After investigation, 16 have been ruled to be associated with the diet. The rest are either still under investigation or have been found due to other causes.

"None of the subsequent investigations have lessened our concern about the use of liquid protein," an FDA spokesman said. "We still intend to require warning and are working on the final language."

A position paper released by Robert Linn Medical Associates concludes the bulk of the deaths probably were caused by a lack of potassium — a micronutrient Linn and other backers of the diet had contended all along was essential and made medical supervision of the diet a must.

"The protein products themselves are not at fault," the paper said. "A more important factor appears to be the correct use of the process and the adequacy of the use of associated micronutrients."

Linn's statement said it would be unfortunate if the protein therapy were abandoned in "fear that in careless hands, it can be a dangerous procedure."

"Any severely calorie-restricted diet — particularly if it is sustained for a prolonged period of time — must be medically supervised and monitored for potential nutritional imbalances," his statement said.

Linn's analysis was based on a review of the 44 reported deaths FDA was investigating when it began warning the public about the potential dangers of unsupervised use of the products.

The FDA spokesman said a tentative final order for warning labels, with a chance for additional public comment, will be issued in a matter of weeks.

The warning will stress the importance of a doctor's supervision for those undertaking the diet.

Husbands Unlikely To Seek Help For Spouse's Alcoholism

NEW YORK (UPI) — A report shows that women alcoholics are less likely to be treated than men because their drinking trouble is less visible and far fewer husbands than wives seek help for their spouses.

Dr William R. Cunnick, Jr., president of the New York City Affiliate of the National Council on Alcoholism, in releasing the 64-page report, said a two-year study by his organization revealed a special problem in getting women alcoholics into treatment.

According to Cunnick, the study of 4,000 people who contacted the affiliate for help for their drinking problems in 1976 and 1977 showed 88 percent of the calls made by spouses for their mates came from women, compared to only 12 percent from men.

"Males are ashamed to inquire in behalf of females close to them because alcohol abuse is not considered by society to be admissible feminine behavior," Cunnick told a news conference at the affiliate's headquarters.

He said the study showed Hispanic women are even less likely to get help because of "even more drastic ethnic cultural stigmas than prevail in (American) society as a whole."

The internist noted that drinking among women is often linked to sexual promiscuity. "That is a myth," he said. "Usually female alcoholics are not sexually inclined."

Cunnick also noted that while male alcoholics often are motivated to seek help because of the effect their drinking has on their jobs, women drinkers can "disappear behind the kitchen curtain of secret home drinking."

He praised former first lady Betty Ford for coming "forward and admitting she has a problem with drink and pills." He called Mrs. Ford's forthrightness a "breakthrough" for women who want to seek help for similar problems.

Three Dead As Tornadoes Rip Through Dakotas

By United Press International

Tornadoes ripped through parts of the Dakotas today, leaving at least three persons dead, downing power lines and destroying homes and buildings.

The worst of the twisters hit in Elgin, N.D., late Tuesday. Three persons were killed and as many as 40 injured in the town of 893 persons in the southwestern part of the state.

Jim Hanson, administrator of the Jacobs Memorial Hospital in Elgin, said he was on weather watch when he saw "a lot of wind in the clouds" in the western sky. Shortly later, sirens sounded.

Hanson said he went home and spotted the funnel cloud a block away as soon as he parked his car.

"I could see it swirling," he said. My wife, myself and the three sons, we went into the southwest corner.

About 30 seconds later the whole house was gone," he said. "It was just unbelievable, the rumbling and twisting."

Other tornadoes tore through south-central North Dakota and southeastern South Dakota. In a small area southwest of Bismark, N.D., large hail and three tornadoes were sighted. The twisters touched down in Mott, Carson and Antelope. Glen Ullin, N.D., west of Bismark, was pelted with golf ball-sized hail.

In South Dakota, thunderstorms erupted over the southeast corner of the state producing more twisters. In an area west of Sioux Falls, tornadoes were sighted at Renner, Mitchell, Springfield and Lindy.

The strong thunderstorms from the Dakotas were moving into Minnesota, where there were reports of large hail.

The weather was peaceful elsewhere in the nation. Only a few showers persisted over the Carolinas. A few light showers continued over western Montana.

Skies were partly cloudy across the nation. Temperatures were in the 50s in New England and the Pacific Northwest. The South, Southwest and much of the Plains were still near 80.

FBI To Pay Ten Thousand For Cubans Arrest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI will pay $10,000 each for information leading to the arrest of two Cuban exiles being hunted in connection with the 1976 slaying of former Chilean Defense Minister Orlando Letelier.

FBI spokesman Dave Cassens said Tuesday "up to $10,000 has been authorized for payment to individuals" who help find either Jose Dionisio Suarez or Virgilio Paz.

The FBI considers the two armed and dangerous.

Cassens said rewards are not normally offered by the FBI but "it is a known fact we do pay for information."

Three anti-Castro colleagues of the two men already have been arrested, along with American Michael Townley, on federal charges of conspiracy to murder a foreign diplomat.

Letelier was jailed and then exiled after the military coup that overthrew the Marxist government of Salvador Allende in 1973. He was working for a Washington "think tank," the Institute for Policy Studies, when the car he was riding in was blown up by remote control. A colleague, Ronni Moffitt also was killed.

Evidence turned up by prosecutors has linked the killing to the Chilean secret police.

Earthquake Shakes Desert Community

SALONICA,Greece (UPI) — A strong earth tremor rocked Salonica early today, just two weeks after an earlier quake left 50 dead and more than 120 injured.

Authorities said one elderly man in the nearby village of Langada died of a heart attack and 16 persons in the northern area were injured.

"It would have been very much worse if so many people had not already left the city after the other earthquake," a police spokesman said.

The spokesman said there were scenes of panic when the quake, measuring 5 on the open-ended Richter scale, struck at 1:30 a.m. (6:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday).

He said many Salonica residents who had moved back into homes declared safe by city engineers fled the city to camp in the countryside again.

More than half a million of Salonica's 720,000 residents left their homes after the June 21 quake, which measured 6.5 on the Richter scale.

Byrd Assured Of Passage Of Energy Package

LONDON (UPI) — U.S. Senate majority leader Robert C. Byrd said today he had assured Prime Minister James Callaghan that President Carter's energy package will be approved by Congress before the end of the year.

Byrd also said he had reaffirmed to Caliaghan a U.S. pledge of continued support for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The West Virginia Democrat, stopping off in London during a tour of several Western European capitals on Carter's behalf, conferred with Callaghan for one hour at his No. 10 Downing St. office.

"I am visiting various European countries as an emissary for the president to assure the Europeans that we fully support NATO's long range defense plan drawn up at the recent Summit meeting," Byrd told UPI after meeting Callaghan.

"I told the prime minister we are going to appropriate our share of the increased annual defense spending," Byrd said, "and we are asking the Europeans to reciprocate with their own share of the annual three per cent increase agreed on in Washington."

"I did not have to talk at great length to the prime minister about this," Byrd added, "because the British have been very supportive."

"In my capacity as majority leader," Byrd said, "I was also able to assure the prime minister that Congress is not blocking the president's energy bill as many Europeans — and Americans too believe, and that it will be passed before the year is out."

Byrd said about 80 percent of the president's proposals have been approved in conference of the two houses.

ANIMALS SOUGHT HIGHER GROUND Monday afternoon as high water swirled around barns, pastures, cropland, and many homes. Many people attempting to return home Monday evening after work found their paths blocked by high water and road barricades placed by the county or state roads departments, but most were able to return home early Tuesday. The above scene depicts a portion off the Underwood Road, where corn valiantly struggled to keep its heads above water.

Memphis Firemen Return To Work

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Firemen and city officials resume contract negotiations today and authorities reported no unusual outbreaks of fires since the firemen returned to duty Tuesday.

More than 400 fires — many of them arson — broke out over the weekend during the firemen's three-day walkout.

Firefighters obeyed a court injunction ordering them back to work Tuesday morning. About 450 of the 1,400 members of the International Association of Firefighters Local 1784 returned on Independence day and the rest were due for shift changes today and Thursday.

"The men are going back to work reluctantly," said Kuhron Huddleston, president of the firefighters' union.

A two-day, overnight curfew was lifted by Mayor Wyeth Chandler when the firemen returned to work.

"We've had a very routine day. Nothing out of the ordinary," Fire Lt. Richard E. Daugherty said Tuesday night.

Officials reported nine major weekend fires. One of the worst was a two-block blaze in south Memphis that destroyed several businesses and prompted the evacuation of several hundred residents from a nearby housing project.

Another blaze gutted an entire block near a midtown entertainment center, wiping out nine buildings. Officials said more than 100 businesses were destroyed or damaged in weekend fires, but no major injuries were reported.

Several issues on the bargaining table when the negotiations were abruptly halted Friday were still to be settled, including a demand for extra compensation for 16 hours of the firefighters' 24-hour shifts.

Boarding Home Fire Kills Three Today

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI) — Three men were killed and another was critically injured early today in a fire apparently touched off by a cigarette in a boarding home, authorities said.

The victims — all residents of Lany's Guest House — were identified by police as Thomas Daquino, George Keen and John Brennon.

Another resident, Constantine Sheraves, 62, was reported in critical condition at St. Barnabus Hospital in Livingston with burns over 75 percent of his body.

Fire Inspector Daniel Mahoney said 20 persons, including the owner, were in the three-story home when the fire erupted at midnight.

Based on accounts by witnesses, Mahoney said, the blaze started in a mattress in Sheraves' second-floor bed room.

Mahoney said the flames raced out of the bedroom, through the hallway and up the stairwell to the third floor where the three dead men were found.

There was not a lot of structural damage. The fire burned through the hallway and up the stairway, but left the plaster walls behind the wood paneling intact."

Nine firefighters brought the blaze under control.

"Yippies" Hold "Smoke-in" To Protest Pot Lows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fourth of July fireworks didn't produce the only smoke floating through the nation's capital during the holiday.

Blue clouds drifted over the White House, the Lincoln Memorial and the Drug Enforcement Administration, produced by thousands of marijuana-puffing Yippies participating in the Youth International Party's 11th annual "smoke-in" to protest marijuana laws.

The Yippies generally were peaceful, but the situation threatened to turn violent at times Tuesday when 5,000 of them gathered at Lafayette Park across from the White House to listen to speakers call for repeal of marijuana laws, a halt to paraquat spraying and destruction of police records of marijuana offenders.

At one point, a barrage of bottles, water bags and cherry bombs were hurled at more than 100 policemen forming a "no-man's land" between the crowd and the White House. Mounted police charged the demonstrators, forcing them further back into the park, and officers donned tear gas masks.

But the crowd, which moments earlier had been making obscene gestures at the police, quickly began chanting "We want peace" and waving the peace sign. A tense calm was restored.

At least 17 were arrested during the day — most for disorderly conduct, with three on charges of selling narcotics and one or two for assault. But no one was arrested for openly smoking pot in defiance of the marijuana laws they were there to protest.

Arrests Mar Six-Hour Rock Concert

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (UPI) — A handful of arrests marred an otherwise peaceful six-hour holiday weekend rock concert at Rich Stadium headlined by Mick Jagger and the Rolling Stones.

More than 72,000 persons turned out for the concert, the largest crowd ever to see a concert at the stadium.

Deputies said 20 persons were arrested on drug-related charges and three others were hauled in on misdemeanor charges.

"It was the smoothest concert date so far on our tour," said Peter Rudge, the Rolling Stones manager.

John Wolf, the stage manager for the local promoters, said some trouble occured when the Stones did not perform an encore.

Promoter Harvey Weinstein of Harvey and Corkey Productions said "about 60 persons who didn't want to leave — they just wanted to hear more music" — and tried to climb over a pipe fence onto the nine-foot high platform.

At that point, guards from National Events Services, a private security firm, picked up two-by-fours to restrain the people, he added. But Wolf said the NES personnel were ordered by Harvey and Corkey's security, which was made up of several Buffalo police officers, to put the boards down.

Tremor Rocks Scene Of Earthquake Today

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — An earthquake registering 3.8 on the open-ended Richter scale shook the desert community of Palm Springs early today.

Police said they received about 50 telephone calls from residents jolted awake by the temblor at 3:49 a.m.

Seismologists at Caltech in Pasadena said the quake was centered in the desert about four miles north of Palm Desert.

"We felt the quake for about 10 or 15 seconds," a police spokesman said. "We had prisoners yelling and phones ringing. It was something."

There were no reports of damages or injuries.

Chris Evert Reaches Wimbledon Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UPI) — Chris Evert, avenging last year's defeat, wore down Britain's defending champon Virginia Wade 8-6, 6-2 today to reach the $45,000 singles final of the Wimbledon tennis championships for the fourth time in six years.

The 23 year-old top seed from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., beaten by Wade in the 1977 semis, conquered early center court nerves and an icy north wind to outlast the local favorite in an absorbing 87-minute duel which began to swing Evert's way late in the opening set.

Evert will face the winner of the other semi between second seed Martina Navratilova and third seed Evonne Cawley of Australia.

Both women had difficulty in holding their early services as the wind whipped through the court making the 12,000 spectators shiver. Evert gave way first when she netted a weak forehand in the fourth game to trail 1-3.

But Evert, champion in 1974 and 1976, broke back immediately and games then went with service until the 13th. Then the American put on the pressure, getting greater length behind her raking forehand drives and gaining the vital breakthrough with blistering double-fisted backhand passing shots to lead 7-6.

Evert then held her service to take the set and gain control, winning eight of the last 10 games.

Evert, cashing in when Wade missed easy volleys, broke her rival's next two serves to lead 4-1 and the match was virtually over.

But the 33 year-old champion, refusing to give up without a fight, produced two superb passing shots in the fifth game to break Everts's serve.

Evert remained ice cool, however, and it was Wade who showed signs of nerves, serving a double fault and hitting two loose shots to drop her serve yet again.

The American, serving for victory, got to match point with an acutely-angled forehand after a long drawn-out rally. Wade pulled back to 30-40 with a defiant backhand pass which skimmed the faded green center court surface.

But she only delayed the inevitable. On the next point, Wade overhit a powerful volley from Evert and it was all over. Wimbledon was looking for another champion.

Commission Of Jurists Protests Chemical Weapons In U.S. Prisons

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The International Commission of Jurists protested today against the use in U.S. prisons of what it called chemical weapons.

The Commission said the use of such weapons "appears to violate internationally established standards for the protection of prisoners."

"Chemical weapons are in widespread use in American prisons," the Commission said in an article in the June issue of its monthly Review.

It identified these weapons as chloracetophenone, commonly used in tear gas, mace and CN gas, and orthochorobenzal malononitrile, usually known as irritant gas or CS gas.

Despite a general belief to the contrary, the Commission said, these gases produce serious toxic effects.

"In several documented cases the use of gas in prison has resulted in death," it said.

The article, which was unsigned, said the gases are used against prisoners refusing to leave their cells or being disorderly in other ways and not only to control riots or against armed prisoners.

The commission is an independent, non-governmental organization of lawyers and judges. Dedicated to the rule of law and protection of human rights, it has consultative status with the United Nations.

Weekend Traffic Death Toll Passes Pre-Holiday Estimate

By United Press International

The traffic death toll for the long, Fourth of July weekend passed the 650 mark — the lower end of the National Safety Council's pre-holiday estimate — despite a nationwide effort to reduce speeding.

The Council had estimated between 650 and 750 persons could die in traffic accidents during the holiday weekend, which began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and ended at midnight Tuesday.

A count by United Press International today showed at least 673 persons were killed in holiday traffic accidents.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic 673
Drownings 160
Planes 21
Total 854

California reported 68 traffic deaths, Texas had 45, Illinois 29, New York and Florida each reported 26 and Missouri had 24.

No holiday traffic deaths were reported in Alaska, South Dakota, Vermont and the District of Columbia.

Law enforcement agencies in 44 states had tried to hold down accidents through Operation CARE, a cooperative effort to patrol interstate highways for speeders.

Charlie Smith, 136 Years Old And Still Kicking

BARTOW, FLA. (UPI) — Charlie Smith celebrated his 136th birthday Tuesday and said he still drinks as much booze as he can get and likes to smoke cigarettes, too.

And on special occasions a piece of cake is a nice change of pace for Charlie, who may really be the oldest man in the world as well as the United States.

Getting booze at the Bartow Convalescent Center, Charlie's home since 1972, can be a problem, of course. He solved it by refusing to take his vitamins until the staff agreed to provide a shot of rum to wash them down.

However, Charlie's preferred festive beverage is rye.

"I like to drink rye whiskey," said Smith, perched in his wheelchair. "I drink it neat and I smoke cigarettes. Nothing wrong with that."

At the Fourth of July party marking Charlie's record birthday, other residents of the nursing home sang and presented him with a birthday cake without candles.

Missonia Stephens, the center's activities director, said America's oldest man, nods off frequently and whose memory fades in and out, "was really sharp" for his birthday.

"I'm still growing" was Charlie's only comment — an apparent prediction that he expects to be around for the next Fourth of July.

Dr. Frederick Charatan, a geriatric psychiatrist who interviewed the bald, wizened man every day for a week, said he was astonished by Charlie's condition.

Charatan, of the Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center, in New Hyde Park, N. Y., said "It can be demonstrated that he is definitely 120 and, in all probability, it appears that he is close to 136."

Firecracker Incidents Injure Three Tuesday

By United Press International

A youth from Bayonne, N.J., suffered amputation of both hands, a New York teen-ager lost three fingers on one hand and another New York state resident lost parts of three fingers in separate firecracker incidents over the Independence Day holiday.

In Bayonne, police said 18-year-old Marcelo Errazura was handling a so-called "M-80" — which packs an explosive charge the equivalent of a quarter-stick of dynamite — in a friend's bedroom when it detonated, blowing off his right hand and three fingers on his left hand.

Doctors at Bayonne Hospital, where the youth was rushed late Monday, impaired the rest of the left hand.

Errazura was reported in fair condition today.

In New York City, 17-year-old Kenneth McCrorie lost three fingers on one hand Tuesday.

Police said McCrorie threw a "blockbuster" from a car being driven by a friend.

The firecracker bounced back into the car and exploded in the youth's hand as he attempted to throw it clear.

McCrorie was taken to Flushing Hospital where he was reported in satisfactory condition following surgery.

Three blockbusters are the equivalent of a full stick of dynamite, police said.

Police in Lewis County said Steven Howard, of Ava, N.Y., was with friends at Brantingham Lake Tuesday when a "blockbuster" he was holding blew up, tearing away parts of three fingers and burning his hand. He also suffered cuts on his face and neck.

Egypt Unveils Peace Outline

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egypt today unveiled the outline of a hard-line Middle East peace plan that promises to bring swift Israeli rejection and threaten resumption of direct peace negotiations in London later this month.

The plan calls for Israel to withdraw from the West Bank — including the ancient walled city of Jerusalem — and the Gaza Strip within five years. This would include dismantling all Jewish settlements in both territories.

After five years of temporary administration by Jordan and Egypt, the 1.1 million Palestinians Arabs living in both areas would be allowed to exercise the right of self-determination.

The Egyptian plan was presented by President Anwar Sadat to Vice President Walter Mondale Monday for relay to Israel. The full text will be released later today, after it reaches Israel, but highlights were published in early editions of Cairo newspapers.

As reported by the newspapers Al Ahram and Al Gomhouria, the outline does not specifically call for a sovereign Palestinian state, nor does it provide a role for the Palestine Liberation Organization by name.

Diplomats characterized the Egyptian plan as "tough," and noted sunilar ideas had been rejected by Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel last week.

"Israel is bound to oppose this scheme at the London conference — if it is ever held," one diplomat said.

Israel has agreed in principle to send Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to London to confer with his Egyptian counterpart, Ibrahim Kamel, and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance. But Begin deferred a final decision until he could "examine" Egypt's proposals.

BREAKFAST IN THE BAG was underway over the campfire for Girl Scouts at day camp last week. Bacon and then eggs are placed in a paper bag and cooked over an open fire. All goes well unless an unexpected flame shoots up to devour the bag, or the bag tears and drops contents into the coals. Other activities for the scouts during the week included swimming lessons, arts and crafts, and lessons in all phases of camping lore. For a successful breakfast ending, see below.

NOT BAD AT ALL seems to be the reaction of Chris Teets, brave Girl Scout who dared eat what she had cooked in a grab bag type of breakfast. Eggs and bacon combine to satisfy hungry outdoor appetites at Girl Scout camp or on any camping expedition.

Caution Urged With RTOR Law

Maryland's new right-turn-on-red law, which was passed a year ago by the General Assembly, became effective on July 1.

This law permits motorists to make a "universal" right turn on red after stopping at most signalized intersections. RTOR is banned by signs reading "No turn on red" at some intersections that have been considered by traffic engineers to be too dangerous for such turns.

The theory behind the new law is that it saves gasoline, reduces vehicle emissions and helps speed up traffic flow at intersections.

There have been some objections to right turn on red on safety grounds. Experience with RTOR in many states has shown that such turns are no more dangerous to drivers or pedestrians than right turn on green.

State Police Superintendent Thomas S. Smith urges all motorists to drive defensively right to yield the right of way to other vehicles and pedestrians and then to enter the intersection cautiously. Troopers will be ticketing motorists who violate this new law."

State Police and State Highway Administration officials urge drivers of motor vehicles and bikes, as well as pedestrians to follow these right-turn-on-red safe practices:

1. Come to a complete stop at the red light. Do not "roll" through the intersection.
2. If no sign prohibits a right turn, look both ways for traffic. If cross traffic is two directional, the primary concern is on the left. But also look to the right because of possible pedestrians and bicyclists.
3. Yield the right of way. Do not violate the rights of others such as pedestrians and vehicles turning left on an advance green light from the opposite direction.
4. Do not be pressured to turn by other motorists. You don't have to turn right on the red signal if you don't want to. Don't make a dangerous turn just because someone behind you is blowing their horn.
5. If you are driving through a green light be particularly observant for the possibility that someone might pull out in front of you from the right hand intersection street.

Motorists are reminded that although right-turn-on-red is permitted in states surrounding Maryland, it is still prohibited in the District of Columbia.

POET'S PODIUM

By Jim Willis

One of the cleverest poems ever written is by Catherine Fanshawe who wrote in the early 1900's. Her poem, "Enigma on the Letter H" is a riddle, and only the title gives it away.

Enigma On The Letter H

'Twas whispered in heaven, 'twas muttered in hell,
And echo caught faintly the sound as it fell:
On the confines of earth 'twas permitted to rest,
And the depths of the ocean its presence confessed;
'Twill be found in the sphere when 'tis riven asunder,
Be seen in the lightning, and heard in the thunder.
'Twas allotted to man with his earliest breath,
It assists at his birth and attends him in death,
Presides o'er his happiness, honor, and health,
Is the prop of his house and the end of his wealth,
In the heaps of the miser is hoarded with care,
But is sure to be lost in his prodigal heir,
It begins every hope, every wish it must bound,
It prays with the hermit, with monarchs is crowned;
Without it the soldier, the sailor, may roam,
But woe to the wretch who expels it from home.
In the whisper of conscience 'tis sure to be found,
Nor e'en the whirlwind of passion is drowned;
'Twill soften the heart, but, though deaf to the ear,
It will make it acutely and instantly hear;
But, in short, let it rest like a delicate flower;
Oh, breathe on it softly, it dies in an hour.

It was a kind of impertinence—building windmills. Man figured he could get God to do his heavy work for him.

And God did! He turned the grindstone, and smiled.

Man built his mill by a stream. God turned the millwheel, and smiled.

Later man built his electric power plant on a dam, and he started to dabble in nuclear power, and he invented the solar battery. And God is still doing man's work . . . and still smiling.

The important lesson is that God wants HIS POWER used constructively. And that power isn't all physical.

Start using God's spiritual power next Sunday. It comes with his smile.

HOW MUCH IS ENOUGH

Lesson for July 9, 1978

Background Scripture:
1 Thessalonians 4 through 5
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 13

What is it a church can never have too much of?

Money? No. I've known of churches that had too much money for their own good. Activities? No, there are churches that ought to have fewer instead of more of these. Ministers? No, we all know the truth of the old saying: "Too many cooks spoil the broth." Church suppers? No, and I don't even think I have to explain that one.

Rev. Althouse

What then? Well, I've never known a church that had too much love. I've never known of a church that was too concerned about people. I've never found a church that impoverished itself by giving too much or exhausted itself by caring too much. If ever a church has been harmed in any way by too much love, I have not heard of it nor seen it.

Do So More and More

Yet we often are tempted to think that there ought to be some limit to the demands that love places upon us. How much are we expected to love and give and share? Isn't there a saturation point we reach and then have to look after ourselves?

It might seem that there should be some limits to love's demands, yet Paul doesn't seem to think so (and he seemed to get his opinion on this from his Master whose love was limitless). Writing to the church at Thessalonica, Paul says:

But concerning love of the brethren you have no need that I should write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love one another; and indeed you do love all the brethren throughout Macedonia. (1Thessalonians 4:9)

That sounds like a rather good commendation, doesn't it. When it came to love, the Thessalonians seemed to be doing all right. Nevertheless, despite their good track record, Paul goes on to say, "But we exhort you, brethren, to do so more and more..."!

Command Respect

Weren't these fine people loving enough? No, no matter how much love poured forth from that congregation, Paul was asking for more. More love for each other. More love for outsiders. More sharing. More sacrificial service. In short: there would never be too much love in that church for love is the one commodity that we can never have in too great abundance.

The spiritual fellowship that abounds in Christian love is never free from demands upon it.

There is always someone in need. There is always a cause to be championed. There are always people to be fed and clothed and comforted. There are always prayers and intercessions needed. There are always helping hands to be given. And I never have known a church that got into trouble because it reached love's "point of diminishing return."

It is understandable that we want to know "How much is enough?" Nevertheless, Paul's voice comes to us as it did the people of Thessalonica, calling us "to do so more and more."

Back in May, a great deal was said and done about calling peoples attention to hypertension. There were articles, screenings, posters, talks and many other special activities to make the public aware of the high blood pressure problem. It's all very traditional for May.

But, here it is July and while all the "hoopla" is gone, hypertension is still here. The important purpose of this ad is to remind you that high blood pressure is a year round problem and that if you have it, you must keep on taking your medication.

Uninsured Drivers Face $100 Penalty

Maryland motorists face a penalty fee of up to $100 instead of the current maximum of $60 should their vehicles become uninsured for any period of time after July 1, Ejner J. Johnson, State Motor Vehicle Administrator, warned last week.

Increased to $100 under House Bill 606, enacted at the 1978 session of the Maryland General Assembly, the penalty fee was instituted in July 1975 under legislation enacted at the 1975 session.

"This is yet another step," said Johnson, "to deter motorists who would otherwise drive without insurance. Even a lapse in coverage of one day [illegible] under the provisions of the law."

Johnson added that the penalty fee is in addition to existing penalties for operating an uninsured motor vehicle in Maryland.

Existing law provides for the automatic suspension of the license plates of an uninsured vehicle. Should the vehicle owner fail to either surrender his tags to the MVA or secure replacement insurance, the law provides for the suspension of the owner's driver's license. To date, MVA has imposed more than 120,000 such suspensions.

To avoid these penalties, a motorist who has dropped his insurance or whose policy has not been renewed by the insurance company should turn in his license plates immediately at any MVA office.

Penalty fees collected by the MVA are turned over to the uninsured section of the Maryland Automobile Insurance Fund (MAIF). So far, more than $1,878,951 has been collected by MVA and forwarded to the Fund.

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with the citizens of Central and Western Maryland. You may send your questions to me, in care of the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I will answer each of you who writes. The following questions are typical of those asked of me in recent weeks.

What can be done to help the Elderly with little or no Social Security?

One thing we can do is to broaden and restructure the Tax Credit for the Elderly. I have introduced such a measure which would extend to senior citizens - with little or no social security - tax relief roughly comparable to that of persons with substantial Social Security income. Citizens interested in receiving a copy of this bill need only contact my office in Washington.

How did you vote on legislation to protect the Redwoods National Park?

I supported the measure to protect and expand the Redwoods Park. I have also vigorously supported protection of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area in Minnesota, the Alaska Wilderness Bill, the Endangered Wilderness Act, upgrading of the C&O Canal, and the Young Adult Conservation Corps. In addition, as you may know, I authored legislation to preserve and protect the 2000-mile long Appalachian Trail — a bill which was signed into law by the President this past Spring.

Can you send me a list of Federal Consumer Publications?

Citizens interested in copies of "The Consumer Information Catalog" may write my office in Washington. The 1978 edition lists more than 200 selected consumer publications on such subjects as automobiles, consumer protection, child care, health, food and nutrition, gardening, housing, energy conservation and employment.

Government regulations seem to inevitably lead to higher consumer costs. What can be done about it?

Legislation has been introduced in Congress to require that all bills proposing government regulations must contain an estimate of the direct and indirect costs of complying with the bill. This legislation — which I have co-sponsored — is designed to minimize the government rules which add to the costs of doing business. It is not a total answer by any means, but rather, it is a beginning step in the right direction.

Who is eligible for Medical Treatment benefits under the Black Lung Program?

Only a miner receiving monthly Black Lung benefits is eligible for medical treatment benefits. Medical treatment for members of the miner's family is not covered under this program.

An ostrich cannot fly, but the 400-pound bird can outrun many racehorses.

Grantsville's First Annual Picnic Draws A Crowd Of 1,000 Persons

The First Annual Grantsville Picnic was held Saturday, June 24 with an estimated attendance of 1,000 persons. The picnic was the culmination of Grantsville Days, celebrating the 50th anniversary of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department. A banquet was held earlier in the week by the fire department to honor founding members. Lou Ort was the guest speaker.

A parade was sponsored Friday, June 23 by the Grantsville Fire Department. There were many fire companies represented in the parade who also participated in a battle of the barrels contest after the parade.

The picnic began Saturday with an invocation by Rev. Douglas Garland of St. John's United Church of Christ, Grantsville. A Little League baseball game was held between the Lions and Rotary teams and the Grantsville Rotary won by one run, 7—6.

Also at noon, the Belles and Beaux square dancers from Cumberland gave a demonstration and several members of the audience joined in.

A basketball free throw contest was sponsored by the Grantsville Lions providing trophies to the following winners: Age group 10 and under, Terry Beal; Age 11—12, Linda Yunker; Age 13—14 Lowell Yoder; Age 15—16, Bill Bender; Age 17—18, Jim Spear and age 19 and over, Dave Bender.

A horseshoe pitching contest was sponsored by the Grantsville Rotary. The following winners were awarded trophies: doubles champions, Charles Ackerman and Don Ackerman; singles champion, Sue Bowers and singles runnerup, Don Ackerman. The contest was coordinated by Mayor Fred Holliday of the Rotary.

Several children's games were held in the afternoon sponsored by the High Country Bootleggers CB Club and the Grantsville Community Business and Development Association. The following winners were awarded silver dollars for their efforts: Sack race — Rhonda Uphold, Kristin Edwards, Joy Holliday, Dennis Hetrick, Tracey Fol, Brian Buckel and Ricky Rounds. Three legged race — Mike Robeson and Dennis Hetrick, Shelly Bittinger and Tracey Folk, Barry Brown and Gary Wilt, Elliot Brogan and Marcia Brogan, Larry Beiler and Wesley Bender. Wheelbarrow race — Gary Warnick and Chris Barnard. Spoon race — Robert Green, Greg Lowrey, Barb Bicker, Joy Holliday, Charles Byler and Brian Warnick. Jeff Rice and Patti Bender coordinated the children's games and the basketball contest.

There was an adult softball contest in the evening with the Delta mining team winning the trophy.

The Grantsville Lions Club reported a tremendous success with their first chicken barbeque. They plan to hold additional barbeques as the summer progresses.

The Grantsville Community Business and Development Association plans to continue this event each year on the last Saturday in June. All comments and suggestions for next year's picnic should be made to Gerry Beachy, Chairman of the Association.

New Immunization Guidelines Listed

New guidelines for immunization against preventable childhood diseases state each child who attends school in Maryland from kindergarten through the sixth grade must be immunized with at least one dose of polio, measles, rubella, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus vaccines.

The guidelines established by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Department of Education and the Medical-Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, do not provide any grace period for students not meeting the requirements. Children entering these grades must have the immunizations before they can be enrolled.

Governor Blair Lee, III, and Dr Neil Solomon, Maryland Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, outlined the immunization goal of 90 percent or more protection against these diseases among pre-school children by October 1979 at a meeting of more than 250 representatives of 100 civic professional community and volunteers organizations in Annapolis last week.

Dr. Solomon also launched a new, official passport-sized immunization record booklet for parents which will greatly simplify and standardize the documentation of childhood shots for schools and physicians.

Copies will be mailed to parents of newborn children within six weeks of their birth. The program will start in the near future.

He also reminded parents there are 8,000 physicians in Maryland and about 250 public health clinics to provide the necessary immunization services.

A massive campaign is being conducted to arouse parental concern regarding low immunization levels of two-year-olds who are not completely protected against these preventable childhood diseases. Mrs. Blair Lee is chairman of this year's campaign.

Dr. William Pope, county health officer, has urged Garrett County parents to check their children's immunization records to see if any immunizations are needed before school begins in September. Principals of schools will be checking the records and children without proper immunizations will not be admitted to school.

A SHORT-HANDLED SPOON makes stirring homemade ice cream ingredients a little more difficult than usual, but the end results were more than worth a little extra trouble for these Girl Scouts attending day camp last week at Bittinger 4-H Center. On Thursday and Friday, members of the extension service attended the sessions to provide nutritional information, and incidentally help prepare nutritious and delicious ice cream for dessert Friday.

TUNES by jim willis

LeBlanc and Carr, Midnight Light (Big Tree Records) is mostly mellow music, but it can be surprisingly rythmic.

Lenny LeBlanc and Pete Carr are the two new talents that took "Falling" to the top 10, and several other cuts from side one have received a lot of FM play.

It's regrettable that Midnight Light wasn't the production of a big name label, but at least it made the charts on its own merits without the benefit of hype-advertising.

If you'd like to hear LeBlanc and Carr in concert, they do tour; that is LeBlanc tours and Carr stays home. However, you could just stay home and listen to their album. The vocals, arrangements and imagininative lyrics put it in the same class as Dan Fogleburg's Netherlands and Art Garfunkel's Breakaway.

6,365 Homeowners May Be Eligible For Tax Credits

A total of 6,365 homeowners in Garrett County may be eligible for tax credits this year in the new Homeowners' Tax Credit program which was enacted by the Maryland General Assembly in its past session.

Approximately one out of four homeowners throughout Maryland is eligible to receive credit, according to Robert E. Young, Homeowners' Tax Credit Program administrator.

Eligibility for the new program is determined by a sliding scale formula which balances the size of the tax bill against the homeowners' income to assure that homeowners are not taxed an unfair percentage of their income for property taxes.

An important feature of the Homeowners' Tax Credit program is that it provides for the first time credits for homeowners under 60 years of age, up to $450.

The new program also replaces the existing circuit breaker program for homeowners age 60 and over or disabled, who may receive up to a $900 credit. Two important changes may make more people potentially eligible and those interested may call 321-3750 collect, or the local Department of Assessments and Taxation in the county Courthouse for further information.

Annual property tax bills to be paid by homeowners were mailed by most local County Finance offices July 1. Deadline for filing the new Homeowners' Tax Credit application form is October 1.

All information on the forms is kept confidential.

'78 Wheat Loan Rate Increased

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has raised the 1978 wheat loan rate by 10 cents to $2.35 per bushel according to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Crowl said that the Secretary of Agriculture, Bob Bergland, authorized the increase to provide farmers additional interim financing while raising the "Release" level for wheat in the farmer-held grain reserve.

The "release" level increases from $3.15 per bushel to $3.29 per bushel and assures farmers of eventually receiving a higher price for their reserve wheat.

The "release" level for reserve wheat is 140 percent of the current wheat loan rate. Thus, the 10 cent loan increase translates to a 14 cent release level increase.

"Domestic prices are well above the loan level and wheat exports are improving, allowing farmers to receive additional price supports without disrupting any markets," said Crowl. "This increase will assure that reserve wheat will not be sold back to the market in the near future," he said.

Farmers who have already taken out loans at the old rate, may apply for the increase at their local county ASCS office.

"Visiting Friends" Combat Child Abuse

Sketch by Jim Willis

By DiAnne Rook

"Child abuse is the deliberate and willful injury of a child by a caretaker — hitting, beating with a belt, cord or other implement, slamming against a wall, burning with cigarettes, scalding with hot water, locking in a dungeon, hog-tying, torturing, even killing. It involves active, hostile, aggressive physical treatment. Child neglect is more passive negative treatment characterized by a parent or custodian's lack of care and interest, and includes not feeding, not clothing, not looking after, not nurturing," according to Naomi Chase in her book A Child Is Being Beaten.

Thoughts of child abuse seem to be synonymous with taint city streets, foulish ghettos and slums, and crowded tenament apartment buildings. Child abuse and neglect just don't happen in rural-sparsely populated communities where children grow up in the healthiest of all environments — or does it?

According to Ann Abrahamson, a coordinator of the Garrett County Multidisciplinary Team, child abuse does exist in Garrett and is a "serious problem." Child abuse is caused by a number of different reasons, she stated. "In most instances," she stressed "the fault lies with the parent rather than the child."

For example, an abused child may be the product of an adult who is isolated, physically and emotionally, and his only outlet might be his child. In some of the rural areas in Garrett County physical isolation is not uncommon.

Financial and economic stress might be another factor leading to child abuse. In these days of inflated prices and a soaring standard of living, how many families can honestly afford the children they have? An adult who is frustrated by the loss of a job, or the never-ending race to live on a limited income may have no other alternative than to take out his feelings on an innocent child.

Some adults, through experiences with their own parents, may be ignorant of a child's needs as well as child development in general. In some families, according to Mrs. Abrahamson, children are regarded not for their individual identity, but simply as another mouth to feed or another worker around the house. "Kids are people too," she stressed. Children who feel neglected or unloved form a negative identity about themselves and often become the target for their parents' abuse. "Many parents lack the ability to communicate with their children," Mrs. Abrahamson commented. She added, "Communication includes not only speaking with the child but listening as well."

On the other hand, a parent may abuse his child by constantly pushing him to excel. As a result, perhaps, suicide is now the third highest cause of death among teens today.

Yes, the problem of child abuse does exist in Garrett County and, possibly for the first time, something is being done about it. Since adults are the ones who must be dealt with in cases of child abuse, a program has been set up in Garrett County by the Multidisciplinary Team to help Child-abusing adults.

The Visiting Friends program is a service now being offered which stresses prevention of child abuse and is geared toward potential abusers. The program deals with parents who were perhaps abused themselves as children and may have received inadequate nurturing as they grew up, adults who are isolated and therefore have no resources in times of crisis, those who lack communication skills with their children or have unrealistic expectations for them or adults who abuse their children for any other reasons.

Visiting Friends, a branch of the Multidisciplinary Team, is being coordinated by Ann Abrahamson, resident of Garrett County and graduate of Arizona State University with a Masters degree in Social Work.

The Multidisciplinary Team was established in 1975 and is composed of representatives from health and social departments in the area. The team formed two major goals to achieve in Garrett County, the first being to launch a public awareness program on child abuse. According to Mrs. Abrahamson, the first goal has been successful as in nine months the group has given 35 speaking presentations, talking to over 900 people. Possibly as a result of the publicity, reports of child abuse in Garrett County rose over 40 per cent this year. Five cases of child abuse or neglect were reported in 1976 while 120 reports have been filed for this fiscal year.

Mrs. Abrahamson, as Coordinator of the newly-established Visiting Friends program, is responsible for the recruitment, training and on-going supervision of volunteers, and she stated that currently a recruitment of volunteers has begun. Five women from the area have already signed up, including Kathie Smith, Oakland; Betty Vance, Mt. Lake Park; Cora Bowser and Kathy Welborn, Accident; and Linda Freyman, Oakland.

What does a Visiting Friends volunteer do? The first step begins when someone, usually a neighbor or teacher, reports evidence or suspicion that a child has been abused or neglected. After the report has been filed, the Multidisciplinary Team must investigate the charges in 24 hours for an abuse case and within five days for a neglect report.

Once evidence has been established, the case is sent before a case review committee who decides if the parent of the child can be helped. From that point the parent aide is sent in.

The aide's role is to be a friend to the abusing or potentially abusing parent and the role will vary according to the demands of the family and situation involved. She (or he) may serve as a mother (or father) image, as a teacher of basic living skills or as a helper to get jobs done. The aide is expected to establish a relationship with the family which would involve being generally available to the family in a time of crisis, visiting the home weekly and making bi-weekly telephone contacts.

A parent aide should be a nurturing, emotionally supportive adult who is a sympathetic friend, encouraging the parent to develop his own self-esteem. She should attempt to reduce individual and family isolation and act as a model for appropriate parent-child interaction. The parent aide may teach basic living skills such as budgeting and household management and help the family identify and solve problems.

According to Dr. Kempe of the Multidisciplinary Team, Visiting Friends aides will be screened carefully to assure the success of the program. "We are looking for a volunteer who can be warm and caring, trusting and understanding," said Mrs. Abrahamson. She added that a volunteer should be able to deal with families in a crisis situation, perhaps by successfully surmounting a crisis in her own life. In addition, the ability to work in a pathological setting, maintain confidentiality and share child care techniques in a non-threatening way are important volunteer selection criteria established by the Team.

To be a successful Visiting Friend, a volunteer should possess skills which will aid in positive interaction with the family, said Mrs. Abrahamson. Some of the skills are:

Household Management — skills in organizing and effectively running a household are needed, including budgeting, cooking, shopping and cleaning.

Listening — skills must be developed so that a volunteer can deal with individuals who are unaccustomed to expressing their feelings and who might have limited verbal abilities.

Dealing with Professionals and non-professionals — aides must be able to deal comfortably with agencies and people.

Hostility and Resistance — an aide must be able to overcome a family's initial hostility toward her being involved.

Communication Skills — verbal, non-verbal and listening skills are important in establishing a sound relationship with the family.

Sketch by DiAnne Rook

Ability to Work in Pathological Settings — an aide must be able to work with behaviors and styles of living different from her own.

Family Dynamics — an understanding of how a family functions is valuable for role modeling.

According to Mrs. Abrahamson, an introductory presentation is considered appropriate by the Team before the volunteer's first visit with the family and the presentation will be given in three, four-hour sessions. After the initial training, the coordinator should be able to assess what type of person the aide would do well with and what type of individual training needs remain.

Combating child abuse in Garrett County could depend on the success of the Visiting Friends program, Mrs. Abarhamson stated. "Volunteers are urgently needed to help stamp out the problem of abuse and neglect," she added. Interested persons should contact Mrs. Abrahamson at 334-4036 or write Box 153, Oakland.

Local Couple Attends Country Women's Council

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Calderwood, Deer Park, were participants at the 40th annual meeting of the Country Women's Council held in Columbus, Ohio, June 20-22. Hostesses for the meeting were the Ohio Extension Homemakers Council, Ohio Farm Bureau Women and Ohio Women's Farm and Garden Branch.

The Country Women's Council was established in 1939 as the liaison committee set up to promote interest in the Associated Country Women of the World which meets every three years in a different country. The CWC meets annually and serves as a vehicle through which the work of ACWW is carried on between triennial meetings. The goal of both organizations is to foster better understanding and appreciation of the various cultures of the people of the world.

The theme of this year's CWC meeting was "Build for Tomorrow."

Over 200 men and women attended the meeting from about 40 states in the U. S.

While in Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Calderwood also visited with Mrs. Calderwood's nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. James French, of Dayton. Another nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis French, of Chatfield, Minn., also visited in Dayton.

The Calderwoods returned to their home in Deer Park on June 23.

CCC Veterans To Meet July 22 Near Frederick

The stone and timber pavilion and overlook at Gambrill State Park in Frederick County will be the scene of the second reunion of Maryland CCC veterans on July 22.

The area chosen for the reunion is one of many constructed in Maryland by the Civilian Conservation Corps during the 1930s depression.

A small committee of CCC vets and Maryland Park Service staff has planned the picnic reunion as an outgrowth of a similar gathering held last year at Cunningham Falls State Park. About 100 former members of the old Civilian Conservation Corps brought their wives, children and grandchildren to that first gathering and nearly double that number are expected at Gambrill on the 22nd of this month.

The Civilian Conservation Corps was a government program designed to provide work experience for boys and young men who could not get jobs in the private sector during the depression. Members were recruited from the ranks of the unemployed in the cities and countryside and set to work at road and dam building, soil conservation, forestry, and similar nature oriented tasks. Their work efforts remain today and may be seen in handsome stone work shelters, and scenic overlooks such as the ones at Gambrill State Park. During their service in the semi-military corps, men lived in rustic camps, and participated in both labor and recreational activities. A small pay check was given each member and an allotment was sent to his home.

Maryland Park Service Director William A. Parr has hailed the CCC as one of the early important efforts to conserve and improve parklands and open spaces nationally. CCC Projects became the focal points of many subsequent state park developments.

Members of the planning committee for the July 22 picnic reunion include James Heeter of Dundalk and William Shulman of Catonsville, Ross Kimmel, Maryland Park Service Historian and Ms. Barbara Garner, Maryland Park Service supervisor of program development.

The picnic reunion will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at dusk. A short formal program will be held in the middle of the day, but the entire day will be devoted to reminiscences and sharing of souvenirs and mementos of the 1930s era.

Gambrill State Park is in Frederick County, near the city of Frederick, easily reached from U. S. 40.

YOU CAN BUY A CHEAPER MOPED, BUT YOU'LL PAY FOR IT.
If some mopeds cost less than a Puch, it's simply because they're lesser mopeds
They don't have the hill-hungry hi-torque engine that most Puchs have
They aren't designed as thoughtfully, or constructed as carefully, as Austrian-built Puchs are
At a lower price, Puch couldn't offer things like a 2-speed automatic transmission, oil injection, or an automatic starting system
Come in and see why feature for feature, you really can't afford anything less than a Puch

PUCH. THE MAXIMUM MOPED.

Judith VanSickle Is May Bride Of Ronald Ray Frazee, Friendsville

Judith Louise VanSickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry F. VanSickle, Wakefield Road, Friendsville, and Ronald Ray Frazee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Frazee, Noah Frazee Road, Friendsville, were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, May 20, in Laurel Run Church of God with Rev. Philip J. Geoghan performing the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of flowing white chiffon shaped with a caged back panel that floated into a chapel-length train. Schiffli embroidery and Venise lace embellished the high necklined-bodice and deep angel sheer sleeves.

The bride wore a full-brimmed, chiffon-covered garden hat, trimmed with a large bow and flower. She carried a bouquet of yellow rosebuds and snowdrifts.

Maid of honor was Mrs. Janet Fike, Friendsville. She wore a princess-styled dress of apricot, with a floral elbow-length cape trimmed with lace.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Alice Hartzell, Boonsboro, and Mrs. Sharon Hoover, Accident. They wore princess-style dresses of mint green and yellow, and each wore a picture hat tinted to match her dress. Hats were embellished with large bows fashioned from the same material as their dresses, and each carried a long-stemmed yellow rosebud and snowdrift with yellow and white streamers. All the dresses were made by the maid of honor.

Flower girls were Valerie Jane and Stephanie Ann Broadwater, nieces of the bride. They wore long white eyelet dresses with large ruffles around the bottoms, accented with yellow ribbon and flowers. Each wore white hats with rows of lace covering the brim and yellow flowers matching those on their dresses. They each carried baskets of yellow and white snowdrifts. The dresses and hats were fashioned by the girls' mother, Mrs. G. D. Broadwater.

Ringbearer was Brian VanSickle, nephew of the bride. He wore a short blue suit and white knee socks and carried a heartshaped pillow.

Best man was Terry Frazee, brother of the groom. Ushers were Roger Sisler, Paul Fike and Doug Frazee, all of Friendsville.

Betty Sisler, Friendsville, played traditional wedding music. Mrs. Philip Geoghan sang "You Light Up My Life," "O Perfect Love" and "Whither Thou Goest."

A reception followed in the church annex. Mrs. Mary Jane Broadwater cut and served the cake and Mrs. James VanSickle served the punch. Mrs. Harold Talbott, Uniontown, served coffee.

Misses Patty Hartzell and Barbara Jo Fike registered guests. Misses Joy VanSickle and Lynn Hartzell helped with gifts and Miss Patty Hartzell handed out rice bags.

After a honeymoon, the couple is residing on Noah Frazee Road, Friendsville.

Professor Claims Communication Key To Good Marriage

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA. (UPI) — Good communication makes a good marriage, according to Bernard G. Guerney Jr., professor of human development.

Guerney, head of the Individual and Family Consultation Center at Pennsylvania State University, said it's unrealistic to expect everything to go smoothly in a marriage.

But he said his group has "been very successful in training husbands and wives in communication and problem-solving skills to make their relationship smoother and more harmonious."

Marriage partners have a better chance of a continuing relationship if they communicate and solve their problems, he said.

It also is important to understand what your partner is trying to say and to show compassion for his or her needs and wishes, he said.

Although he is not against such niceties as having lunch together once a week, or buying unexpected presents for each other, "any learning usually involves some consistent effort and some kind of instruction."

He recommends "that people take a positive approach to self-improvement and look for programs that offer to teach people skills in dealing with themselves and their emotions and with other people."

"A lot of times someone will build up a grievance against the partner for some unsatisfied need and when they feel they can no longer contain themselves, they will come out and express it — usually in a way that is very threatening to the other person."

That begins a vicious cycle and people move further from a solution to the problem.

His group teaches ways of expression "that carry little or no threat to the partner while still being very honest and getting across what needs to be gotten across."

It's not soft-soaping or distorting. Simply state everything subjectively, Guerney said.

When each person understands what the other person wants, it becomes relatively easy to work out a solution.

So, assuming there is commitment, the most important ingredient in making marriage last is communication, said Guerney.

Real Estate
By DON CARSTENS
Deep Creek Realty
FUTURE SHOCK!
Who would have thought that we'd ever look forward to an annual inflation rate of 6% with an emotion close to ecstasy? Yet, today that's what we're doing. The reason, of course, is that after three successive yearly hikes averaging better than 9%, last year's 6% increase looks pretty good. Don't be fooled - 6% inflation is high. At that rate prices double in 12 years.
What would happen to housing prices with a 6% yearly cost-of-living increase? A home that cost $60,000 now would increase to $120,732 in 12 years. In 20 years it would cost $192,428. In 30 years it would sell for $344,609.
What does all this mean? Whatever your age, you must find a way to create an income in addition to your pay check. Although there is no such thing as the perfect investment, real estate may be the nearest thing to it. It can be an income producer, a shelter from high taxes, and an ideal protection from the ravages of inflation. Real estate values historically increase faster than general inflation prices and maintain a higher value than most assets in depression. The ideal hedge.

"Handicapped Tags" Available To Those With Vision Problems

Maryland motorists with severe vision impairments in both eyes may now apply for special license plates.

Commonly known as "handicapped tags" and formerly limited to motorists who had lost the use of a leg or an arm; were unable to move without a wheelchair or crutches, or suffered from some forms of lung disease, these plates, under Senate Bill 35, enacted at the 1978 session of the Maryland General Assembly, may now be issued to motorists with certain vision impairments.

Also entitled to the special plates under Senate Bill 35 are drivers who have a permanent physical disability, which substantially impairs the driver's mobility.

The special plates will continue to be issued only to owners of passenger vehicle and small trucks, such as pickup trucks.

Persons interested in obtaining handicapped license plates should write for an application to: Handicapped Plates Unit, Motor Vehicle Administration 6601 Ritchie Highway, Glen Burnie, Maryland 21062.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Most pet owners have a vague idea of their community's laws governing the licensing of pets and the responsibilities of pet owners. However, some towns have pet-related laws that are difficult to comply with. Fortunately, these are rarely enforced — but they're still on the books. The following is reprinted from Cats Magazine, March 1976.

"Against the law to give your cat a cigar to smoke. No cats allowed to howl after 9 p.m? You can't own more than five felines? Cats let outside are required by law to wear three bells to warn birds of their approach? Cats prohibited from chasing dogs up telephone poles?

"Samuel Johnson once said: 'The law is the last result of human wisdom acting upon human experience for the benefit of the public.' See if you can fully agree with this bit of philosophy — after mulling over the following pieces of unique cat legislation. Then decide!

"The quiet little community of Zion, Illinois has a most unusual law on the books. No cat owner is ever allowed to give a pet a cigar to smoke. Anyone who violates this law can be fined and jailed.

"It's illegal in Idaho for persons to let their cats take part in a fight between more than two dogs. And in Colorado, a cat owner can't stand around and watch dogs fight — if he happens to be holding his cat during the excitement.

"You have nothing to worry about if the dogcatcher comes around your home in Virginia. State law prohibits a dogcatcher from bothering cats while he is out looking for stray dogs.

"Cats are banned from howling after 9 p.m. in Columbus, Georgia. And in Collingswood, New Jersey, they can't howl between the hours of 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. But in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, the law simply says that cats can't howl at night.

"Any cat running in the streets of Dallas, Texas after the sun goes down must be wearing a head light. But Provo, Utah has solved their problem of stray cats in a better way. Provo city fathers passed on ordinance which declares that all cats must be off the streets by 7 p.m.

"You must be careful if you presently own a cat and then decide you'd also like to get a pet bird as well. You will be violating the law in Reed City, Michigan. The ordinance declares that 'no cat owner' can keep birds on the same premises. To do so brings a $25 fine.

"You're in serious trouble if you own more than five cats and happen to live in Topeka, Kansas. The law in that town says cat lovers are prohibited from owning more than five felines at any given time.

"It's strictly against the law in Wallace, Idaho for any cat or cats to sleep in a dog kennel. Nor can cats be allowed to disturb dogs 'in any fashion.'

"The people in Baltimore dearly love their cat population. But lawmakers passed an ordinance which prohibit any movie-goer from taking his or her cat inside to see a film.

"Tired of having that old tom around the house? Well, forget about trying to leave him on someone else's doorstep if you happen to live in Springfield, Illinois. The law says that no one can abandon a cat for any reason.

"Speaking of cats battling it out — the great state of Kentucky passed legislation making it legal for cats as well as dogs to fight each other. But a cat can't fight a dog, nor can a dog pick on a cat.

"Have to spend some time in the hospital? Let's hope it's not in quiet little Wadsworth, Kansas. Cats and any other pets are forbidden to follow patients into the veteran Administration hospital.

"All cats must be securely kept on a leash when out for a stroll in Lubbock, Texas. This particular law applies to house cats as well as lions, tigers, leopards and wildcats.

"Have a cat who seems to have a taste for good cold beer? You'll be violating the law in Natchez, Mississippi if you try to give your pet any. Cats aren't allowed to drink any beer, even on a sweltering summer day.

"Frogs are not allowed to croak in public within the city limits of Memphis, Tennessee. Nor are cats allowed to meow.

"Cats are banned from trying to molest alligators in Miami, Florida. So be careful to keep a close watch on your feline when in that city.

"And Springfield, Massachusetts won't let its citizens walk their cat or dog on any city street on Sunday. Sabbath cat and dog strollers can be fined.

"You can't keep a cat in your hotel room if you are going to visit Cumberland, Maryland. Dogs and chickens are also strictly prohibited from being in the town's hotels.

"A hot day and your cat is beginning to feel the heat? Be careful in Birmingham, Alabama. No cat can be tied to any shade tree growing alongside a city street.

Celebrate Homecoming

The Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren celebrated its church homecoming on June 25 with special music by the Ulerys of Cumberland.

Revival Planned

The Laughlin Church of the Brethren will hold revival services July 9 through 16 at 7:30 each evening, except July 16 when there will be a Love Feast and communion service. Evelyn Bowman is the host pastor and the Rev. Joe Lewis, Bethel-Yellow Creek churches of the Brethren, will be guest speaker. Special music and singing is planned each evening. Tuesday evening will be youth night with the young people guests of the evangelist for a treat at Hilltop Delite. Everyone is welcome.

Firemen's Anniversary Successful

The town's Grantsville Days proved to be quite a success. The firemen's dinner on Thursday was well attended, with men and women from the Bittinger fire company cooking and serving the dinner.

President Harry Michaels gave the address of welcome. David Kirk was master of ceremonies. Lewis J. Ort gave the speech, and Deane Savage received the "Fireman of the Year" award.

The ladies auxiliary presented Tonka firetrucks as a reminder of the 50 years the fire company has operated. All organizations and businessmen were represented at the banquet.

On Friday evening a firemen's parade was held with 54 divisions in the parade. Prizes were won by Baton marching groups, "First Mates" of Oakland, first; and Accident "Legionnettes," second. The Brownies float had first place, and the Grantsville Ford Country Boys won second place. A trophy went to Barton Fire Company for winning the "battle of the barrel."

The community picnic was held Saturday with nearly 1,000 persons in attendance. Different churches and organizations furnished all kinds of foods, arts and crafts and baked goods. Games were played, including Little League ball games and adult softball games.

The Belles and Beaux square dancers from Cumberland gave a demonstration and invited onlookers to join in.

Plans are in the making for another celebration next year at the same time.

Senior Citizens to Meet

The Senior Citizens of Grantsville are meeting at St. Ann's Catholic Hall next Thursday and will be meeting there on the next week on Tuesday and Thursday from 1 to 4 o'clock.

Energy Workbooks Are Now Available

As a service to Maryland's industrial and commercial energy consumers, a series of comprehensive workbooks on energy audit procedures is being developed by the Maryland Energy Policy Office. Using these workbooks plant engineers and maintenance supervisors can identify operating and maintenance techniques and energy conserving capital improvements that will increase the efficiency of energy utilization and reduce energy expenses.

The Energy Policy Office is being aided in the development of these workbooks by its Professional Advisory Council on State Energy Affairs, composed of representatives from the Maryland Society for Professional Engineers, the American Institute of Architects, Maryland Chapter, the Consulting Engineers Council of Maryland, and the Maryland Association of Certified Public Accountants, Inc.

In the future the Professional Advisory Council will develop recommended energy audit procedures for schools and hospitals, recommended energy auditor qualifications, and develop a listing of firms and individuals meeting the recommended qualifications.

Draft copies of the first of the series, workbooks for schools and hospitals, are currently available from the Energy Policy Office. The final copies of these workbooks will be available in the fall. For more information write: Audit Workbooks, Maryland Energy Policy Office, 301 West Preston Street, Suite 1302, Baltimore, 21201.

Carter's Approval Rating At 38% And Still Falling

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Carter's approval rating, at its lowest point yet, stands lower than any of the last five presidents after their first 17 months in office, a CBS News-New York Times poll showed Friday.

Carter's approval rating — now at 38 percent — dropped in part because of a decline in support for his foreign policy, according to the survey of 1,527 voting-age Americans.

Approval of Carter's foreign policy dropped from 39 percent to 29 percent since April, the poll found. Forty-eight percent of those surveyed last January approved of the administration's foreign policy during a period of hope for a Middle East peace accord.

Presidents traditionally suffer drops in approval, according to polls.

Gerald Ford's approval rating dropped from 71 percent to 46 percent by his 17th month in office. The four presidents before Ford lost at least 12 percentage points after 17 months in office.

While 38 percent of those surveyed last week approved of the way Carter was doing his job, 64 percent of those surveyed in April 1977 endorsed the president's actions.

Faith that Carter could restore trust in government dropped, too, with one-third of those saying they believed the president could make good on his campaign promise. Half of those surveyed in April said they believed Carter would restore trust.

The poll explored public sentiment about U. S.-Soviet relations and found 53 percent of the respondents favored a get-tough policy in East-West relations while 30 percent favored efforts to relax tensions.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

The interest in property tax credits for homeowners is still dominating the mail. Here is another inquirer whose questions are typical although his personal situation may not be.

Q. Although I have read your article relative to the current Circuit Breaker tax program, I am totally unable to understand who is eligible for the benefits. Since I qualify under all stipulations, specifically: at least sixty years of age, have an ownership interest, being principal dweller of this property, and net worth no greater than $150,000, why am I not eligible to take advantage of this program?

My position is as follows: I am retired from the military service and draw approximately $8,400 per year. I am working, drawing approximately $16,000 per year. My wife works and draws approximately $9,000 per year. I am sixty-four years of age. I have lived in my home since October, 1955, and have had ownership interest in the form of a mortgage. My net worth is something less than $150,000.

In view of the requirements shown in your article and the facts concerning myself, what are the requirements? Do I qualify, and where do I obtain the necessary documents for submission to obtain same?

A. The answer is that you do qualify because you meet the four basic rules regarding age, residence, ownership, and net worth.

Anyone who meets these four factors qualifies. Whether they are determined eligible for a tax credit, though, depends upon the interrelationship of their income and their property tax. Compare it to Social Security. Many or most workers qualify and do participate in the Social Security Program — at least through their contributions — but they become eligible for benefits only upon reaching a certain age or condition in life.

In your case, your combined annual retirement and earnings income add up to $33,400. To this you would have to add any other income such as interest, dividends, and rentals you might be receiving but did not mention.

You did not state either the amount of your assessment or your property tax, but based upon the income figure you gave, your property tax bill under the current program would have had to have exceeded $2,356 before you would have become eligible for any credit.

But the current Circuit Breaker is soon to expire, so why worry with it now? The new Homeowners' Property Tax Credit Law becomes effective June 1, 1978, and credits for tax bills coming due this year will be based on it. Taking this into consideration, your new property tax liability would be reduced to $2,286.

Your residence is in The City. If the local tax rate remains unchanged, this means that your dwelling would have to be assessed for at least $36,900, indicating a market value of about $82,000, based upon the new assessment ratio of forty-five percent.

To avoid any confusion, remember that two of the four qualifying factors have been changed. The age limit has been struck, and the net worth has been increased to $200,000 excluding the homesite. Although you qualify by meeting the three factors, whether or not you will be entitled to a tax credit will depend upon your reported income for last year and the size of your property tax bill this year.

If you have any lingering doubt, at least apply. Applications are available through the property tax credit section of your local assessments office. If you are found to be ineligible for a tax credit this year, you will be informed of this in writing along with a reason for the denial.

Q. I am on a fixed income and under sixty years of age. Will you explain for me the proposed changes in the Circuit Breaker Tax Credit Law?

A. The new Property Tax Credit Program, as it is to be known, will be combined with the present Circuit Breaker Program which is currently available only to the elderly, those sixty years of age and older, or to the totally disabled.

It is one of the three most important components of the property tax relief legislation that was enacted this year and awaits only the Governor's signature to become law. When it goes into operation, it will have the potential to provide benefits to perhaps as many as 300,000 Maryland property owners on fixed or low incomes.

In order to participate in the present Circuit Breaker Program, a property owner had to meet four qualifications: He had to be at least sixty years of age or totally disabled, he must have had an ownership interest in the property, it must have been his principal dwelling, and his net worth must have been no greater than $150,000.

Under the new law, the age factor has been eliminated, and persons of all ages can participate, depending upon their income. Formerly, the maximum tax credit was limited to $750. The new limit can be as high as $900 for those in the full credit homeowner category, which means those sixty and over or totally disabled, and as much $450 for those in the partial credit homeowner group. These are the homeowners who are under sixty.

The new real property tax liability is calculated on the assessed valuation of the dwelling, or $40,000, whichever is less. The old limit was $30,000. The new graduated scale upon which the property tax liabilities and property tax credits are based are more liberal, and most people will receive a more generous tax credit than heretofore. The new tax credit is to be equal to the amount of real property taxes in excess of a percentage of income starting at 1½% of the first $4,000, 3½% of the next $4,000, 5½% of the next $4,000, 7½% of the next $4,000, and 9% of all combined income over $16,000. Tax credits for those otherwise eligible but who are under sixty will be one-half of the amount as calculated according to scale.

Under the new scale, a homeowner with an income of $5,000 and a property tax bill of $495 would be entitled to a tax credit of $200, leaving him with a net property tax of $295. If the property owner were over sixty or totally disabled, the tax savings would be twice this amount, or $400, and the net property tax liability would be only $95.

Likewise, if a person's property tax were $710, and his income were $10,000, he would also be entitled to a tax credit or savings on his tax bill of $200; or if he were over sixty or totally disabled, his benefit in property tax savings would be $400.

The September 1, final filing date is unchanged. For this year only, the filing date for partial credit homeowners, those who are under sixty, has been extended to October 1. The new property tax credit program becomes effective on the first of June.

Altogether, there were eighty bills passed of some three hundred and thirty-four bills affecting assessments and the property tax that were considered by the recent session of the General Assembly. In addition to the Property Tax Credit Program, there are two other new pieces of legislation that will ease the property taxpayer's burden. The allowance for inflation has been raised from 50% to 55%. This will result in an immediate 10% cut in real property taxes. The other is an extension of tax credits for residential assessments that exceed 15% over the preceding year.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers — James Burley' in care of this newspaper.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Scientists Report Universe Positively Coming To An End

SANTA CRUZ, CALIF. (UPI) — Three University of California scientists report they have proof positive that the universe is coming to an end — in about 40 billion years.

The scientists told a University of Califfornia-Santa Cruz news conference Thursday about "a major breakthrough" in calibrating the brightness of quasars, the mysterious and distant star systems much smaller than a galaxy but producing hundreds of times more energy.

Peering through the 120-inch telescope atop Mount Hamilton near San Jose, they verified a theory by Dr. Jack Baldwin, now at Cambridge University in England, who found that the strength of certain atomic emission lines in the spectrum of a quasar is correlated with the brightness of the quasar.

"His discovery," said Dr. E. Joseph Wambler, "has given us a new clue to use in unraveling the mysteries of the enigmatic quasistellar radio sources (quasars) and evolution of the universe."

Dr. Wambler explained that the ability to measure a quasar's brightness enables researchers to measure their distance and how fast they are moving from the center of the universe.

He said that data is then matched up with the theories on the nature of the universe — whether it is contracting, expanding or in a steady state. Wambler said the quasar discoveries support the theory that the universe is expanding, but at a slower and slower rate and eventually will stop expanding, only to begin contracting.

Dr. Wambler, helped in his research by Larry Burke and C. Martin Gaskill, estimated that expansion will continue to slow down for about 20 billion years or so. The expansion will stop and the universe will turn in on itself and collapse in another 30 billion years.

At the end, he told UPI, the universe's collapse will be faster and faster and come to a violent end.

AN ORDINANCE OF THE TOWN OF MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, MARYLAND, TO REGULATE INSTALLATION AND REPAIR OF UTILITIES IN STREETS AND ALLEYS.

BY RIGHT OF OWNERSHIP AND CHARTER POWERS, THE TOWN OF MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK HAS AUTHORITY OVER ALL ACTIVITIES AND CONDITIONS IN ITS STREETS, FIFTY-FEET WIDE, AND ITS ALLEYS, TWELVE-FEET WIDE.

TO REGULATE INSTALLATION AND REPAIRING OF UTILITY PIPES, CABLES, AND CONDUITS REQUIRING EXCAVATIONS WITHIN THE MUNICIPAL STREETS AND ALLEYS, THE MAYOR AND TOWN COUNCIL ENACTS THIS ORDINANCE, REQUIRING THAT:

1. A request for permit form, a part of this ordinance, must be filed with the Town Clerk. The form will be reviewed by the Mayor or his designate before approval.
2. No permit will be approved if there are existing places of failure by the applicant to restore previous utility excavations to a satisfactory condition.
3. All presently current utility excavations, installations, and repairs in progress must cease on presentation of this ordinance to the individuals and officials responsible for current work. No work can be resumed until the requirements of Sections one (1) two (2) and four (4) are met.
4. All applicants for a permit must be bonded. If the Town, in the interest of safety and convenience, is compelled to rework any excavation site, the Mayor is authorized to collect the cost thereof from the bonder.
5. The Mayor is authorized to blockade utility excavation sites in streets and alleys for which no permit has been granted. Unauthorized removal of blockade devices shall be cause for prosecution by the Town for destruction of property. If town vehicles are used for blockading, the charge shall be Motor Vehicle tampering.
6. All persons who participate in, authorized or condone violations of this ordinance shall be charged with violation.
7. Violation of this ordinance or any part thereof is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of One Hundred dollars ($100.00) for each day of violation.
8. This ordinance does hereby repeal any ordinance pertaining to this ordinance.

THE REPUBLICAN

Stretched Freedom . . .

Sometimes the rights guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution are extremely difficult, and expensive, to uphold. One such right making the headlines recently is the freedom of assembly; that is, the right of persons to peaceably congregate for whatever reason they desire, without intervention by the government or law enforcement officials.

This particular freedom is being stretched to the utmost degree by such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan and the American Nazi Party.

A march through a section of Chicago this past Sunday by just 23 Nazis cost the taxpayers of that city over $175,000! The money was for overtime pay, equipment and transportation of between 1,300 and 1,400 policemen who provided security for the Nazis from some 5,000 opponents.

Almost no other country in the world would even permit the existence of such an organization. This contemptible band of so-called human beings, which stands against nearly all of the ideals upon which this nation is based, ironically is entitled to exactly the same police protection and the same right to assemble that is granted to everyone else.

Out of all those Chicago policemen, there were surely some of the Jewish faith. Perhaps there were even some whose parents died or spent time in a Nazi concentration camp. And yet, these officers had a job to do. They had to protect these individuals and sustain their right to assemble. It would have been so easy for them to turn their backs and allow the angry mob to fulfill its desires.

It's not easy sometimes, but that's the way it has to be if we want to remain a free country. The Constitution must be endorsed to the letter. The U.S. Supreme Court made the right decisions when it refused to stop this rally, even though it was for a band of such psychotic, misguided bigots.

Board Announces Voter Registration Mobile Schedule

The mobile registration schedule for Garrett County prior to the primary Election September 12 and the General Election November 7 was announced by the Board of Supervisors of Elections.

Registrars will be in District #9 at the Route 40 School on Monday, July 17, from 2 to 5 p.m. and in Grantsville District #3-1 at the fire hall from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The Board reminded citizens in the surrounding districts that the time had been extended in order to give an opportunity to register.

On Tuesday, July 18 registrars will be in District #5, Accident, at the fire hall from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., and in Friendsville, District #2 at the Elementary School from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 19, in District #4, Bloomington, registrars will be at the fire hall from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., and Kitzmiller, District #13 in the council room from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Voters may change their address, change their name from maiden name to their married name, and transfer from one district to another. Deadline for changing party affiliation was May 11, four months prior to the primary election.

No other mobile registration will be held prior to the general election due to the short time the registration books are open. Registration books remain closed ten days after a primary election, which will be September 25, and will then remain open until October 9, the last day to register before the general election.

In order to be eligible to register to vote a person must have been a resident of the county and state as of the time of closing registration August 14th. Anyone 18 years of age on or before November 7, 1978 may register to vote.

Voters in other districts may register to vote at the office of the Board of Supervisors of Elections, 12 South Third Street, Oakland. The office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for registration prior to the primary election is August 14 at 9:00 p.m.

Summerfest To Be July 13 - 15

A mid-summer arts and crafts festival featuring the work of some 40 craftsmen will be held at Penn Alps, Grantsville, July 13-15.

Invited artisans will present a sampling of the work of some 1,200 Penn Alps producers.

The Penn Alps property houses several log structures of early vintage, used now as demonstration cabins. Summerfest craftsmen will be working in these and other buildings on the grounds, as well as in shelters brought in for the occasion. Demonstrators will be at their stations from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A number of the craftsmen will have items for sale, while others will be demonstrating only.

Penn Alps is located on Route 40 one mile east of Grantsville. The original log portion of the rambling building was also constructed in 1818 as a stagecoach stop on the Cumberland Road the year this road reached its destination.

Featured artists will be potters, woodcarvers, sculptors, artists in oils, water colors, glass blowing and Tiffany glass working; and craftsmen in leather, tin and pewter, a basket-maker, chairmaker, clockmaker, toy makers, candle-dippers, wool and flax spinners, and weavers.

Even on rainy days the Ruth Enlow Library, Garrett County Historical Museum, Penn Alps and a multitude of shops and restaurants offer a pleasant retreat . . . so take the whole family and explore the wonders of Garrett County.

Commissioners Approve Amendment To Conditionally Approve Rezoning Requests

The Garrett County Commissioners, during their regular meeting Monday in the Courthouse, conducted a public hearing in the grand jury room to hear testimony on two proposed amendments to the Deep Creek Zoning Ordinance.

The first was a technical amendment which would allow the Board, in subsequent rezonings, to conditionally approve re-zoning requests if the Board felt these would meet necessary criteria. This would allow them, if they felt a case merited granting a change, to go ahead and conditionally rezone the property subject to all conditions being met.

A change in the zoning map for a portion of the Bailey Property north of the Bloomington Bridge from Lake residential zone to low center and town residential was also discussed.

Approximately 50 attended and Scott Tim Dubnes attorney for Bailey, Inc., present his clients's requests. Tim Dugan, representing the planning commission, presented recommendations from that group modifying the request and recommending approval of the rezoning classification if the modifications were approved.

Most of those attending were neighboring property owners who expressed concern over commercial development in what is a predominantly residential area.

The commissioners will conduct a second hearing on the Bailey proposal July 24 at 10 a.m., and deferred any action until after that hearing.

Chief topic during the afternoon meeting was the final budget accepted last week by the Garrett County Board of Education. Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Buser and Board chairman Herbert Harman met with the commissioners to present the budget for fiscal year 1978-79 for final approval. The commissioners had previously informed the Board the amount of allocation would be $3.5 million, some $400,000 less than the $3.9 million requested.

The commissioners had also previously stipulated that all negotiated salary increases must be funded and that all the required instructional and media materials be provided.

The Board informed the commissioners that these conditions had been met, and the commissioners unanimously approved the final budget.

In other school-related matters, Richard Bishoff and Harold Loughrie, representing the Southern and Northern High School vocational agricultural departments, joined the group for a discussion on pending state disposal of surplus property in northern Garrett County.

The Board of Education had requested the state to lease one such property, off Route 48, for use by the agricultural departments as an experimental farm. The property could be leased for a nominal sum, and equipment is available from the school farm at NHS. The commissioners unanimously voted to support that request.

In an additional unanimous decision, the commissioners voted to appoint Mrs. Joyce D. Bishoff to the Garrett County Planning Commission to fill the unexpired term of the late Robert O. Glotfelty.

Cofferdam Break Halts Construction

Colonel George K. Withers, Jr., District Engineer, Baltimore District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, held a briefing, July 7 at the Upper Potomac Area Office, Bloomington, to provide information to local officials, and to the press, on the overtopping of the cofferdam at the Bloomington Dam Site. The overtopping occurred when the Potomac River flooded on July 3.

The cofferdam was used to divert stream flow from the construction area and permit placement of the dam embankment. River flow was being diverted through the outlet tunnel.

Approximately 3½ inches of rain on July 2 and 3 caused the river to flood. At 9:00 a.m., July 3, the rising water overtopped the cofferdam and breached it at 6:30 p.m.

Work is now underway to rebuild the cofferdam and continue construction of the dam embankment. Cost of the repairs will be approximately $50,000 and will cause a 30 day delay in the construction project.

Colonel Withers explained the sequence of events and the purpose of the cofferdam. Following the briefing, the Colonel and members of the Upper Potomac Area Office took the group on a tour of the dam site.

County Tax Bills Mailed This Week

Postmen throughout the county will be delivering county property tax bills to residents sometime this week, according to county treasurer Mrs. Arnetta Parsons. Some 17,000 property owners have been billed so far.

County taxes when paid will provide $3,294,828.81 in revenue, based on a total assessment of $134,481,937. State tax on real estate amounts of $268,963.54.

Anyone who does not receive a property tax bill during July should contact the treasurer's office. Adjustments to the roll and bills for new properties will be mailed a little later this month.

Discount for payment during July and August is five percent. Those who pay in September are eligible for a four percent markout. Beginning October 1, interest is charged on unpaid bills at the rate of two-thirds of a percent per month.

Merchants Plan Annual Sidewalk Sale August 4-5

Members of the Downtown Oakland Merchants and Businessmen's Association gathered Tuesday, July 11, for a luncheon meeting. Chief topic was the coming town-wide sidewalk sale Friday and Saturday, August 4 and 5.

A feature this year will be sidewalk locations available for clubs, churches and other non-profit organizations to use for bake sales or other fund-raising sales. Interested organizations should contact Mrs. Sheila Orr, at Decorator's Den, for registration and information on available locations.

Ernie Greco, president of the association, announced that as of that date, $750 had been donated for the parking lot gate [illegible] on fifteen contributors in the Oakland business and professional community.

County Receives $135,000 Loan

The Maryland Department of Economic and Community Development has made a loan of $135,000 to Garrett County for development of a 55-acre tract as an industrial park in the town of Accident.

The loan application, made by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, was approved by Department Secretary Herbert B. Cahan upon recommendation of the Department's Advisory Commission. This was the first formal action taken by the Commission since it was expanded under Maryland's Economic Development Strategy which was announced by Acting Governor Lee on May 15.

The Commission, composed of private citizens from all sections of the State, based its recommendation upon a finding of a shortage of suitable industrial sites in the county. Secretary Cahan and the Commission determined that there was not sufficient likihood for private development of an industrial park, so it was important for the public sector to meet this need to encourage economic development in Garrett County.

In approving the loan, Secretary Cahan said, "This is a step forward in our efforts to improve economic conditions in Garrett County. A modern industrial park, such as the one planned for Accident, should prove attractive to industry, and we at the State level will work closely with local officials to bring desirable industry into the park."

Approved under the Maryland Industrial Land Act of 1972, the loan will permit acquisitions of the only available industrial property with water and sewer in Garrett County.

Some utility, road, and subdivision engineering has been done by the county, the building of additional infrastructure will be dependent upon obtaining funds from such federal sources as the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Farmers Home Administration and the Economic Development Administration.

Private investment is expected to total $2.5 million when the park becomes fully occupied. Employment is estimated to total 225 persons and their annual payroll will be approximately $2.7 million.

As a result of the park, Garrett County officials expect the new employment opportunities there to slow the exodus of young people from the area.

The Maryland Industrial Land Act established a $6 million fund to facilitate acquisition of sites for industrial purposes. To date, loans totaling more than $2 million have been made in areas throughout the State. These funds have led to significant private investment, creating over 400 new jobs in Maryland.

THE IDLE RICH — Sometimes it's fun to dress up and pretend you're a tourist, especially one of the idle rich. "Barr" an independently wealthy member of the upper-crust, augments his carefully coiffed blond hair with a jaunty sou'wester and the latest Parisian wrap-around sunglasses. "Barr" a resident of North Fourth Street, Oakland, bills himself as the dog of many faces. If you should see him on the streets of Oakland incognito, pretend you don't recognize him. For one thing, he detests autograph "hounds" and besides, it would blow his cover.

A GIGANTIC JAILBREAK is happening at the Garrett County jail this week as work progresses on the demolition of the structure to make way for a new office building at the rear of the Courthouse. All that remains of the former structure is the outer shell of rubble, and work is progressing on the jail, although much more slowly due to the stonework.

Dear Editor:

The Sanitary Commissioners and their lawyer recently insulted the Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn by presenting them with yet another unitemized bill for sewage. But sharp-eyed councilmen spotted a $3000 overcharge. Hang in there, Loch Lynn. Mt. Lake Park's behind you one-hundred percent.

For years the Sanitary Commission hasn't had a legal Secretary Treasurer bonded to protect funds. Mister Groves never bothered to drop in at the Courthouse and be sworn into office and record his bond as law requires. As for protection of funds, it is a matter of record that the Commission's financial accountability has been a mess.

Now all their marketed bonds, their loans, lines of credit and grants requiring a legal, bonded Secretary-Treasurer may be in jeopardy. All persons and towns financially injured by such matters as the CETA affair or misapplication of funds could be thinking about claiming forfeiture of the Secretary-Treasurer's bond.

Month after month the Sanitary Commission and its lawyer do not obey that court order to furnish water to Oak Park and Mary Drive.

If the Commission's Resident Legal Agent had taken time from his other private and public work to keep them always on the right side of the law, we could have been spared a lot of trouble, bad feelings, and big legal fees. The 1969 contract with the towns would have been obeyed.

The Secretary Treasurer and the Resident Legal Agent do not belong in positions of public responsibility. The new Sanitary Commissioners have let us down by not removing them. Nothing left for us now but to vote out of all offices the County Commissioners who appointed and kept these men in office.

Big Broom's a comin'.

Joseph B. Bowen,
Mt. Lake Park

Dear Editor:

On Tom Butscher's commentary Friday, July 7th, he lashed out at you for publishing a letter critical of him for letting his 9-year-old boy do the news. For him to suggest that you not publish any letters critical of him or his family is absurd. Who does he think he is that he should get special privileges? I hope you won't stoop to such tactics because of his remarks, the letters to the editor column is one of the best things in your newspaper.

I agree with the person who wrote that letter. Mr. Butscher has a responsibility to the public to report the news as fairly and as accurately as he can. I don't believe he is doing that when he has a 9-year-old boy doing the news. This is not meant as criticism against the boy. He is not expected to know how to report news. In fact, I feel sorry for him, as I would any child whose father would put him in that kind of position.

For Mr. Butscher to refer to someone as a lunatic (as he did in his commentary) because they have an opinion different than his is ridiculous. I don't know how the F.C.C. feels about those kind of public remarks, but if they are not illegal, I think they would at the least be unethical. I would like to say to the person who wrote the letter: don't be discouraged from expressing your opinions because of Mr. Butscher's remarks. I feel sure more people agree with you than with him.

Mr. Butscher's commentaries do serve a purpose, they tell us what kind of man he really is.

Thank you,
Reland Roy

Donald R. Sincell, senior member of Sincell Publishing Co., was feted by the Staff of The Republican on July 3, on his 79th birthday. A birthday cake, in the form of The Republican newspaper, baked by Carla Kisner, and ice cream were served to the members of the staff and he was presented a gift by those present.

Dear Mr. Editor:

The Bible says train up a child the way he should go and, when he is old he will not depart from it. Prov. 22:6.

The best way to train children is by really doing something. I think it is good when parents do this. It was real interesting to hear James Arthur Butscher read the news on the air. I have heard many high school graduates that didn't read as well. I am wondering what those who would criticize were taught at home and what they are teaching their children.

A great man one time said there is no such thing as child delinquency, it is parent delinquency.

Yours truly,
Homer Mellott

Dear Editor:

Our thanks to The Republican office for correction in the article published July 5th paper. Even though they would not give any names as to who submitted that report. I feel that person was trying to cool the water around his feet, so used the term "Baby Sitter" to hide behind, and the name of the investigator and reporter that was given. After I gave him a tongue lashing, I was quickly reminded he had not begun to write any report, and had not submitted any such article. And I was also reminded of the penalty for such action on my part. Well, I hope by now the water around your feet is boiling and keeps you hopping, and if you hop high enough and land in his hands, I would not like to be in your shoes.

Signed, Mother of
"Baby Sitter"

To the Editor:

I would like very much to make a few points to our truck drivers on North Hill to follow:

No. 1. Do not overload for this is tearing up the road. We know that you are paying tremendous amounts for your tags on these vehicles.

No. 2. Roll these high spots with your wheels from one side to the other. Do not follow each other's tracks all of the time as it creates high and low spots in the road.

No. 3. Gentlemen, might I add the County budget has been reduced nearly one million dollars. Mr. McRobie, the Roads Engineer, really has his hands full wondering where to put one dollar ahead of the other on all roads throughout Garrett County.

So please, let's try to make it easy on Mr. McRobie and the taxpayers in trying to save our roads. Thank you, a Garrett County Roads employee for 19 years.

Harold O. Riggleman,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Dear Mr. Sincell:

Last week's letter expressing the views that new industries locating here should be self-supporting, and not be a drain on County taxpayers, was very interesting. As a businessman, I agree with these views, and during my association with the Garrett County Development Corporation we have always tried to follow these principles. Regardless of Mr. Friend's incorrect and misleading statements, there is no government subsidy being given to American HV Test Systems at Accident; it is completely self-supporting.

I'm also pleased to see that Mr. Friend has changed his views and is beginning to think progressively about subsidies to business. His views obviously were the opposite in 1955, when he helped to enact the only direct local subsidy that has ever existed for industry in Garrett County. Garrett's State Senator, Clifford Friend, co-sponsored and voted for the local law passed by the General Assembly that granted to new industries in Garrett County a ten-year exemption from all County or municipal real and personal property tax payments. Fortunately, the present County Commissioners were able to have this subsidy law repealed last year.

Isn't it ironic, though, that such a zealous (and misinformed) taxpayers' "crusader" was the co-author of the law that cost other Garrett County taxpayers so many thousands of dollars during the past two decades?

Sincerely yours,
J. H. Jackson,
Chairman

American People Reducing Energy Consumption Now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter can tell foreign nations the American people are reducing their energy consumption, Rep. Philip Sharp, D-Ind., said today.

Sharp told an interviewer there had been too much talk about the lack of energy legislation and not enough emphasis on the steps individuals and businesses were taking. Sharp said energy usage was being reduced because of increasing energy costs. "We have cut away the relationship between growth in the Gross National Product and consumption of energy," he said. "People are insulating their homes. They are buying different cars with gasoline mileage in mind. These things, added up, are starting to look like real progress."

Maria Piras Of Sardinia Is Local IFYE Guest

THE GROVE FAMILY gained one member recently, as they welcomed IFYE guest Maria Piras into their home for a few weeks. Above are Bobby Grove, Mrs. Virginia Grove, a teacher at Broad Ford Elementary School; Miss Piras, a teacher in her home country of Sardinia; and Wendy and Pam Grove.

A dark-haired young woman from the hot, dusty isle of Sardinia, west of Italy in the Mediterranean Sea, is the house guest for a few weeks of Mrs. Virginia Grove and children, Mt. Lake Park.

Maria Piras, 24, is traveling in the United States as a participant in the International Foreign Youth Exchange program (IFYE) sponsored by the 4-H International Exchange. The program allows young people to learn about another way of life and gain understanding of other prople.

Miss Piras arrived in the U. S. May 14, and was a guest at the University of Maryland for an orientation program. The Groves family is her third visit in Maryland, after staying with a farm family in Frederick County, and with a doctor's family in Howard County.

Farming of a different type is something Miss Piras knows a good deal about, as her family owns and operates a large farm with herds of goats and sheep. Cheese made from milk from these animals is exported to various countries, and ricotti cheese is sold to the neighboring town.

Forage crops for the animals are grown, and garden crops include olives and oranges in addition to vegetables.

The farm is a family concern, with two of Maria's older brothers assisting their parents, Raimondo and Vitalia Piras. Maria, an elementary school teacher, assists with milking chores, and is helped by one other brother still in school, two sisters still in school and one sister who is a hairdresser. There are 330 goats and 150 sheep to be milked by hand, so all hands are welcome on the farm. Cheese is dried by baking in ovens before being marketed.

Maria has been a teacher for two years, following her graduation from Istituto Magistrale Baudi di Vesme in Iglesias.

She has been cooking some of her country's well-known dishes for the Grove family, including spaghetti, lasagna, and pizza. She also enjoys sewing, crocheting, knitting, listening to music and singing.

Since being in Garrett County, she has discovered she loves the mountains and the forests, so green and so unlike her home country of Sardinia.

Following her visit here, on August 2 she will be leaving for South Dakota, where she will be staying with three different families before returning to Sardinia October 19.

Grantsville Downs Post 92 To Gain Second Victory

Grantsville Post 214 picked up its second win of the season with a 6-4 victory over James P. Love Post 92 at the Midland field Saturday. George Dom and Jim Simms were linked in a pitching duel for five innings. Dom twice pitched his team out of a bases loaded jam; once with no one out in the third and again with two out in the fourth.

Grantsville broke the scoreless tie in the top of the sixth when Corky Sweitzer and Bill Bender led off the inning with singles and Greg Beachy reached on an error. Craig Sullivan then singled to right center, driving in Sweitzer and Bender. Lawrence Nesselrodt was walked to reload the bases.

Frank Lewis pinch hit in all three runs with a double over the left fielder's head to cap the scoring.

Grantsville added its final run in the seventh on a line drive home run by Bill Bender. It was the first home run hit for Post 214 in the two seasons of play since Grantsville rejoined the Mt. District League after a 20 year absence.

Post 92 got to Jim Simms for three runs in the eighth after pitching four innings in the rain. Rick Stevens and John Boor singled in two runs and Ron Harden was walked to force in a run. Jeff Colaw took over for Simms with one out and the bases loaded.

Post 92 got its final run in the ninth on a walk, single, and RBI singles by Steve Metz. Greg Beachy turned over an unassisted double play to wipe out a possible late rally. Jamie Workman and Frank Lewis made two spectacular catches in center field to stop rallies, and the latter catch by Lewis saved the game.

The next scheduled game for the Grantsville Post is July 12, 5:15 p.m. at Garrett Community College against Lonaconing. They will return to GCC at 1 p.m. on July 15 to meet Cumberland.

Several local racers did well at various tracks last weekend. In the late model division in Bedford, Pa., Friday evening, Frank Lewis finished eighth in the Feature and won the Consolation Race. He traveled to Morgantown Speedway on Saturday where he began the Heat in the number seven position and ranked third at the finish. In the semi-late division Friday evening at Elkins, Randy McCartney finished second in the Heat and fourth in the Feature. In the Feature race he had an accident on the 13th lap while in fifth place and was unable to finish the race.

Fellow semi-late racer, Bob Hershman began the Heat in the number three slot and finished in first place and after starting third in the Feature he finished second.

Randy Murphy ran a field of 13 competitors in the Dune Buggy class, finishing third in the Heat and fifth in the Feature.

Wisp Adds New Trail, Chairlift

Bill Cook, Wisp Ski Area, announced that the Wisp will be expanding its facilities with the addition of a new chairlift, presently under construction.

"We have cleared an area for the chairlift and hopefully it will be in operation by this ski season," he stated. Cook added that the construction has been slowed down a great deal due to the inclement weather of the past few weeks.

The chairlift and new trail underneath will be located on the eastern face of the mountain, next to Squirrel Cage slope. According to Cook, the new lift will be approximately the same size as the present one.

Construction of a small dam at the top of the mountain to aid in snowmaking has also been started.

The Wisp presently has 22 miles of slopes and trails, a ropetow, poma lift, and t-bar in addition to the chairlift.

With Mr. Goldsborough are Valerie Loughrie, former state officer for Region I, holding his medallion award, and Richard Bishoff, region coordinator, holding the chapter farm degree award from Northern High School. 109 Killed, 200 Injured When Fuel Truck Explodes In Campground

SAN CARLOS DE LA RAPITA, Spain (UPI) — A tanker truck carrying a full load of liquefied gas exploded at a crowded campground on Spain's Mediterranean coast, sending a river of burning death through the idyllic scene.

The governor of the province of Tarragona, Francis Robert, said 99 people were killed instantly in the explosion and fire Monday and at least 10 more died in or on the way to hospitals. Medical officials said many of the 200 injured were burned so critically they were not expected to survive.

Earher reports from the interior ministry placed the death toll at 200 with another 600 injured. However, the interior ministry today confirmed the provincial casualty figures.

Some of the hundreds of European vacationers at the Los Alfaques camp, about halfway between Valencia and Barcelona, were eating lunch as the burning gas rushed through the campground. Others were taking a siesta or sunbathing.

The lucky ones had gone fishing.

Provincial officials today said the details of the tragedy were unclear but issued a report saying the truck carrying liquefied gas exploded as it passed the camp, causing death and destruction over "a vast area."

"It looked like a little Hiroshima," said Juan Verdera, who was about a mile away from the campground at the time of the explosion.

The 800 campers were mainly Dutch and Belgian, but also included Germans, French, English and Danes. Camp owner Mario Gianni said none was American.

Authorities said identification of the victims was difficult because of the charred and mutilated condition of the bodies.

"The worst was having to see the dying," Edith Ruffir of Nancy, France, said. "Some had no skin, no clothes, no hair. Their eyes were burned."

"Some who were already half dead ran to get under the showers."

The holocaust stopped just 20 yards short of where Mrs. Ruffir and her family were camped. She said her father, Georges Maire, "got too close and was caught up in in the explosion.

"I carried him out but I don't know in what hospital he is now," she said.

The explosion of the tanker truck touched off smaller blasts from bottled gas used for outdoor cooking and from the fuel tanks of automobiles parked at the campground.

The blasts dug a crater several yards deep and 30 yards across and tossed many victims hundreds of feet uito the sea. Divers searched the water for the bodies of victims.

Pierre de la Haye, 39, a Dutch camper, said it appeared the truck either blew a tire or collided with a passing car before it "came flying into the camp.

When it exploded, it jumped into the air like a jet and the liquid gas came like a river into the campground and in 10 seconds it burst into flames and went 200 to 300 yards into the air.

"Those in the periphery came out totally white, they had no skin. Many ran into the sea screaming, came out and jumped back in."

The tanker was carrying a full 43-cubic-yard load of propylene gas to the Puerto Llana refinery complex. The gas, the most volatile permitted on Spain's roads, is used in manufacturing plastics.

Program To Use High-Sulphur Coal Receives Funding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department is launching a potential $1.4 billion program to show how sulphur-polluted eastern coal can be turned into a clean-burning solid or liquid fuel.

If the effort succeeds, it could provide the double benefit of helping the nation clean up its air and reducing its heavy reliance on foreign oil.

Energy Department officials announced the first phase of the program Monday, awarding contracts for the design of the first two commercial-size plants using the "solvent refining" process to remove sulfur and fly ash from coal.

One of the plants is scheduled to be built in Kentucky; the other, in West Virginia.

The solvent refining process originated in Germany more than 40 years ago, but has been applied only in small pilot plants in the United States.

Officials said success in stepping up from existing plants to a commercial-scale operation could lead by 1987 to creation of two full-size plants turning out fuel with the energy equivalent of 200,000 barrels of oil a day, a major step toward reducing U. S. reliance on foreign oil.

Sulfur and ash contained in eastern coal now pose serious pollution problems, restricting the use of an abundant domestic fuel. Coal-burning utilities and industries must either use western low-sulphur coal or install costly smokestack "scrubbers" to comply with federal clean air laws.

The Energy Department awarded separate $6 million contracts to the Southern Company of Atlanta, which owns four electric utilities in the Southeast, and the Pittsburgh and Midway Coal Mining Co. of Denver, a Gulf Oil subsidiary, to design the first commercial-scale solvent refining plants.

Each plant would turn 6,000 tons of coal a day into the liquid or solid equivalent of 20,000 barrels of oil a day, removing most of the coal's ash and sulfur in the process. Officials said five such plants could be hooked together to produce a full commercial installation.

LUCKY OOG — "Wendy" basks in the shade of her front yard sighing with relief after local firemen removed her from her burning dwelling. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Elmlinger, Oak and E Streets, Mt. Lake Park, was the scene of the fire yesterday afternoon which was sparked by a faulty wire in an electric fan. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department responded with two pumpers and quickly contained the fire in a second floor room. Fire damage was minimal, however there was considerable smoke damage in the second floor.

Mandel Will Not Become Involved In 1978 Gubernatorial Campaign

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Suspended Gov. Marvin Mandel has told a local television station he will not become involved in this year's gubernatorial campaign despite statements to the contrary by at least one candidate.

Mandel told station WJZ-TV Monday he was sitting out a statewide campaign for the first time in 20 years.

The Mandel interview came only a couple days after the suspended chief executive spent the weekend talking politics and old times with acquaintances and former colleagues at an Ocean City meeting of the Maryland Association of Counties.

It also came about two months after Mandel helped forge the alliance between his successor, acting Gov. Blair Lee, III, and Senate President Steny H. Hoyer, who is running on Lee's ticket as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Earlier Tuesday, the Washington Post quoted Hoyer associate Peter O'Malley as saying Mandel made telephone calls to him on behalf of Attorney General Francis Burch, another of the five Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls.

O'Malley said Mandel called the day before Hoyer joined the Lee ticket to see if the Senate president might consider running on a ticket headed by Burch, the Post said.

Hoyer said he was aware that Mandel had contacted O'Malley, and saw nothing wrong with it.

"I think that every major candidate has had communications with the former governor," Hoyer was quoted as saying. "He is perceived as having moxie and intellectual savvy and his opinions tend to be parroted by others. Not that anyone feels that he should be part of their team. The guy just serves the functions of a communications center. He's talking to everyone all the time, and knows what's going on."

Mandel told WJZ-TV he fears the large field of Democratic candidates may make it possible for the GOP to regain the statehouse in November.

He said he was afraid the candidates seeking the party's nomination in a September 12 primary might become embroiled in a bitter campaign that would open the door to the Republican nominee.

Mandel said former U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., would be a formidable candidate if he obtains the GOP nomination over three other rivals.

Carter Says Info Leaks Serious

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter says the problem of information leaks has become so serious that some sources are afraid to share sensitive material with the United States.

Carter expressed his concern over the problem Tuesday during a meeting with members of the House and Senate intelligence committees. He reportedly made no suggestions for curbing the leaks.

Senate Republican leader Howard Baker said Carter told the lawmakers he had found a "new reluctance by a reliable source to confide in the U. S. because it would get in the newspapers."

Specific news leaks bothering Carter were not identified by the committee members.

"Leaks are an epidemic disease in Washington," Baker said. "If you can't stop them then I think you ought to slow them down."

The President had other meetings scheduled with members of Congress today on such items as the Turkish arms embargo, defense matters and urban policy before starting a five-day trip to West Germany Thursday.

Carter is scheduled to arrive in Bonn Thursday and will remain there until Monday evening, with side trips to Frankfurt and Berlin planned during the state visit portion of his trip.

On Sunday and Monday, he meets with the leaders of six other western industrialized nations at the fourth annual economic summit.

The journey will be Carter's fourth major trip abroad since he became president, and comes at a time when tensions are increasing between the United States and the Soviets.

His visit to the Berlin Wall was expected to dramatically spotlight East-West differences. Carter's decision to face questioning from Berliners at an unprecedented "town hall" is giving German officials pause, but he is confident of his ability to handle the tough ones in an arena no American President has ever tried before.

As for the economic meeting, the White House is billing it as a forum where allies will all be making commitments to exert greater efforts for world economic recovery.

Carter, after reviewing the results of the London meeting in the spring of 1977, is prepared to argue that the United States has made progress.

Carter also was staying in touch with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance who was meeting in Geneva today with Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko on a host of East-West issues, including the strategic arms limitation negotiations, the Middle East, Africa and the trials of Soviet Jewish dissidents.

Coal Plant Site To Be Announced

MORGANTOWN, W. VA. (UPI) — An announcement was expected in Morgantown today by Thomas R. Goodwin, executive assistant to Gov. Jay Rockefeller, on the site of a $500 million plant designed to turn high sulfur coal into cleanburning fuel oil.

Rockefeller had planned to make the announcement, but went to New York Monday night upon learning of the death of his father, philanthropist John D. Rockefeller III, in a traffic accident.

Despite his absence, the scheduled 10 a.m. will be held as planned, officials said Tuesday.

Attending the brief ceremony at the Ramada Inn will be Don Moyer, director of the Governor's Office of Economic and Community Development; Senate President William T. Brotherton, Jr., D-Kanawha; Senators Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd, both D-W. Va.; federal Department of Energy officials and representatives of Gulf Oil Corp.

Rockefeller, in Washington Monday for the signing of the agreement for the coal liquefacation plant, was at National Airport waiting for a flight home when his wife, Sharon, reached him by telephone to relate the death of his father, aides said.

Rockefeller immediately boarded a plane to New York and was joined by his wife Tuesday. The couple's three children were to make the trip to New York today.

Viewed as a major boost to West Virginia's economy, the long-awaited announcement of the coal liquefacation plant represents a joint project with the federal government and Gulf Oil.

In the construction phase, the West Virginia plant will employ nearly 1,500. When it becomes operational, around 1983, the plant will employ 450 full-time employees.

Ultimately, the facility will convert some 6,000 tons of coal a day into the equivalent of 20,000 barrels of clean-burning liquid fuel.

Carnival Prizes Rated Inhuman

HAVRE DE GRACE, MD. (UPI) — It is cruel to put goldfish in water-filled plastic bags for use as prizes at a carnival, The Humane Society said so.

The Humane Society of Harford County cited a state law that bans the giveaway of "any live animal, equine or bird" as a prize or come-on.

A player at a carnival goldfish game paid 25 cents to pitch a ping-pong ball at rows of goldfish bowls. He won a goldfish if a ball landed in a bowl.

The law, which took effect July 1, was largely aimed at preventing the giveaway of chickens, rabbits, puppies and kittens. But Warren Brodrick, manager of the Fallston Society and Animal Shelter, said the law could be used to prevent cruelty to goldfish.

"I would estimate that 75 percent don't live beyond a week because they've been handled, and they shouldn't be," he said Monday. "They suffer shock, trauma, different water, being in that little plastic bag without air."

He said the society representatives went to the Havre De Grace carnival after receiving three complaints from residents.

Brodrick said the law provides for a $500 fine but no one was arrested or cited at the carnival.

Ralph Knox, operator of the goldfish game, said he and his family depend on the income from the game.

Knox said few carnivals carry goldfish games because it is too time consuming to buy the fish from local breeders and transport them to the carnivals in large, aerated tanks.

Knox, who said he had not been informed of the law, said, "I had enough trouble getting along before this. I'm in debt a good bit and I was figuring on $5,000 a year from the goldfish to help take care of the debt. I guess I might end up on welfare."

MSTA Appoints Group To Study Taxpayer Revolt

The Maryland State Teachers Association Delegation meeting in Dallas, part of the 116th annual National Education Convention has called for a special Task Force to study the "taxpayers' revolt" which has rocked the fiscal foundation of California and caused 23,000 public school teachers there to lose their jobs.

MSTA's Caucus here unanimously adopted a New Business Item to be introduced to the 10,000-member NEA Delegation which directs the president of NEA to appoint a special Task Force to study the implications for the public school teaching profession of the current taxpayers' revolt demonstrated by the adoption of Proposition 13 in California, as well as actions in Ohio and elsewhere expressing citizens' opposition to soaring taxes.

Pete V. Treibley, president of MSTA, explained that the study called for by the Maryland teachers would include examination of both long-range and short-term effects of this movement and report its findings and recommendations at the 1979 NEA Representative Assembly session in Detroit.

Treibley said, "It is our intention that this Task Force would also serve as a clearing house for the collection and dissemination of information concerning the Proposition 13 action and similar movements across the nation during 1978-79."

Treibley noted that the Task Force would be charged with contacting state and local NEA affiliates to obtain information relative to this issue. Data collected would be utilized in forming a position to ease taxpayers' financial burdens while, at the same time, preserving essential funding for vital government programs such as education and public safety and welfare.

MSTA several months ago publicly warned that a taxpayers' revolt was sweeping eastward across the nation and that steps were necessary to ward off damaging effects to essential government-funded public service programs.

In Maryland, the organized teaching profession has attempted to initiate tax reform legislation at the state level which would include adoption of a graduated system of income taxation based on affordability to pay. This proposal would include taxing at several levels of income, adjusting tax levy so that it would more realistically reflect an individual's ability to meet tax obligations. The MSTA proposal would eliminate the present almost total reliance on the property tax for funds with which to pay for education programs.

Treibley pointed out that "while the full effects of the vote on Proposition 13 will probably not be felt by Californians for several years because of that state's some $[illegible] billion surplus, eventually the citizens of California will suffer because of the drastic cutback in revenues generated by the property tax. Already, we see severe reductions in school and police personnel because of the vote on Proposition 13. In time, there will also be erosion of other government services there, since funds will not be available to support roads programs, sanitation services and the many other necessary government functions."

He added, "While we agree that tax reform is essential, we also stress that such reform must be accomplished in an orderly manner, following studies which reflect all the ramifications of any proposed form of tax revision. The study we have called for will provide information for such orderly tax reform."

SALT Talks Open In Switzerland

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko opened strategic arms limitation talks today under the darkening cloud of the dissident trials in the Soviet Union.

The two men chatted cordially and posed for photographers behind a table in the modern conference room on the eighth floor of the U.S. delegation building.

They then began their meeting four minutes late to try to resolve two major issues standing in the way of an agreement — restrictions on the testing of new missiles and limitations on the Soviet Backfire bomber.

Vance was putting forward an American proposal that would permit both sides to build mobile missile systems for protection against a first strike by the other side.

The Carter admcnistration reportedly considers such a system crucial to protect U.S. Minutemen missiles. One American official said that if the Soviets rejected the proposal, there would not be an arms agreement.

Woman Injured In Boxing Bout With Male Cadet

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — A woman training to be a Department of Public Safety patrol officer suffered a concussion in a boxing bout with male cadet and was in serious condition today at a local hospital.

Belinda Macias, 21, of El Paso collapsed Tuesday about 30 minutes after she was hit on the head in a training bout with cadet Tim Mullenkoff. She was admitted to the intensive are unit at Brackenridge Hospital and listed in serious condition.

Jim Taylor, director of training at the DPS academy, said Mullenkopf and Miss Macias were wearing 16-ounce gloves when she was injured. Miss Macias is 5-foot-5 and weighs about 110. Mullenkoff, 21, is 5-foot-8 and weighs 150.

"We try to match cadets by size," said DPS spokesman Jim Robinson. He said female cadets are required to undergo the same training as men, including boxing.

Macias became dizzy and had to sit down after being hit during the boxing training, and within half an hour collapsed.

Workers Continue Search For Bodies In Denver Hotel

VICTORIA, Texas (UPI) — Workers digging through cement, bricks and wooden beams of an old, closed hotel that collapsed have temporarily suspended their operations without finding additional victims.

Officials said at least three persons were killed in the cave-in Tuesday of the 65-year-old Denver Hotel. Officials believed one more person might still be buried under the rubble.

The once-grand hotel, closed since 1971, was scheduled for demolition during the weekend and crews were gutting the structure Tuesday when it collapsed.

"We don't know why it fell like that," said police officer Don Ward. "We're investigating. (The crews) were getting ready to pull it down in a couple of days, but we were told they hadn't pulled out any of the support beams or anything yet."

The first victim was identified as Weldon Johnson of Austin, Texas, who was standing on a sidewalk when the three-story hotel's front wall collapsed.

The second victim was identified as Sylvestra Castro, a construction worker from Mexico. The name of the third victim, also a Mexican national, was not released, pending notification of relatives.

Officials said Castro and the third victim were working with jackhammers on steel support beams on the first floor just minutes before the building caved in.

A fourth person, believed working upstairs in the building to remove plumbing fixtures, was missing.

Ward, who once worked as a security guard in the hotel, said it used to be considered the finest lodging in this city close to the Gulf Coast.

"At one time it was a very fashionable hotel," he said. "Cattlemen, oilmen, they all stayed there.

Repairs Begin On Severn River Bridge

ANNAPOLIS (UPI) — Work began Tuesday to repair the damaged Old Severn River Bridge, one of the two spans linking Annapolis with the Baltimore area.

The 280-foot bridge, which was built in 1924, was closed three months ago after a state agency determined the structure unsafe. It carried about 16,000 vehicles a day when it was closed by the State Highway Administration on April 16.

A contract for about $1 million was awarded to the McLean Contracting Co. of Baltimore to strip the decking from the old bridge and remove and replace its superstructure.

State officials expedited the awarding of the contract to help speed the reopening of the bridge.

Traffic has been diverted to the new Severn River bridge on U.S. Route 50.

A temporary footbridge has also been constructed for joggers, fishermen, hikers and bikers.

Anti-Abortion Leaders Protest Jail Sentence

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland anti-abortion leaders said Tuesday a Baltimore County man who was sentenced to 30 days in jail for trespassing at a Planned Parenthood clinic in Baltimore was trying "to save lives" and should not have been given a prison term.

John A. Pelikan, 29, of Catonsville, was found guilty of trespassing at Planned Parenthood's Maryland headquarters June 21, and was sentenced Monday to 30 days in jail by District Court Judge Carl W. Bacharach.

Bacharach imposed the sentence, saying Pelikan "had gone to the camp of the Philistines" and "we can't live in a society unless we follow rules."

Pelikan, who was arrested on similar charges in May 1977, has appealed the decision.

Ruth Walsh, a spokesman for Planned Parenthood, refused to comment on the matter because it is being appealed.

John Enoch, a Baltimore lawyer and active member of the city's Right-to-Life group, said the punishment was "harsh."

"He (Pelikan) went on the premises for a reason," Enoch said. "The reason is that the law permits someone to trespass if the individual is trespassing to protect a human life. It is a valid theory of law."

Pat Hurley, the founder of the Carroll County anti-abortion group, said her "sentiment is with Mr. Pelikan.

"I think the judge is acting in a criminal way," the 48-year-old grandmother said. "I think he's being totally insensitive. I think to sentence that young man to 30 days is criminal in itself."

However, Sen. Rosalie Abrams, D-Baltimore, who supported continued state funding of abortions, said, "First of all, it's one thing to protest in a peaceful manner and it's another thing to violate the law.

"We may not agree with what other people are doing, but we really have no right to illegally interfere with what they are doing," she said.

Patty Francomacaro, president of the Howard County Right-to-Life group, said Pelikan "was trespassing under the (common law) Necessity Act because he wanted to try and save the lives of these babies that are being aborted.

"The sentence is much too big for trespassing," she said.

But Mrs. Francamacaro added that the Howard County group as an organization has never trespassed to get its point across.

John Sweeney, a Baltimore lawyer who is chairman of the Speakers Bureau of Metropolitan Baltimore Right-to-Life, defended Pelikan's action.

"I think militant action of this nature is necessary to focus the attention of the nation on the evil of abortion which now destroys over one million innocent unborn children annually," he said.

"Historically in this country, if demonstrators violate civil laws, they have to be ready to pay the penalty," Sweeney said. "This was true in Selma, Ala.," he added, referring to the civil rights demonstrations.

Last 2 Billion Dollar Supercarrier For U. S. Will Be Built Next Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate and the House have added a $2 billion supercarrier to next year's defense budget, but the Senate wants it to be the last one ever built.

In a surprise move Tuesday, the Senate amended the $36.1 billion military authorization bill to require any future carriers be "substantially smaller and less costly" than either the nuclear-powered ship in the bill or a mid-sized conventional flattop originally sought by the administration.

The full authorization bill was then approved 87-2 late Tuesday.

In addition to multibillion dollar programs for aircraft, Army tanks and Navy ships, the bill includes such items as $41 million for adapting wide-bodied jetliners to carry cruise missiles, and programs for further development of strategic and space weapons.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, longtime critic of military spending, sponsored the carrier ban, enlisting the support of Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., and such military hardliners as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Under the ban, the president could seek more big carriers only if he notified Congress that smaller ships were not in the national interest. Even then he would have to provide an alternate program of smaller vessels so the lawmakers could make a choice.

Culver said while present carriers and the Nimitz-class supercarrier authorized for the year starting Oct. 1 will be important parts of the Navy into the 21st century, beyond that point "there is very little controversy that the role of the giant carrier is over."

The Soviets now have weapons aimed at sinking such huge ships, Culver said, and "because of its increased vulnerability, an aircraft carrier sitting out there is a high value target."

The carrier ban must be approved by the House before being included in the final bill. Its acceptance by the Senate, however, is expected to spur opponents who hope to deny funds for the Nimitz carrier in appropriations legislation yet to be considered.

Builders Urged To Call Miss Utility Before Excavating

A call to Miss Utility could save your life.

"Miss Utility" is a life-saving, money-saving service established to stop mishaps caused by persons accidentally digging into underground facilities.

Beneath the ground on which we live are uncounted miles of electric wires, television lines, gasoline and oil pipelines, telephone lines, natural gas, water and sewer pipes and their related valves, splices and junctions. Should a backhoe, plow or even a common shovel break into one of these, someone could be severely injured and hundreds of customers could be knocked out of vital service.

To ease this threat, Miss Utility came into being.

Now, before you dig, make a collect call to Miss Utility, (301) 559-0100. The Miss Utility staff will then contact the participating companies and services that may have facilities in the area of your dig, and you will be notified of any conflicting situations which may exist.

Over twenty organizations belong to the Miss Utility network.

A word of caution - non-participating organizations should be notified individually for locations of their underground facilities.

Miss Utility has only two requests: (1) Call at least 48 hours prior to the start of work when possible, and (2) Call between 7 a.m., and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday except legal holidays.

Emergency calls will be processed promptly 24 hours a day. Regardless of the timing, Miss Utility's services are free - damages are not.

Actually, placing a call to Miss Utility before you dig is now more than a request, it's the law. The Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) requires any contractor to make an effort to contact Miss Utility before digging.

Many state laws - including Maryland's - require the same thing. And, as the value of Miss Utility is proven time and time again, it is quite certain that, eventually, all states will have similar laws on their books.

When one local utility first joined the Miss Utility network in 1972, they were annually recording over 400 cases of damages caused by persons accidentally digging into their facilities. In the first year of their participation, the figure dropped to 350; the second year showed 240 cases and by 1977 the figure had dropped to 136.

Even greater success was reported by the Washington, D. C. Suburban Sanitary Commission. Here the damage reports were 390 in 1972 and 92 in 1977.

In 1971, the first year of Miss Utility's operation in this area, 1,067 calls were processed through the headquarters' office. This jumped to 6,600 in the second year and in 1977 the calls hit the striking total of 78,140.

Not only has the one-call concept spread nationwide, it is now international. If, for example, you plan on digging in Taiwan, the number to call is 02-351-2345.

The originator of jogging thought it would be a passing fancy.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS IDLENESS A SIN?

Lesson for July 16, 1978

Background Scripture: 2 Thessalonians
Devotional Reading: Titus 2:11-14

A number of years ago there was a considerable attack on what was labled "Christianity's preoccupation with the work ethic." Some theologians thought that with the rise of mechanization and technology that the old work ethic was obsolete. Christians, particularly Protestants, they said, had made work into an idol. They called for a sweeping change in our thinking on this subject.

Rev. Althouse

Imitate Us

At the time I wondered about these matters. Was it possible that work was not the good that I had always assumed that it was? Is there something in the work ethic that is destructive of spiritual values, as some theologians seemed to think? Since one cannot investigate such matters in a testube or under a microscope, I had to let the world about me be my laboratory.

I watched young people who got into trouble because they had nothing constructive to do. Their parents had conveniently freed them of the need to do any work or even chores. I watched older people who were retired at an age when others were just finding new levels of productivity and creativity. I saw retired people "die" in soft chairs in front of television sets. I saw people whose lives withered because they were denied the opportunity to find a way of making a contribution to society. I saw black people riot because they were being denied the opportunity to do meaningful work. I saw families disintegrate under the pressure of welfare.

My conclusion: work is surely one of God's greatest gifts to his children.

Earning Our Bread

Paul speaks clearly on this issue in 2 Thessalonians. There were some people in the church at Thessalonica who expected the Second Coming of Christ to take place immanently and had settled into a pattern of hand-to-mouth living that became a burden to those who had not given up their jobs. Someone can always find a good reason to let someone else support him!

Paul was adamant, nowever. "Keep away from any brother who is living in idleness" (3:6). Paul's words sound harsh, but he knew that idleness is like a communicable disease and he was afraid the whole church would be caught up in it. Pointedly he reminds them of the example he had set for them while in their city: "We were not idle when we were with you, we did not eat anyone's bread without paying for it, but with toil and labor we worked night and day that we might not burden any of you" (3:7,8).

This is what really makes idleness sinful: one cannot be idle without becoming a burden to someone else. Nothing is more destructive to the human spirit than to lose the capacity to "be fruitful" as God commanded Adam and Eve. Thus, said Paul, "if any one will not work, let him not eat" (3:10). It seems a harsh command, but it is one of the kindest things we can do for another.

Mrs. Wunderlick Is Appointed Resource Development Agent

The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service announces the appointment of Mrs. Janet C. Wunderlick to the position of Community Resource Development Agent for Allegany and Garrett counties.

In this position Mrs. Wunderlick will develop educational programs for individuals, organizations, and public officials in human, natural, and economic resources. Priority programs of the Community Resource Development Department of the Extension Service include: land use, community and individual energy systems, housing, environmental quality, public affairs issues, and rural development.

Mrs. Wunderlick is one of eleven Resource Development agents in Maryland and the second woman to be appointed in the State. She brings to this position eight years experience with the Cooperative Extension Service as coordinator of the Family Aide Program in Allegany County. In this role she has developed numerous Community Development programs. Her experience also includes seven months as a social worker in Allegany County and three years in the Peace Corps in Brazil in a Rural Community Development Project. In that capacity she served as advisor to twenty-two elementary teachers under the auspices of the Alagoas Department of Education, taught mathematics in the pedagocial school, served as a scrub nurse in orthopedic surgery, and developed health and craft programs.

Mrs. Wunderlick's training includes a B.A. in Mathematics and an M.S. in Management from Frostburg State College. She is married to John C. Wunderlick and resides in Cumberland.

In regard to her new position Mrs. Wunderlick comments, "This is a great opportunity for me to do the work that I enjoy best - that of creating new solutions to community problems. I will be working closely with existing institutions and interested individuals to further develop personal and community resources in these two counties. I think there is agreement that our major problem is economic, with resultant high unemployment and underemployment. I will emphasize programs that mobilize economic resources by capitalizing on existing community assets. I hope for the cooperation and assistance of professionals working in related fields and members of the larger community. It is my intent to augment and enhance the good work already underway in Western Maryland."

Mrs. Wunderlick's office is with the Allegany County Cooperative Extension Service, 11 Prospect Square, Cumberland, 724-3320. She can also be reached at the Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service office in the post office building in Oakland.

Motor Vehicle Wrecks Injure Several Persons

Several persons were injured in motor vehicle accidents during the past week in various areas around the county. One correction is noted.

Last week it was stated that the C. E. Nazelrod car struck the Victor D. Ahern car, rather it was Ahern's brakes that malfunctioned and he struck the Nazelrod car. The error is regretted.

One man was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, by the Frostburg Area Ambulance following a motorcycle mishap. Norman Robert Wilando, 37, RD 3, Meyersdale, Pa., was traveling north on the Finzel road just south of the Pennsylvania State Line, about 3:30 last Friday afternoon. He passed a tractor-trailer and it caused him to lose control of the cycle which went off the right side of the road. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore investigated.

The passenger in another motorcycle mishap was injured and taken to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad last Thursday morning about 10:30. Donald E. Bellinger, RD 1, Grantsville, operator of the cycle was thrown from the machine, but apparently was not hurt as was his passenger, Penny Jean Bellinger, of the same address. They were traveling west on Rt. 40 near Keyser Ridge when the rear tire blew out. The operator then lost control and the cycle which overturned in the lane of traffic. Tfc. R. C. Georg investigated.

The two passengers of a pick-up were injured in a two-vehicle wreck on Savage River road two miles north of Big Run Road Saturday just past noon. Debby Green, 17, Silver Spring and Cathy Nochesra, 18, of Washington, D. C. were passengers in the vehicle driven by Robert L. Green, also of Silver Spring. Robert L. Terrett, Jr., Rockville, was driving north on the Savage River Road in a Forestry Department truck and Green was southbound. The two vehicles approached each other on the narrow road at a sharp curve and struck head-on. The Forestry truck apparently failed to keep far enough to the right to pass. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland made the investigation.

There were no injuries in a two-car mishap in Swanton Sunday evening. Wayne Allen Rounds, RD 1, Swanton, was westbound in Swanton and attempted to park on the westbound shoulder. David Wayne Bowers, RD 4, Deer Park, facing east, pulled across the road from a parked position on the eastbound shoulder and attempted to park on the westbound shoulder. It was then that the two cars collided. Tfc. L. R. Rosage charged Bowers with failing to keep to the right side of the road.

Last Wednesday evening the driver of a motorcycle was thrown from his vehicle on Glendale road some distance east of Paradise Point Road. David George Stuck, 22, S. Second Street, Oakland, was taken to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad with a fractured ankle. John M. Boscordin, Belle Vernon, Pa., was driving west on the Glendale Road. He attempted to turn around in a driveway to his right. In doing so he backed out onto Glendale Road and into the path of the cycle traveling eastbound. A collision resulted. Cpl. R. S. Lewis charged Boscordin with failing to grant the right-of-way and Stuck with operating without a license.

One person was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad on the morning of July 4. The injured, Arthur Franklin Uphold, RD 2, Oakland, southbound, was following a car driven by David Lee Lucas, RD 2, Oakland. Uphold slowed to attempt to make a left turn onto Spring Grove Road. Lucas failed to reduce speed, striking the Uphold vehicle and pushing it onto a private lawn into a road sign. Tfc. L. C. Smith charged Lucas with excess speed.

A July 1 cycle accident sent one man to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, taken by the Northern Rescue Squad. Steven Eugene Friend, RD 1, Friendsville, was northbound on Second Ave., near Maple Street, in Friendsville, at a high rate of speed. He lost control, ran off the road to the left and into a yard. He struck the side of the Gene Sines home. Charges are pending according to the report of Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland.

Another man was thrown from his cycle in a two vehicle mishap at the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort the afternoon of July 2. John Patrick Milne, 13, Monroeville, Pa., was taken to the Garrett Memorial Hospital by a private party. William Charles Kremann, Glendale, was traveling south on Beaver Run road as Milne was eastbound on Bear Road. Both attempted to make the intersection at the same time and collided. Tfc. D. H. Riggleman investigated.

4-H Steer Camp Slated A Success

Steer Camp, a two-day workshop in fitting and showing steers, held from June 30 to July 1, at the McHenry Fairgrounds, was attended by a group of 4-H'ers with beef projects. John Wildeson, manager of the Eastern National Livestock Exposition, and Lawrence F. Little, Extension Agent 4-H and Youth, were in charge of the camp workshop.

University of Maryland Work Study Students, Bill Kuepp, Cheryl Kinser and Albert Kinser, helped in instructing sessions on washing, clipping, grooming, trimming feet, and showing of beef steers.

The camp's activities included the 4-H'ers participating in a practice fitting and showing class that was to represent actual show conditions. The camp helped prepare its participants for shows in the future like the one at the Garrett County Fair.

The camp's activities were videotaped and will be available as an instructional tool in the immediate future. The Crellin Community Action Group was responsible for food for the camp.

POET'S PODIUM

By Jim Willis

Anyone that has ever watched their tabby cat stalking by moonlight, has probably watched the cat "transformed" into a mini-jungle cat:

THE TRANSFORMATION

From jaded eyes to glowing embers,
Sinuous symmetry to lithe power;
Rodent's bodies, once dismembered —
Now larger prey in shadows cower;
Then a nondescript tabby pattern,
Becomes a hellish feline's pelt;
Settled at fireside, dwells in caverns.
The moonbeam's transformation melts.

By Jim Willis, Reprinted from Chimes, 1974.

The following are a few selections from a local poet, Donna Lee Shaffer. They are reprinted with permission from Donna's Poetry Corner, copyright 1977.

AN ACT OF VIOLENCE

on the lonely rain-swept beach, unprotected by the elements of nature; and the sudden storm pierced its delicately-formed walls and hurled it across the beach, where it became part of a million grains of sand and was consumed by the ocean.

FREEDOM

Let the wind blow your hair and be as free as the breeze around you,
surrounding you, uplifting you

DESTINY

The gulls by the sea,
the flowers in the field realize their destiny is in harmony with nature.

WASHING BEHIND THE EARS — Cleanliness and good grooming are important for show steers. County 4-H'ers recently participated in a two-day workshop at the McHenry Fairgrounds. The program was based on the Chinese proverb, "Tell me - I forget; Show me - I may remember; Involve me and I understand," and allowed hands-on experience with the animals. Pictured are Chris Hinebaugh and youth leader, Cheryl Kinser of Allegany County.

Tips Given For Insect Control

Have you swatted your first mosquito? Doused an ant with a household spray?

The summer invasion of insects is underway and the National Pest Control Association offers some helpful hints to combat it.

For example, make sure all screens fit tightly and are free of holes. Open doors only long enough to enter or leave. Check family pets for ticks or fleas.

Most pests thrive on food, warmth and water - all elements that make a home livable. Since you can't eliminate these basic appeals, NPCA suggests preventive measures to keep uninvited guests from making your home their home.

Good housekeeping is a must inside and out. Keep the inside as clean and dry as possible, the outside well-painted and free of rubbish. Some pests love dirt, most love dampness, and all of them need a place to hide and breed.

Pay special attention to the kitchen. Sweep up crumbs, wash dishes, glassware and utensils promptly, and store leftover foods in tightly covered containers. Given an open invitation to dine, pests will continue to live with you.

Clean frequently around base boards, air vents and cracks and crevices in floors, and under stairwells. They are favorite breeding places for all kinds of pests.

Also keep bathrooms clean and dry, as well as areas around basement sinks, water heaters and humidifiers. Pests need water as well as food.

Keep trash and garbage buildup to a minimum. If it must pile up between pickups, store it away from the house. You'll want to keep those invaders at a distance.

Don't be fooled into believing your new trash compactor will solve the problem. No matter how often you squeeze them or hit them with disinfectant, pests are hardy creatures and can turn your compactor into their own motel.

Check grocery bags and soft drink containers carefully when unpacking food. Roaches or ants in pairs may be hitch-hiking a ride to start up another family in your home.

Also carefully check screens in windows and doors, including attic windows. There may be holes that insects can pass through, or larger ones where mice, squirrels or other animals may enter.

Look for holes or cracks along the foundation or around water pipes. Plug those you find with steel wool. Stuffing them with newspaper will not help because rats and mice simply eat it as food.

Try to keep dirty clothing from piling up, and never store garments that have not been cleaned. It's an open invitation to moths, silverfish and other pests to gorge themselves.

Vacuum drapes and cornices and the underside of furniture frequently. Empty the bag promptly - outdoors.

Purchase only small quantities of food and store it in containers that insects or rodents can't penetrate. Any food contaminated by insects should be thrown away.

Keep wood surfaces of your home well painted and check frequently for dampness or signs of rot. Make sure gutters are clear and downspouts keep water well away from the foundation. Remember, many of those pests love dampness.

Consider an annual inspection by a pest control specialist. He is an expert on all pests . . . from termites and carpenter ants to roaches and rodents . . . and can help prevent an infestation or get rid of those that already are invaders.

The National Pest Control Association is a non-profit organization of professionals that last year provided their services to 10 million residences, 240,000 retail food outlets and 400,000 restaurants. In addition to providing consumers with pest control information, it conducts research on pests and pesticides and provides on-going training information to members.

Environmental Impact Review For Yough River Available To Public

The National Park Service has placed on public review a draft Environmental Impact Statement on the Youghiogheny River in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The statement evaluates the impact of the inclusion of two separate segments of the river totaling 49 miles; one between Oakland and Friendsville, the other between the Youghiogheny Dam and South Connellsville, Pennsylvania. The Youghiogheny qualifies for inclusion in the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System as a wild river in Maryland and as a scenic river in Pennsylvania.

"The document was prepared as required by the National Environmental Policy Act," said Richard L. Stanton, Mid-Atlantic Regional Director of the Interior Department's National Park Service.

A study report of the Youghiogheny River was prepared and made public by the former Bureau of Outdoor Recreation (now the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service) in 1976. A recent departmental reorganization brought such river studies under the National Park Service. The study was conducted as required under the National Wild and Scenic Rivers Act (Public Law 90-542).

Copies of the EIS have been sent to counties and local municipalities in the study area for review and comment. Federal and state agencies, interest groups, and citizens have until August 12 to submit comments to the National Park Service.

Copies of the draft environmental statement are available for review at the following locations: Ruth Enlow Library, Friendsville Branch, Maple Street, Friendsville; and Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland Branch, 6 N. Second Street, Oakland.

Albums Raffled By Monte Vista

All proceeds from the raffle, which was held July 9, will go towards the 4-H Nebraska Exchange Trip in which most of the club members will be participating. Over 150 chances were sold.

The next meeting of the club will be held at 5 p.m. August 3 at Broad Ford Recreation Area where a picnic and business meeting will be held.

Studying firsthand the ecosystem of Deep Creek Lake from GCC's pontoon boat are four biology instructors at area colleges. Left to right are Kathleen Hess, Hagerstown Junior College biology department; William Pegg, Frostburg State College biology department; Jim Howell, Allegany Community College biology department; and Drew Farrier, Garrett Community College math/science division.

Along with the fishermen, the sailors, and the water-skiers on Deep Creek Lake these sunumer mornings is a group of scientists who have come to the lake to study its aquatic ecosystem. They are four biology instructors who may be seen working from the blue and white pontoon boat of Garrett Community College with their fish traps, sampling instruments, and collecting bottles.

Their project is being funded by the RESA Staff Development Consortium of Western Maryland, of which the area's four institutions of higher learning are members. Scientists doing this study are Drew Ferrier of Garrett Community College, Kathleen Hess of Hagerstown Junior College, James Howell of Allegany Community College, and William Pegg of Frostburg State College.

Included in their study will be analysis of water quality at various locations, survey of plankton species in the water column, collection and analysis of bottom fauna, survey of fish species, and analysis of flora in selected watershed areas. Upon completion of the research, the group will publish a report of their findings.

This study, known as the Deep Creek Lake Project, is one of several presently being funded by the Consortium. Staff development projects in any instructional or administrative area may be undertaken by any two of the member institutions with the approval of the advisory committee. No single college may conduct a project unilaterally.

The advisory committee is comprised of the Consortium Director Lee Ann Feltwell, RESA Representative Anthony South, an administrator and a faculty member from each of the four institutions. These members are Dr. Ken Jablon and Dr. Judy Thelen of Frostburg, Dr. Don Alexander and Margaret Keller of Allegany, Dr. Michael Parsons and George Elliott of Hagerstown, Robert Trantham and Joan Crawford of Garrett. This committee reviews proposals for projects and determines which ones will be funded.

PICK SOMETHING SPECIAL

One way to give yourself—and your home—a lift, is to consider this idea:

Think about picking one special thing for each room. It can be one piece of furniture or one outstanding accessory.

The theory is that just one very special thing can really perk up a room.

And, furniture surveys show there's more variety and more options today in every price range—so it's easier to find those special things that can do so much for your home.

There are many different things you can think about. You might want to look for a new chair, or a new cabinet, or perhaps consider a new color or pattern.

Whatever you select can stand out on its own and at the same time become an integral part of the whole—contrasting AND harmonizing with the other things in your room.

You might start by looking around each room and decide what one thing, or things, that could be added. It might be just something small for one room, or maybe something big in another, but by analyzing your rooms this way you can, at the pace you set for yourself, add those elements—large and small—that can make your home even more special.

If you need help please feel free to stop in. We're here to serve you in any way we can.

Assessment Answers

By James Burley

Q. What is the state law of assessment in determining the assessed value of a mobile home? Is there a depreciation on mobile homes? If so, how old must the mobile home be before it starts, and if there is a depreciation, what are the rates?

A. The law regarding assessments of mobile homes is the same as for other residential properties to the extent that it is based upon the market value. The law says that a mobile home that is in a rented space in a trailer park is not to be taxed as real property. However, if a mobile home or trailer is situated on the owner's lot or property then it is considered real estate. A mobile home that is assessed as real estate is assessed to the owner of the land, irrespective of who might actually own the mobile home.

When a mobile home is traded or sold, the transaction is handled the same as for an automobile or other vehicle. Once it is situated on a lot, it is considered a homestead — the same as any other home — and the assessor must determine the market value of that home — the same as he would for any other residential property. The market value may not really relate to the sale price of the motor home on the dealer's lot.

Depreciation commences immediately. It follows a curve. A property depreciates very slowly at first. The depreciation accelerates rapidly during its midlife and then stabilizes during its later life to a point where physical wear and tear have little additional effect.

The depreciation allowance is determined in the same way that it is for other property, and the assessor is responsible for determining the accrued depreciation. In order to assess uniformly, appraisers use schedules that have been developed by studying case histories of many properties, including mobile homes and trailers. They must temper these with their professional judgement in arriving at a depreciation allowance for a specific property.

Appraisers do not use the straight line depreciation method that is used in accounting because houses and mobile homes do not deteriorate at the same rate. The degree of deterioration depends upon the care and maintenance that are given to a property and other factors such as environment and economic conditions. The assessors are guided by the rates that are provided in the assessors' manual, but most assessors recognize that a mobile home would normally depreciate at a faster rate than most standard residences, and they would allow for this in their assessment.

A person who pays a rental for the lot on which the mobile home or trailer sits, pays an excise tax to the lot owner when he pays his rent. This excise tax is levied at the local level and is in lieu of a real estate tax.

When a mobile home becomes a permanent residence, it is no longer considered a mobile home by the taxing jurisdiction.

Q. Can you tell me how much of a tax credit I am eligible for? I am sixty-three years of age. My real estate tax for 1977-78 was $324.17. My earned income for 1977 was $7,842.42. Is interest income supposed to be included? If so, I had $1,804 for 1977. I also received about $680 Social Security in 1977. Is Social Security included? On January 1, 1978, I started working on a limited income of $3,240 and collecting Social Security. Social Security for 1978 will be about $3,600.

Do they figure 1977 income or 1978 income, when figuring tax credit for 1978 and 1979 taxes?

A. Both interest income and Social Security are reportable as income. Your combined income, as you reported it for 1977, which is the year that will be used to determine the 1978-1979 tax credit is $10,326.42. Your maximum tax liability on this amount is $344.29.

As you are over sixty years of age, you are considered a "full credit" homeowner, and you would be entitled for a tax credit for the amount of your tax that exceeds this figure up to the maximum allowance for a credit, which is $900.

However, your tax last year was slightly less than this figure. Unless you have had a very large increase in your assessment, it is unlikely that your tax bill will be any greater this year because of the assessment rollback and the reduction in the tax rate. If your tax bill is greater than the $344.29, then you would receive a credit for the amount that exceeds this.

Q. I have heard several explanations of the ten percent reduction and find them all very confusing. Would you please be kind enough to explain, in succinct, simplistic terms, how the additional five percent inflationary allowance — by reducing existing assessments of homeowners' property by ten percent — affects the taxpayer? Personally, I find it more illuminating to deal with an example. Will this be applied this year?

A. This may not be the clearest, most succinct explanation; but it might help.

Ten percent of fifty is five. If your dwelling were valued at $40,000, the assessment, at fifty percent, would be one-half, or $20,000. The additional allowance (5%) which is added to the fifty percent results in a total inflationary allowance of fifty-five percent. Forty-five percent of the same $40,000 value is $18,000. The difference between the two assessments — $20,000 at 50% and $18,000 at 45% — is $2,000, which is ten percent less than the first assessment.

Example: 10% of 50% = 5%,
50% - 5% = 45%

Any assessment computed on this basis will result in an assessment that is ten percent less than the previous assessment provided the value of your home remains constant.

This reduction will take place this year, and your property tax bill will be based upon an assessment of forty-five percent of the value of your home, rather than fifty percent, as was the case last year.

Said as succinctly as possible, if the value of your property stays the same, your assessment will be ten percent less this year than last. If your local tax rate also remains the same, you should have a noticeably smaller tax bill this year.

Q. I am a resident owner who will benefit from the ten percent rollback, but I have read news accounts where they state that this is only for one year. It this so?

A. No. The reduction in the assessments of homestead properties, which is frequently referred to as the rollback will continue until such time as the law is changed. There have been a number of news stories which have characterized the rollback as a one-time remedy, but this is not true. The rollback is not in any sense a freeze on assessments. They may well increase on an annual basis as they are influenced by the economic conditions, but the assessments will continue to be held at forty-five percent of the current market value.

In other words, the value of your property may change, but the percent of it that is subject to assessment will still stay the same.

Until this year, and since 1974, assessments were at fifty percent of market value. Prior to 1974, they were at sixty percent. If you have already received your assessment notice, you will not get another notice, but your assessment will be adjusted, and this will be reflected in your property tax bill which you will receive on or about July 1. If your tax bill was calculated on an assessment that was not lowered, then you would be entitled to an adjustment.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers — James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Off the beaten path...

So we're not the "first left after the clover leaf." And we can't seat you and 300 of your closest friends in our dining room. And our little menu won't bewilder you with a vast selection of entrees.

But we can help any dinner become a celebration, with fine food and drink, graciously served. And you'll enjoy a refreshing beverage (our treat, of course), crusty homemade bread, and an unusually complete appetizer and salad bar when you dine with us.

We may be off the beaten path, but people who enjoy a memorable evening out are beating a path to our door.

Come dine with us, enjoy our open air back porch as we feast on fresh Chesapeake Bay crabs.

Straight Talk About Aging

MARYLAND'S NUTRITION PROGRAM - "EATING TOGETHER"

By Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging

"To nourish the whole person — physically, mentally, and socially."

That, as succinctly as it's possible to state it, is the goal of a special program through which the State Office on Aging is able to distribute nutritious hot meals to some 9,500 older Marylanders every day.

The meals are tasty and wholesome. A recent menu included roast turkey, mashed potatoes, Harvard beets, roll with butter, peanut butter cake, a half-pint of milk and coffee or tea.

Another, providing an "international flavor," consisted of minestrone, lasagna, broccoli, French bread, a peach-and-pear compote, and, again, milk, coffee or tea.

Made possible by Title VII of the 1965 Older Americans Act, the Nutrition Program is designed to serve Marylanders 60 and over and their spouses regardless of age.

For the most part, these older Marylanders comprise a special group of people. Generally, they are of low-income. Many of them lack the necessary mobility to prepare well-balanced meals for themselves; others, being alone, find it difficult to cook nutritious meals for themselves. It is for these people that the "Eating Together" program provides its other forms of nourishment.

At every meal site (some meals are delivered directly to participants' homes, but most are served in congregate settings), a properly trained staff person is present to offer health and welfare counseling, nutrition education and referral services.

Moderate physical fitness exercises are conducted at the sites, too, and recreational opportunities are made possible. Card playing, chess, square dancing, pool and craftwork are some of the activities that help in ending the isolation in the lives of many of the Nutrition Program's participants.

No one over 60 is turned away from meal sites. Those who can contribute to the cost of the food are encouraged to do so, but no one must pay the small charge. For those who are not able to reach the meal sites by themselves, round trip transportation is available.

Vital support is given the program by 1,524 volunteers, of whom 1,276 are themselves over 60. The volunteers perform a number of important tasks far beyond the basic serving of meals. Some, for instance, are recreational leaders; some are bookkeepers. Volunteer duties vary from site to site.

The Title VII Program is in effect in all of Maryland's counties and in Baltimore City. All told, there are 221 sites. At some, the program has taken on a specialized form. At three in northwest Baltimore City and County, kosher meals are served. One city center is set up to serve the deaf.

At six sites, scattered across the State, an extended Title VII Program, a unique development of Maryland's Office on Aging, has been established specifically for the frail elderly. Participants arrive early, enjoy their midday meal, and then stay for part of the afternoon. In this way, at very modest cost, significant assistance is given to families intent upon providing every possible opportunity to their disabled elderly relative or parent to remain within the community.

This useful and unique program providing food service to the elderly has been internationally recognized. It is now practiced widely in several European countries.

For further information about the program, Marylanders should contact their local office on aging.

VA employes some 38,000 handicapped men and women including 14,000 veterans with service-connected disabilities, or 16 per cent of the agency's total workforce.

2,500 Taxpayers Seek IRS Help In Problem Solving

During the past year, more than 2,500 taxpayers in Maryland and the District of Columbia (50,000 nationwide) have called or visited Problem Resolution Officers, new specialists of the Internal Revenue Service.

Many of these taxpayers were concerned about such things as the status of an audit or where an account stood in the collection process. Problems with refund checks also ranked high on the inquiry list.

Although the difficulties handled by problem resolution personnel varied, most had one thing in common — they were questions usually settled through normal channels, but for some reason these channels had broken down.

The breakdowns weren't frequent, considering the number of contacts IRS personnel make with taxpayers every year. But they were frustrating to the taxpayers who were tangled up in one of the procedural failures.

The key to the success of the Problem Resolution Program is that taxpayers go through normal channels first in attempting to resolve their problem. If such action fails, then the taxpayer contacts the IRS and asks for the Problem Resolution Officer.

The new program is not designed to handle such matters as the integrity of IRS employees, IRS hiring practices, disputed technical issues, or tax assessments or adjustments where the matter is under appeal. In such cases, to call to IRS will refer the taxpayer to the proper IRS office.

Taxpayers in Maryland and the District of Columbia can contact the IRS Problem Solver by writing to:

YOU CAN BUY A CHEAPER MOPED, BUT YOU'LL PAY FOR IT.
If some mopeds cost less than a Puch, it's simply because they're lesser mopeds.
They don't have the hill-hungry hi-torque engine that most Puchs have.
They aren't designed as thoughtfully, or constructed as carefully, as Austrian-built Puchs are.
At a lower price, Puch couldn't offer things like a 2-speed automatic transmission, oil injection, or an automatic starting system.
Come in and see why, feature for feature, you really can't afford anything less than a Puch.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Hepatitis is one of the most common viral infections in dogs. So common that almost 80 percent of all dogs are exposed to the disease before they're fully grown.

A highly contagious infection with effects that vary from a slight fever to a fatal illness, hepatitis is caused by a virus that settles in the dog's liver and kidneys. The first symptom is generally a temperature above 104°F., lasting from one to six days. As the infection progresses, the pet experiences weight loss, discharge from the eyes and nose, and extreme thirst. About 25 percent of the affected animals develop a temporary bluish-white eye discoloration.

Statistics indicate that the mortality rate from hepatitis for dogs, especially puppies, is very high. Dogs that do recover are slow to regain lost weight.

Once established, the hepatitis virus is excreted for months in the urine, even when the dog appears to have recovered from the disease. Susceptible animals are infected by contact with the contaminated urine, feces, bedding or toys used by a sick dog. Dogs in the country may become infected after exposure to the urine of foxes, coyotes or raccoons with the disease.

Symptoms of hepatitis and distemper are quite similar. Dogs vaccinated against distemper may come down with hepatitis, while the pet owner wonders why the distemper shot didn't "take." Hepatitis and distemper are separate diseases and pets should be vaccinated against both.

There are excellent vaccines that will protect your dog against hepatitis, or a combination of hepatitis, distemper and leptospirosis. These vaccines are constantly being modified and improved to offer the most protection with the least side effects.

This continuing search for improved vaccine protection has resulted in the control of one disadvantage associated with hepatitis vaccination. Occasionally, hepatitis vaccination has caused a reaction known as "blue eye." Certain attenuated (weakened) vaccine virus actually grows in the dog's cornea, causing it to become opaque. Blue eye generally disappears within several weeks, although permanent blindness results in some cases.

A new vaccine for prevention of canine hepatitis has recently been developed and is now available to veterinarians. It contains an attenuated virus that will not cause blue eye, and thus represents a significant advance in vaccine safety.

Puppies, the prune targets of hepatitis infection, should receive their first inoculation at about nine to twelve weeks of age. Before that time, puppies are protected by the immunity transmitted from vaccinated mothers. Annual vaccination for all dogs is strongly recommended.

Annual Archery Program Slated At 4-H Center

Dale Paugh, of McHenry, will conduct the second annual 4-H Archery program at the Western Maryland 4-H Center in Bittinger on the Tuesday dates of July 18 and 25 and August 1 and 8, from 7 p.m. until dark. Persons should contact the Garrett County Extension office in Oakland for further information.

EPA Awarding Mini-Grants To Citizen Groups

The EPA through the Maryland Water Resources Administration is offering mini-grants to citizen volunteer organizations for educating the public about 208 water quality management planning, according to a news release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

The EPA funds can be spent for meetings, conferences, field trips, printed materials, newspaper ads or any other activities that will promote public awareness of the 208 program.

Water Resources Administration will be accepting the activity proposals and make recommendations to EPA. EPA will, after making its selections, notify the recipients directly.

Citizen organizations interested in making application should submit a proposal, including information on cost and audience to be reached to Ruth Mathes, Water Resources Administration, Tawes State Office Building — D-2, Annapolis, Maryland 21401 or call 301-269-3348.

The EPA has recommended that awards be made in $208 increments although other proposal sums would be considered.

15-Year-Olds May Apply For Learner Permits To Drive

Maryland residents who will be at least 15 years and 9 months of age as of July 10 will be eligible to apply for a Maryland learner's permit effective that date. On that same date the Motor Vehicle Administration will also begin issuing "moped operator's permits" to persons at least age 16 who do not have a valid driver's license.

In a teletype to law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland, Ejner J. Johnson, MVA Administrator, pointed out that Senate Bill 344, enacted at the 1978 session of the Maryland General Assembly, lowered the minimum age required to apply for a Maryland learner's permit from 16 years to 15 years, 9 months. Johnson emphasized, however, that "a person must still be at least age 16 to be eligible for a permanent Maryland driver's license."

"Also on July 10," Johnson continued, "the MVA will begin issuing a new 'moped operator's permit' in accordance with House Bill 309, also enacted at the 1978 session of the General Assembly."

Applicants for the moped operator's permit will be required to pass only vision and law (also known as "written") tests, but will not be required to take an actual on-road test. The law test will be the same as that taken by an applicant for a standard passenger vehicle license.

The fee for a moped license, under House Bill 309, will be $4.00, and the license will be valid for four years. Renewals will also cost $4.00.

Both the moped license and the learner's permit will contain a photograph of the person to whom the document is issued

by jim willis

Hepatitis is one of the most common viral infections in dogs. So common that almost 80 percent of all dogs are exposed to the disease before they're fully grown.

A highly contagious infection with effects that vary from a slight fever to a fatal illness, hepatitis is caused by a virus that settles in the dog's liver and kidneys. The first symptom is generally a temperature above 104°F., lasting from one to six days. As the infection progresses, the pet experiences weight loss, discharge from the eyes and nose, and extreme thirst. About 25 percent of the affected animals develop a temporary bluish-white eye discoloration.

Statistics indicate that the mortality rate from hepatitis for dogs, especially puppies, is very high. Dogs that do recover are slow to regain lost weight.

Once established, the hepatitis virus is excreted for months in the urine, even when the dog appears to have recovered from the disease. Susceptible animals are infected by contact with the contaminated urine, feces, bedding or toys used by a sick dog. Dogs in the country may become infected after exposure to the urine of foxes, coyotes or raccoons with the disease.

Symptoms of hepatitis and distemper are quite similar. Dogs vaccinated against distemper may come down with hepatitis, while the pet owner wonders why the distemper shot didn't "take." Hepatitis and distemper are separate diseases and pets should be vaccinated against both.

There are excellent vaccines that will protect your dog against hepatitis, or a combination of hepatitis, distemper and leptospirosis. These vaccines are constantly being modified and improved to offer the most protection with the least side effects.

This continuing search for improved vaccine protection has resulted in the control of one disadvantage associated with hepatitis vaccination. Occasionally, hepatitis vaccination has caused a reaction known as "blue eye." Certain attenuated (weakened) vaccine virus actually grows in the dog's cornea, causing it to become opaque. Blue eye generally disappears within several weeks, although permanent blindness results in some cases.

A new vaccine for prevention of canine hepatitis has recently been developed and is now available to veterinarians. It contains an attenuated virus that will not cause blue eye, and thus represents a significant advance in vaccine safety.

Puppies, the prime targets of hepatitis infection, should receive their first inoculation at about nine to twelve weeks of age. Before that time, puppies are protected by the immunity transmitted from vaccinated mothers. Annual vaccination for all dogs is strongly recommended.

Annual Archery Program Slated At 4-H Center

Dale Paugh, of McHenry, will conduct the second annual 4-H Archery program at the Western Maryland 4-H Center in Bittinger on the Tuesday dates of July 18 and 25 and August 1 and 8, from 7 p.m. until dark. The archery range on the public side of the 4-H Center which is located behind the experimental pine planting will be used for this program.

Mr. Paugh will cover the basics of shooting and then will progress into competitive archery and bow hunting.

There will be a registration fee of $3.00 to cover the cost of re-stringing the bows and the use of the arrows and targets. Persons who have their own equipment are invited to use it if they desire.

Persons should contact the Garrett County Extension office in Oakland for further information.

EPA Awarding Mini-Grants To Citizen Groups

The EPA through the Maryland Water Resources Administration is offering mini-grants to citizen volunteer organizations for educating the public about 208 water quality management planning, according to a news release from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

The EPA funds can be spent for meetings, conferences, field trips, printed materials, newspaper ads or any other activities that will promote public awareness of the 208 program.

Water Resources Administration will be accepting the activity proposals and make recommendations to EPA. EPA will, after making its selections, notify the recipients directly.

Citizen organizations interested in making application should submit a proposal, including information on cost and audience to be reached to Ruth Mathes, Water Resources Administration, Tawes State Office Building — D-2, Annapolis, Maryland 21401 or call 301-269-3348.

The EPA has recommended that awards be made in $208 increments although other proposal sums would be considered.

Last year such organizations as the Maryland League of Women Voters, the Izaak Walton League, the Southern Maryland Audubon Society and the Maryland Farm Bureau were given grants for projects that ranged from a water sampling field trip to a series of articles for a newsletter.

Proposals must be submitted on or before August 15, 1978 for consideration by EPA.

15-Year-Olds May Apply For Learner Permits To Drive

Maryland residents who will be at least 15 years and 9 months of age as of July 10 will be eligible to apply for a Maryland learner's permit effective that date. On that same date the Motor Vehicle Administration will also begin issuing "moped operator's permits" to persons at least age 16 who do not have a valid driver's license.

In a teletype to law enforcement agencies throughout Maryland, Ejner J. Johnson, MVA Administrator, pointed out that Senate Bill 344, enacted at the 1978 session of the Maryland General Assembly, lowered the minimum age required to apply for a Maryland learner's permit from 16 years to 15 years, 9 months. Johnson emphasized, however, that "a person must still be at least age 16 to be eligible for a permanent Maryland driver's license."

"Also on July 10," Johnson continued, "the MVA will begin issuing a new 'moped operator's permit' in accordance with House Bill 309, also enacted at the 1978 session of the General Assembly."

Applicants for the moped operator's permit will be required to pass only vision and law (also known as "written") tests, but will not be required to take an actual on-road test. The law test will be the same as that taken by an applicant for a standard passenger vehicle license.

The fee for a moped license, under House Bill 309, will be $4.00, and the license will be valid for four years. Renewals will also cost $4.00.

Both the moped license and the learner's permit will contain a photograph of the person to whom the document is issued.

I think I've become a closet country boy. Actually, I live a double life, when I'm down here I'm very defensive of city life in general and specifically, Pittsburgh. On the other hand, when I'm home in Pittsburgh and someone attacks country living, I feel obligated to defend that lifestyle.

I must confess that the more I become acclimated to small town living, the more uncomfortable I am in the big city. For instance when I drove home to Pittsburgh this weekend, I kept seeing signs that said PED XING. What in the world is a PED XING?. . . . it took me fifteen minutes to figure out this was a Pedestrian Crossing. Down here we simply spell everything out, like CATTLE CROSSING.

Pittsburgh may be the Steel City or Renaissance City, but it's also Pothole Capital of the world. I accidentally hit a huge pothole on Rt. 51 this weekend. It didn't damage my car but it ruined the convertible roof of the MGB underneath me.

The Pittsburgh Roads Department has come up with an innovative way of dealing with the pothole problem. When a hole gets big enough they enclose it and call it a public pool. We have three pools on our street.

Pittsburgh also has a new service which I call "Rate-a-Rubbish." They actually send a city employee around to inspect your garbage cans and then they offer you free rat poison. It says something when you can't even get a doctor to make a house call, but the garbage people are at your door every few days.

In an attempt to expedite traffic in the Pittsburgh area they've installed computerized bill boards on the Parkway. The boards display clever messages such as "Accident at Greentree Exit — Detour by way of Philadelphia" and "Will the last person out of Pittsburgh please turn out the lights." Of course the motorists are so enthralled with the electronic wonders that they usually cause a 10-car pile-up trying to read them.

One big advantage of the city is the department stores. These merchandising marvels have everything you could ever want — all in one building. The only things I don't like are the elevators which always have fifty ladies in them heading for the bargain basement. They're already prepping up for the oncoming battle, practicing purse swings and umbrella jabs.

On one such trip my pants' cuff got caught in the elevator door. My pants were still on the seventh floor when I reached the basement. Not knowing what to do, I got off the elevator unnoticed in the crowd, and posed with some mannequins in the men's department . . . that is, until some old lady snapped the elastic on my BVDs and I let out a shriek.

Another thing I miss about city living is the night life. But there again something's wrong. Why do they always put the theatre, opera house and museums on the seediest side of town. It may be they're trying to improve the reputation of those sections, but did you ever walk through a ghetto with your date and you're both dressed "fit to kill?" I'm always afraid someone will take me literally.

Sometimes when I'm in Pittsburgh I forget myself and start expounding on the joys of country living . . . . . I'm usually interrupted by a pregnant silence as everyone stares at me in disbelief. One fellow took me aside and asked "Is it really true they don't wear shoes down there?" A debutante told me I was incredibly brave. She gushed, "Do you know my church hasn't even sent missionaries to Maryland yet!"

All I can say is thank God I'm a country boy — at heart!

In August of 1921 this item was found in The Republican that proved to be the cause of discontentment among persons involved in the Mt. Lake Park tourist trade; "Recently an order was adopted prohibiting dancing at any of the hotels or other places in Mt. Lake Park and as a result of its enforcement there is complaint being made that other forms of amusement are just as harmful (if dancing is harmful) are being permitted. Dancing has been allowed at the hotels and other places for several years past, but it seems that the ultra Puritanical spirit has been awakened in this year of grace."

In early Autumn a second Baltimore & Ohio Railroad policeman was killed. He was William Freeland of Terra Alta, W. Va. and fell victim to 5 negro riders at Connellsville."

One of the riders was killed instantly in the duel and three others were arrested while the fifth escaped.

Lieutenant Thomas C Barnard was the first to be killed in the line of duty while attempting to place a train rider under arrest.

In September a Mr. Dixon, prominent merchant and banker of Oakland, was killed in an automobile crash one mile north of town. His ten year old son and a friend were with him at the time but escaped injury. A "deep pall of gloom was cast over the entire community."

Lieutenant Paul C. Wilkins, United States Aerial Service, made a landing just over the hill from Liberty Street and paid a call on Mayor Gonder of Oakland. It seemed the land on which he'd landed appealed to him but "it was learned that this could not be secured for the purpose at a price deemed commensurate with the advantages that would follow."

The Mt. Lake Park sports field was visited the following morning and proved ideal for a landing site. Recommendation was made to the Department that it be taken over.

They must've changed their minds!

Minnie Holtschneider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Holtschneider of Deer Park, was awarded a scholarship at the "State Normal School." She proved herself "sufficiently ambitious for an education" by walking eight miles daily over mountainous roads to attend high school. To cover the distance she usually left home at 7:30 a.m. and returned home after 5:30 p.m. in the evening. Now that is determination!

Inevitably, winter descended on the mountaintop. It arrived in 1921 on December 4 and left an accumulation of 8 inches of snow. Nothing ever changes.

Accurate Crop Reporting Needed

"Crop acreage and use must be reported accurately on a field by field basis," Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee, said this week.

Crowl indicated that the importance of farmers making correct reports on their 1978 planted acreage of program crops cannot be overemphasized. It's a requirement for eligibility for commodity loans, target price protection and disaster and emergency program assistance.

"The local ASCS office personnel help farmers be accurate by using aerial photographs for marking field boundaries," Crowl said. "With these photographs, farmers will be able to identify the fields that are devoted to program crops, set-aside, or diversion. The use of some crops also must be reported."

Final dates for making this certification report to ASCS on crops are: August 1 for corn, soybeans, and set-aside. Small grains had to be certified by May 15, 1978. Adjustment of acreages after the final certification date is not permitted.

Crowl said that if farmers wish still more accurate measurement of acreage, it is available at cost from ASCS. For more information contact your local ASCS office.

REAL ESTATE VS DOW JONES

When we compare the results over the past 18 years between stock market profits and real estate increases, we'll see quite a dramatic difference in dollars.

In the decade from January 1960, to January 1970, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped from 688 to 800 — an increase of 16 percent in ten years. During the same ten-year period, the average home price increased from $18,307 to $27,022 — an appreciation of 48 percent or triple the Dow.

By January, 1978, the Dow Jones average still sat around the 800 level for an 18-year appreciation of 16% while home prices continued to increase faster than the cost of living to $48,600 — up 265%. since 1960. Today, the Dow Jones is far below its peak (it reached 1,000 in Spring of 1977) while home prices keep rising faster than the cost of living.

No matter how you slice a cake, an investment in real estate over the past 18 years has proven to more than triple the stock market increase. And the trend is widening in favor of real estate.

ALL ABOARD — With yet another change of the hat, "Bar," the wonder dog of Oakland, alters his visage. The railroad hat is part of his working class apparel which understandably does not contain a Cat Diesel Power cap. "Bar!" in a dedicated railroad buff, but thinks the symbol of the Chesapeake Railroad is disgusting. He's also the first to stoutly maintain that the railroad industry is not going to the dogs.

There are many types of activity on the sun. A few phenomena that manifest this activity are: sunspots, active regions in the chromosphere, and solar flares. Solar activity varies over an 11 year cycle. Scientists wish to understand the structure and cause of sunspots. They also wish to know why the number of sunspots varies. Other interesting problems about solar activity concern the structure of chromospheric active regions and the nature of solar flares.

A Fallen Pillar . . .

In this editorial corner we often touch upon the exhilarating delights of living in a rural area such as Garrett County. The advantage that is probably mentioned the most often is the human togetherness that exists here, as in many other rural areas.

We call it community mindedness, the caring, that attitude of working together for the betterment of each other's lives is what makes our county strong.

It is this togetherness that spawns friendships, the many close, steadfast friendships with our neighbors, which are absolutely priceless.

Nowhere but in a rural area can one have so many friends. The problems of living in urban areas seem too great for most of the people who live there to be able to create many friendships. It is not uncommon for those who live in a high rise apartment to not even know the names of the people who live next door.

Our communities thrive on friendships. Yet, ironically, we all must pay a price for this togetherness. For when one of the fold is lost, many people suffer.

Certain persons could be called the pillars of a community. These are the friends who do far more than their share for the improvement and wellbeing of the rest of the community. When one of these pillars is suddenly taken away, a section of the community crumbles.

However, it is the same togetherness that helps us all overcome such losses and go on living. We have first, the Supreme Architect of the Universe, and secondly, all of those good friends to turn to for comfort. Then, together, we do our best to rebuild that crumbled section and carry on, just as the fallen one would want.

Gradually, one by one, we will all someday meet again as good friends, in another life, a life that is far superior to this one.

Oakland Tax Rate Decreases One Cent

Oakland taxpayers will notice a decrease of one cent per $100 of assessed valuations when they receive their tax bills for the coming fiscal year. The new rate will be $1.09 per $100 of assessed value.

The decision was made to reduce the rate at the July meeting of the Mayor and Town Council. Assessments are based on the rate set by the Maryland Taxation department.

In other business before the council, rental of parking spaces at the new town parking lot was set at $15 per month. All inquiries should be directed to the City Hall during normal business hours.

Oakland police arrested three during the month of June, two for destruction of property incidents and one juvenile for making a false fire alarm report. Among other incidents investigated were ten accidents, three bank alarms, one breaking and entering, three destructions of property, and 13 larcenies.

Amounts collected totaled $54,294.03 for the month just past, including $304.08 from meter violations; $14,432.32 from parking meters; $1,846.43 from Broad Ford; $2,748.96 from traders' licenses; $4,251.00 from an ARC grant; $13,002.14 from income taxes; and $4,719.53 from financial corporation taxes.

New Equipment Added To Broad Ford Water Plant

The Mayor and Town Council of Oakland recently announced the addition of fluoridation equipment to the Broad Ford water treatment plant. The equipment, coupled with that already in place at the Youghiogheny treatment plant, is currently supplying Oakland town residents with 1 p.p.m. fluoride in their drinking water.

One p.p.m. is the United States Public Health Service recommended level for fluoride in public water supplies. This level will insure the maximum benefit to the public in regards to a reduction in tooth decay.

Town residents currently under fluoride treatment should consult with their physician or dentist as to the necessity of continuing medication now that this community health measure is part of the town's water treatment process, according to a spokesman from the Garrett County Health Department.

DeWitt Honored At Convention

At its convention yesterday at the Wisp Ski Area, the National League of Postmasters presented Edward C. DeWitt, McHenry, with the Maryland Postmaster of the Year award. The award is given annually at the convention and the Postmaster of the Year is chosen by a committee of fellow postmasters throughout the state.

Mr. DeWitt was appointed postmaster of the McHenry post office in 1951. The post office was then a small fourth class office but will be advanced to a second class office as of October.

Mr. DeWitt has in the past served as president of Accident Elementary School PTA; also being a charter member of that organization. He served as a teacher and superintendent of Sunday Schools in the former Evangelical United Brethren Church.

For the past two years, Mr. DeWitt has been Host Postmaster to the convention for the Maryland branch and co-chairman of the Convention Committee.

Mr. DeWitt resides on Bumble Bee Road with his wife, Ruby. He is the father of two and has three grandchildren.

As the Maryland award recipient, Mr. DeWitt will now be a nominee for the national award to be presented in the fall during the League's convention.

Education Board Elects Officers, Slates Meetings

At the regular monthly meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education last Thursday, Herbert G. Harman was re-elected to the position of president and Clarence L. Stem was re-elected to the position of vice-president for the next fiscal year.

The Board announced its meeting schedule for the coming year. The schedule includes twelve regular meetings on the second Thursday of the month at 1:00 p.m. at the school board office unless otherwise indicated, and four evening meetings to be held on the fourth Tuesday in the months of September, November, February, and April. Other special meetings may be held by the Board during the day or evening and when held, the Board will make every effort to notify the public via the available news media. Mr. Harman, indicated he believed this schedule would best meet the total needs of Garrett County schools and is fairly consistent with the schedules of many other school systems in the state of Maryland.

In other action, the Board reappointed Ralph Burnett as the Board's attorney and David C. McLaughlin as the Board's auditor for fiscal year 1978-79.

The Board adopted two policies considered at earlier meetings, one related to co-curricular and extra-curricular activities and the other related to awarding high school certificates or diplomas to special education students.

Corps Rejects Plan To Construct Power Station In Canaan Valley

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers rejected July 14 an application to build a controversial $330 million hydroelectric power station at Davis, W. Va., to serve the five-state Allegheny Power System.

Construction of the Davis Power Project, which was to have been located in Tucker County's Canaan Valley, would have "altered and irreparably damaged a significant resource, the Canaan Valley wetlands complex," said Col. Max Janairo, Jr., Pittsburgh district engineer for the Corps in a letter to the power system officials.

The 1,000-megawatt plant, a pumped storage facility, was designed to provide power during peak periods of demand to Allegheny customers in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland and Ohio. West Penn Power Company and Potomac Edison Company also belong to the power system.

Ron Lennard, chief of Public Affairs for the Corps in Pittsburgh, said that although the Corps turned down the permit at this Canaan location, this does not mean they would turn down a permit for another site in Canaan Valley. He said the Corps would look favorably on an application to build a plant at Glade Run or Upper Blackwater, two other sites in the valley.

The plant, which would have been located on a 14,865 acre site, would include two dams on different levels. During peak hours water would be released from the upper reservoir and would pass through turbines, generating electricity. During non-peak hours, power would be used to pump the water from the lower reservoir to the upper reservoir, making ready for another peak period.

The project has been the subject of a long battle in the courts, before regulatory agencies, and within West Virginia. A suit challenging the project is pending in the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. Many Tucker County residents had been looking forward to the economic boost the dam would have provided, while environmental groups opposed the plan for its detrimental effect on the unique ecosystem of the Canaan Valley.

The Federal Power Commission, now called the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, granted Allegheny a license to build the plant on April 1972, after lengthy consideration.

In its permit application, Allegheny listed seven alternate sites for the plant: Glade Run, Upper Blackwater, North River Mountain in Hampshire County, Glady Fork in Randolph County, Rowlesburg in Preston County, Northfork in Shenandoah County, Va., and Savage River in Garrett County.

Election Board Clarifies Districts

The Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County has been asked to clarify county commissioner districts in Garrett County for the September 12 primary election.

According to the code of public laws for the county, at all future elections for the office of county commissioner, one commissioner shall be elected from among the voters residing in each commissioner district by the general vote of the county.

Each voter may vote for one candidate in each of the three districts rather than just the candidate in their own district. The three commissioners are elected by all the voters in the county.

Voting machines are clearly marked to vote for one candidate from each commissioner district.

The judges of elections instruct the voter regarding the operation of the voting machine, and give the voter an opportunity to operate the model before entering the machine. These judges are also qualified to answer questions the voter may have concerning the ballot labels, number to vote for, etc.

Police Looking For Culprits In Nu-Way Larceny

Investigations are continuing into a breaking, entering and larceny early Sunday morning which netted the thieves a 1,000 pound safe and its contents from Nu-Way Laundry in Oakland.

Oakland police and Tfc. C. H. Hinnant of the Maryland State Police are conducting the investigation, after they were alerted Sunday morning by Robert Orr. The robbery is thought to have occurred around 3 a.m.

Entry was made by breaking in a side window. The safe was removed through a back door after the thieves had rummaged through desk drawers.

Exact amount of cash and coins missing from the desk has not been determined, but is estimated to be several hundred dollars.

A vehicle stolen from Ralph Pritts & Sons Garage in Oakland was apparently used as the get-away van, and was found abandoned just past the entrance to Herrington Manor on Sunday.

Board Defers GCC Fund Repayment

A decision on whether Garrett Community College and Allegany Community College must fully repay nearly $800,000 of ineligible state funding has been deferred by the Maryland Board of Public Works.

The problem results from enrollment figures based on contracts the two colleges, as well as Cecil and Charles Community Colleges, had with the Regional Cultural and Education Development Association, Inc. (RCEDA).

A state audit found that some state funds had been paid to the colleges for students who were ineligible for state educational aid.

Because of the inflated enrollments, Garrett received $475,938 more than it should have. ACC received $301,159 too much.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Public Works, headed by Acting Governor Blair Lee III, the legislative committee on Budget and Audit recommended the colleges be required to repay all of the ineligible funding. The committee's recommendation contrasts with a suggestion from the State Board for Community Colleges that only funds received in fiscal year 1976 be repaid. In Garrett's case that would amount to $159,380.

Lee and another Board of Public Works member, Treasurer William S. James, said they have problems with repayment of all the money. They asked Brent Johnson, executive director of the State Board for Community Colleges and Secretary of Budget and fiscal Planning Thomas W. Schmidt to come up with a proposal less harsh than full repayment.

State Sen. Edward J. Mason, a member of the Legislative Budget and Audit Committee,

Young Man Jailed For Robbery Attempt At Liberty Trust

A young Pennsylvania man was apprehended in Grantsville Wednesday night after an attempt at larceny at the Liberty Trust Bank there.

Ronald Wayne Bittinger, 18, Boynton, Pa., was picked up a short distance from the bank by two deputies who happened to be in the vicinity after they followed a trail of blood leading to the Bittinger youth from the bank. Police were alerted by the bank's alarm.

Sheriff John Evans, Jr. reported that apparently the young man had cut his arm when breaking the window to gain entry.

Unsuccessful attempts had been made to open the tellers' drawers and to open the safe, according to police. Deputies Dreninna and Enlow and Maryland State Tfc. Lawrence Smith made the apprehension a short distance from the bank, where Bittinger was found hiding between two buildings.

Bittinger is being held in the Allegany County jail in lieu of $10,000 cash bond. He is charged with destruction of property and attempted robbery.

Police say they are searching for a second suspect in the incident.

Insects, Bee Stings Can Cause Trouble

There are about 1 million species of insects known to scientists. And they all seem to show up at summer picnics.

For most people, bug bites are just an itchy nuisance. But some people are allergic to insect stings. Thousands of people every year react seriously enough to require medical treatment. And in this country, each year 50 people die, according to the American Lung Association.

Those who know they are allergic to specific insects can help lessen the dangers if they wear or carry identification that says so. Allergic reactions to the stings can vary. They may show up in a pronounced swelling that lasts for days. Or there can be a more general reaction resulting in hives, overall itching, or feelings of anxiety or unusual dullness. Any of these reactions may indicate the need of treatment.

For the very few people who die from such stings, death occurs rather rapidly. Immediate treatment is essential with these symptoms: generalized swelling, tightness in the chest, adbominal pain, nausea, dizziness, speech difficulties, weakness, rapid fall in blood pressure, and unconsciousness.

The stinging insects most often involved in allergy are honeybees, bumblebees, and wasps — such as yellow jackets and hornets.

Quietly avoiding these insects is the best medicine. Wasps and hornets, for example, are very nearsighted, waving arms just attracts them. Bees don't really buzz around looking for a good sting, either; in fact, honeybees die themselves if they sting. Mosquitoes and gnats are hard to avoid, but they are attracted to dark-colored clothing.

Keeping picnic food under wraps as much as possible is one good way to keep bugs disinterested. Perfume is also a no-no for picnickers.

To find out about other assaults in the air that trigger allergic reactions, contact your local American Lung Association.

Several Injured In Auto Mishaps

Several persons were injured in a number of one-vehicle accidents in recent days at scattered locations of the county.

A pick-up was badly wrecked and the driver slightly injured on Md. Rt. 560 near Dr. Tolson Road shortly before midnight Monday. Melton Jefferson May, Richland, Va., was northbound on Rt. 560 and lost control of his pick-up on a sharp left curve. The vehicle struck an embankment, a utility pole then skidded to a stop on its top. The total distance traveled from loss of control until it came to rest was 450 feet. Tfc. E. J. Upole charged May with operating at excessive speed.

Early last Saturday morning an Ohio man was injured in an accident on the Sand Flat road near Paradise Point Road. Richard Dale Ward, 27, Cuyahoga Falls, was northbound, and in attempting to negotiate a turn lost control of his car. The vehicle went off the road to the left side, struck a barbed wire fence of Randall H. Harvey and overturned. Tfc. D. H. Riggleman charged Ward with negligent driving.

The driver and his passenger were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad following a wreck on the Mattingly Hill Road just north of Klotz Road last Wednesday shortly before midnight. Michael Patrick Dunkes, 17, Baltimore and his passenger, James J. Dolan, 17, Star Route 1, Oakland, were traveling on Md. 42 when the car ran off the right side of the road while negotiating a left curve. The car struck a culvert and an embankment. Tfc. R. C. Georg investigated.

A Frostburg man was injured in a mishap on the Finzel road near the old Finzel Road July 10 about a half hour before midnight. Dwayne Leon Lavin, 19, was southbound on the Finzel Road. The heavy-duty truck he was driving ran off the right side of the road, struck a traffic sign post, struck an embankment, crossed to the left side, struck a utility pole and overturned. Tfc. Sir:

As told to me, a member of the Sanitary Commission was so enraged by my letter to you last week that he stopped very close to making a threat of physical violence. It seems he took mercy on me because of my age.

I am sixty-six, weight 125 lbs. won my "Y" on the Yale boxing team long ago and am still fast on my feet. But I will never get down into the gutter and brawl with anyone who reacts to criticism in a childish and uncivilized way

At issue here also, Mr. Sincell, is freedom of speech and freedom of the press. There might be other readers of your paper who might fear to write letters to you critical of the Sanitary Commission if they thought they might arouse uncontrollable emotional outbrusts. When a person occupies a position of public responsibility, he must know that he will be the object of criticisms, right or wrong. That is part of our democratic process. The moment he forgets this and loses control of himself, freedom of public expression is to some degree threatened.

Therefore I ask you to join with all civilized people in the county in loud and clear protest

Meanwhile, the Sanitary Commission continues to ignore the new Mt. Lake Park ordinance requiring a permit before excavating in Town streets. It is not I who discredit the Sanitary Commission. They do the job themselves.

Sincerely,
J. B. Bowen
Mt. Lake Park

Dear Editor:

Some people become so frustrated they want to scream from the housetops while others use dope and alcohol and hope their problems will go away. The more one listens to televison and radio and reads the papers the more hopeless things seem to be But most people are not content to let "someone else do it" they want to have a part in the human race.

Through "Letters to the Editor" you have provided an avenue whereby one can express his or her feelings, which you are to be commended for, but as usual many people depend on gossip or hearsay for their information. None of us are perfect and everyone can be wrong sometimes, but some people seem to take a negative view about everything. We should never go along with the majority or minority without due consideration.

Politicians and their cohorts try to fool us by making promises that are impossible to keep or perhaps in ignorance. But if a candidate is qualified he or she should be informed. Some others in positions where they can be heard take advantage of the situation at every opportunity to "put a plug in" for the candidates of their choice and degrade the others.

Most people are not so gullible as to believe everything they are subjected to I would hope in the coming political campaign each candidate would tell us how he or she is qualified for the position being sought after and not try to degrade his or her opponent by "Mud-slinging and innuendos." Standing on someone else never makes us any taller and truth will win out over deception. It has been said, "It is ridiculous for any man to criticize the works of another if he has not distinguished hunself by his own performances."

A concerned voter.

Editor:

Mr. Jackson's letter in regard to the H.V. Test Systems land and building project at Accident was designed to hide the facts, and deceive the people, rather than to inform them.

Based on information so far obtained, it looks like Mr. Jackson and the Commissioners used the tax money to buy land and build a plant that costs $300,000, for the convenience of the owners of the H.V. Test Systems. Then they entered into an agreement to sell it without requiring any down payment Yet Mr Jackson called himself a businessman The Commissioners borrowed the money from the banks on the credit of the Garrett County taxpayers. The result is, the county is now in debt to the banks and the banks will expect the taxpayers to furnish the money to repay the loan of $300,000 with interest, if the plant fails to pay

The plant has employed from five to eight people most of the time, and not over twenty at any tune.

Mr Jackson and the Commissioners should at least be willing to tell our citizens just how much they paid for the land, how much the building cost, including heat, air conditioning, office furnishings, etc. We would like to know if the building of the parking lot, paved on three sides, and the grading and paving of the road leading into the plant was included in the $300,000 cost.

They used public money and it is the public business. We are interested in finding out just how much interest has been paid on the loan to date, and how much has been received from the operator of the plant to apply on the interest and principal payments. The full facts of this transaction ought to be aired.

said last week he was disappointed the attorney general has not pinpointed who is responsible for the overpayments.

My position is that if anyone is responsible at all then the attorney general should designate who that individual is and if he can't do that, then no one should be held responsible," Mason said.

"I can't see passing along the cost of repayment to future students of Allegany Community College and Garrett Community College. It could be the blame is with the State Board of Community Colleges because its bylaws are lax," he added He said another possible finding would be the college trustees themselves should be held responsible for the enrollment inflations.

Community colleges in Maryland are funded on the basis of a full-time equivalency formula, a system allowing part-time participants of workshops, seminars and other instructional programs to be counted as students at the college.

The overpayments resulted from the colleges' counting elementary and junior high school pupils in college enrollment figures because they participate in college-sponsored programs. The accepted age for persons participating in college functions funded by the state is generally from 11th and 12th grade high school levels through adult education.

In Garrett Community College's case, the legislative audit committee recommendation is that the college make annual payments of $22,800.75 for 20 years, beginning in fiscal year 1979.

During the Board of Public Works meeting in Annapolis, Acting Governor Lee stated: "I've been around this track four or five times already with you all and there has to be some penalty levied simply as a warning to all — anybody who may be thinking of playing these kind of games in the future. But excessive severity is not going to serve any useful purpose.

"It's not as if we were a court penalizing a private corporation where the stockholders and officers would take a licking. Here, the stockholders are the taxpayers of the state in general, and of Garrett County in particular, along with the students, not the students who were there three or four years ago, but the ones who are there now and who will be next year and the year after . . . I am still willing to vote for the partial restitution that was approved once earlier."

Meyersdale Girl Pulled From Sinking Boat July 8

One young woman from Meyersdale was rescued from drowning July 8, when the family boat took on water and sank in the vicinity of Deep Creek bridge.

Linda Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchinson, owners of the boat, was trapped under the canvas top of the boat, in the front seat of the boat. Passersby in other boats stopped to help and finally succeeded in freeing the young woman. Six children and two adults were passengers in the boat when it began sinking.

Chief among the rescuers was Glenn Dzaack, 19, of Monroeville, Pa., who was passing by in another boat and stopped to help free Miss Hutchinson. He gave Miss Hutchinson mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until she was revived, and then two girls were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment, but were not admitted.

The incident was investigated by Officer Charles Rhodes, of the DNR police patrol.

Casselman River Bid Is Accepted

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners Monday accepted a bid for restoration of the historic Casselman Bridge, Grantsville. Funds for the restoration were allocated by an act of the 1978 General Assembly.

D. W. Miller Industries of Huntingdon, Pa., submitted the only bid for the project, a modified proposal for $346,304.75. A conference of all parties will be held at a later date, at which time the contract will be signed. Construction is expected to begin within the next 20 to 30 days.

Also on Monday, the commissioners agreed to contribute up to $5,000 toward the balance due for the publication of the Garrett County History. The request for funds was presented by representatives of the county Historical Society.

Sheriff Begins Fund Drive To Aid Gregory Family

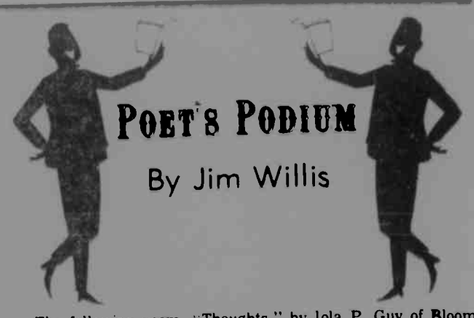
Sheriff John Evans, Jr. has announced a drive to help the Roy Gregory family, whose new home off Ben DeWitt Road was burglarized and completely destroyed by arson June 11. Everything the family owned was lost.

Anyone desiring to help the family may mail or bring cash donations to the sheriff's office in Oakland, located off Fourth Street, beside the former Coffey building.

It may be a long way from Beatlemania, but Paul McCartney's Wings and their new album "London Town" are a welcome change of pace.

The title cut receives the most air play and is a fairly mellow tune. The last song on side one, "I've Had Enough," is just now catching on and it sports a much bouncier rhythm.

Side two honestly doesn't contain a lot of memorable music. Of course, there's no accounting for tastes and "London Town" with its 17 songs could produce a few more hits.



The following poem, "Thoughts," by Iola P. Guy of Bloomington, just goes to show it's impossible to keep creative thoughts locked up inside.

THOUGHTS

Thoughts race round and 'round
The inroads of my mind
Searching for a resting place
Where they can be entwined.

I write them down to rhythm
What ever they may say
At last the race is over
To begin another day.

Many times these thoughts come rushing
Like a comet from the sky
I seem to have no control
All repulses they defy.

I try to sort them out so carefully
That they might go my way
But spin they will until
What they say, I must relay.

I try to smooth the rough spots
Fill the pot holes of my mind
But they keep ever racing
No peace from them I find.

Their message is so forceful
I hear it loud and clear
So I get my pen or pencil
And write just what I hear

I try to keep an open mind
I think that's only fair
So soon that subject's closed
And another one is there.

Tugging at my heart strings
"Release me" it seems to say
"Tomorrow may be too late
I must be heard today."

Grease, starring John Travolta and Olivia Newton John is undoubtedly one of the top box office draws of the season. It may not be Oscar material though, simply because Hollywood isn't very accepting of "cutesy" story lines.

Grease is corny at times - but within reason. After all, the 1950s were one of the more ridiculous times of our era, and besides, it is a musical.

Grease also has two delightful surprises. First of all the musical score by head Bee Gee, Barry Gibb, is excellent. Secondly, one of the new wave comediennes, Stockard Channing, is a bundle of talent. She sings, dances and acts her way towards recognition in this movie.

As always, Travolta is good and Olivia fits her fresh wholesome type-cast to a "T". Her surprising change of image gives this movie a shock-value ending and may make her the next Australian screen siren. Come to think of it, there's never been an Australian screen siren.

By all means, see Grease, but leave grade school age children at home. Some of the language, gestures and impressions necessary to make Travolta and his hoods believable may be a bit much for some youngsters.

After months of waiting, my new car has finally arrived...so today I went to purchase car insurance for it. Perhaps I've been naive, but getting car insurance is not that easy.

I actually arranged my car coverage over the phone. "How easy," I thought, "and reasonable too." I then went up to sign the policy papers and discovered the "reasonable" rates had been misquoted to the tune of $300. It did not make my day.

So once again I went insurance shopping. What fun! First of all you have to answer a wide variety of absurd questions like, "May we have the name of your third grade teacher for a reference?" and "When you were little did you ever wreck your tricycle or wagon?"

"What difference does that make?" I fumed.

"Well," the salesman said, "we're trying to establish a pattern here."

All was going relatively well until we got to the crucial questions. The moment I answer that I'm 22 and unmarried the insurance people usually break the point on their pencil.

"You're not married!?" the entire secretarial pool echoed accusingly.

"Well, no. I'm not," I stammered, "but honest, I like girls, I really do...It's just that I'm waiting for the right one."

"Why aren't you married?" an agent queried.

"Because I'm from Pittsburgh," I replied, "and we don't have pre-arranged marriages at age 16 like you do down here."

Thank heavens I have some friends in the insurance business down here. These loyal buddies tried every conceivable method to lower my premium. They gave me lower-than-usual price quotes by declaring my car a single family dwelling, they told the home office I was in an iron lung and the car was my only means of getting back and forth to my air compressor, and they tried titling the car in Lithuania under my grandmother's name — all to no avail.

The only practical alternative seemed to be to raise my "deductibles." (I guess that's an insurance term, but wasn't that what Cher had done during her recent operation?) So my deductibles are raised. As it turns out, I'm responsible for any damage to my car under $5,000 — and if I hit you, there goes next year's paycheck.

I'm supposed to go sign the new policy paper tomorrow and then pick up my car. My only hope is to be married by tomorrow which will drop my rates considerably. I hate to beg — but really, if any of my readers are female, young, attractive, extremely wealthy and not doing anything tomorrow, please contact me immediately. This really is a great opportunity. It isn't often that a girl lands a husband and a brand new car in the same day!

I do worry about calling home and telling my mother I "had" to get married. She might take it the wrong way — but Mom, if you read this — the insurance company drove me to it. Lord knows, they'd have to. I certainly can't drive myself anywhere.

One final word of caution: The first pedestrian or vehicle I see approaching my new car in a threatening manner is really asking for it. As an added precaution, I'm having bumpers installed on my bumpers; the car, while parked, is under constant surveillance by my cat; I'm digging a moat around my driveway and there's a Brinks security guard in my trunk. So there.

Football Queens, cheerleaders, bands and Ali Ghan Shrine Temple units add to the color and pageantry of the contest.

The appearance of the Goodyear blimp and a top roster of area football talent is expected to fill the 10,000 seat capacity Fort Hill stadium. The kick-off is slated for 8 p.m.

The South team is coached by Pete Ladygo, former University of Maryland and Pittsburgh Steeler player, while the North is directed by Mike Calhoun, Tri-State Area Coach-of-the Year and ex-Shepherd College standout quarterback. Both coaches are active high school head coaches.

Oakland Loses Two More In Pen-Mar Action

The Oakland Pen-Mar team was defeated by Creasptown in a doubleheader Sunday 5-4 and 5-2, in a heated battle with the Tri-State umpires.

Leading 4-1 in the fifth inning, Oakland hurler Ernie Shotwell was ejected without warning from the game by the home plate umpire.

Oakland came back to tie the score 4-all in the seventh with singles from Ken Marks, Frankie Lewis, Rick Bridges, Lawrence Nesselrodt and a sacrifice fly by Terry Helbig. In the bottom of the inning, however, Cresaptown's Allen Fatkin bunted home Bucky Cecil to lift Cresaptown to a 5-4 verdict over Oakland.

Basil Armstrong was slated with the win while Rick Bridges took the loss. Bridges tripled in a losing cause for the visitors.

In the second game, Oakland jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the second inning on Frankie Lewis and Ken Marks triples but lost their lead as Donnie Raines doubled home two runs in Cresaptown's five-run third inning.

Shotwell came in to relieve Mike Brady in the third but was once again ejected from the game without warning in the top of the fifth. At this point, manager Terry Helbig elected to pull his team off the field and Cresaptown took the 5-2 win.

On Saturday, July 22, Oakland will face Keyser on the Southern High School field in a nine-inning game starting at 3 p.m. A doublehitter pitting Romney against Oakland will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday on the Southern field.

4-H Club News

The Grantsville 4-H club met June 26 at the Sportsman's Club with Dwayne Wilhelm, vice president, presiding. The club decided to enter a float and a booth at the Garrett County fair.

Minutes were read by secretary Kim Bruner and treasurers' reports were given by Rosemarie Wiley and Chip Broadwater.

Pam Butler and Patty Wiley reported on the final planning meeting held at GCC for the county Nebraska Exchange trip July 12-August 23. A final fundraising for this trip will be a glass recycling project August 4 with each club in the county participating at various times during the day.

A discussion was held concerning a club trip next month. Final plans will be made at the next meeting.

The county campfire date was changed to Thursday evening, July 27 at 7, preceded by a family picnic at 5:30 at the Western Maryland 4-H Center.

A report on the club's pop booth at the Grantsville Picnic showed a profit on the booth, and the club voted to sponsor the booth again next year.

Sweatshirts and tee shirts depicting Garrett County themes are available for purchase by contacting any 4-H member.

The next meeting will be Monday, July 31. A demonstration will be given on the care and grooming of a horse by Patty Wiley.

Refreshments were served by Kim Bruner.

Oakland And Friendsville Get Heavy Rainfall

Friendsville got the worst of a drenching and heavy wind storm late Sunday. Oakland got only a good wetting down at the same time.

It was reported that almost two inches of rain fell in half an hour and wind gusts of 50 to 60 miles per hour by County Civil Defense officials. They also reported the heavy rains caused a landslide along Bear Creek Road in Friendsville, blocking a portion of the road and that water covered a portion of Route 42 at Friendsville. In an unofficial report a man said his basement was completely flooded, the first time in 30 years. He said his basement is always, otherwise, dry.

Oakland and other areas fared better with only .63 inch. There were, however, heavy winds, thunder and lightning. This came in two successive storms. Oakland received most of its rain last Friday, 1.01 inches during storms.

Last Wednesday was clear. Thursday was cloudy. There were thunder storms before dawn Friday with the heavy rains. At daylight skies were cloudy but with some clearing later in the day. Saturday was cloudy. Sunday began overcast and remained so until the thunder storms struck in the afternoon. Monday also began overcast with gradual clearing. Yesterday began with heavy fog but skies became clear as the fog burned away. Some clouds floated across the sky later yesterday but had disappeared by this morning.

Temperatures averaged on the cool side, 3.5 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 76.7 degrees or 3.8 below normal. The highs were 80 degrees yesterday and Saturday. Lows averaged 52.3 degrees or 3.2 below normal. The low was 44 degrees last Thursday. It was 48 yesterday morning and 49 this morning.

Two-Story House Destroyed By Fire

Fire destroyed a two-story frame dwelling located off the Oakland-Sang Run Road Sunday evening. Firefighters from the Deep Creek and Accident Fire Departments were summoned to the scene at about 9:15 p.m., after a health department unit in the area reported the fire to Garrett County Central Alarm.

The house was burned to the ground by the time firefighters arrived. Access to the house was difficult and only one unit from Accident, a brush truck, was able to get all the way to the house.

The house structure was owned by Bertha Savage. Robert Shimer, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett counties, was called to the scene to investigate.

Fraud, Drug And Manslaughter Cases Heard

Fraud, drug and manslaughter by vehicle were among recent cases heard in District Court by Judge Lewis R. Jones. Others were fined in miscellaneous cases.

Gilbert Bowman, PO Box, Crellin, pleaded not guilty of fraud in obtaining public assistance not entitled to from November 1975 to August 1977. He was found guilty and fined $250 and costs. A 60 day jail term was suspended and Bowman was placed on probation for two years. He is to make restitution of $613.31, the amount he received in public funds. Bowman also pleaded not guilty of perjury but was found guilty and a suspended 60-day term is to run concurrently with the first.

Gary W. Jenkins, RD 1, Markleysburg, Pa., pleaded guilty of possession of marijuana on Md. Rt. 42, west of Friendsville in March. He was fined $100, $50 of which was suspended, and paid costs. Jenkins is also charged two counts each of forgery and uttering and a count resisting arrest. These counts are to be transferred to Circuit Court for trial.

Two others were charged along with Jenkins but he admitted to be the sole possessor of the drug. Charges against Richard L. Hoover, PO Box, Friendsville, and Glenn E. Mitchel, Farmington, Pa., were therefore dropped.

Terrance M. Alexander, Star Route, Frostburg, pleaded not guilty of manslaughter by vehicle but was found guilty and a presentence investigation was ordered. The incident involved the death of Ralph Frank Tilgner on March 2 at Keyser Ridge.

Carol Anderson, Terra Alta W. Va., pleaded not guilty to two charges, but was found guilty of both and fined $50 each and $15 costs each. The charges were negligent driving on the Cranesville Road June 20, and disturbing the peace at the same time and place.

Roger Tasker, Kitzmiller, and Steve Tasker, Bradley Manor, Oakland, both pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct on the land of another in Oakland in May. Each was fined $20 and costs. Their plea of not guilty of wanton trespassing was upheld. Steve Tasker pleaded not guilty of assault on Isabel Terrant and the charge of spinning wheels and his plea was upheld. He also pleaded not guilty of negligent driving but was found guilty and fined $25 and $5 costs.

Hazel L. Rounds, RD 2, Oakland, pleaded not guilty of battery on Helen M. Crowe on RD 2, Grantsville, but was found guilty and fined $25 and costs.

In a number of other cases persons were found not guilty or the cases were dropped.

Proposed Hunting Seasons Noted

The Maryland Wildlife Administration of the Department of Natural Resources announced this week the proposed hunting season dates for mourning dove, rails, woodcock, common snipe, gallinule and seaducks for public comment.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service provides the Maryland Wildlife Administration with a framework from which hunting season dates are proposed. Public comment is invited by the Administration until the close of business, July 24. The Administration must respond to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service by July 26, at which time the dates are finalized.

The following is a list of the framework and the Wildlife Administration's proposals:

Mourning Dove: (Framework: An open season of not more than 70 half-days which may run consecutively or be split into not more than three periods, between September 1, 1978 and January 15, 1979). Proposed: Split seasons: September 1 - October 14 and November 14 - December 9.

Rails: including King, Clapper, Sora and Virginia. (Framework: The season length for all species of rails may not exceed 70 days, between September 1, 1978 and January 20, 1979). Proposed: September 1 - November 9.

Woodcock: (Framework: a season of not more than 65 days, between September 1, 1978 and February 28, 1979). Proposed: October 5 - December.

Common Snipe: (Framework: A season not more than 107 days, between September 1, 1978 and January 31, 1979). Proposed: September 15 - December 30.

Gallinule: (Framework: A season of not more than 70 days, between September 1, 1978 and January 20, 1979). Proposed: September 1 - November 9.

Seaducks: (Framework: A maximum open season of 107 days, between September 18, 1978 and January 20, 1979). Proposed: October 6, 1978 - January 20, 1979.

Falconry seasons (hunting with the use of birds of prey only) must fall within the regular season framework dates and may not exceed 107 days for any species. Falconry daily bag and possession limits for all permitted migratory game birds shall not exceed three and six birds respectively, singly or in aggregate, during both regular hunting seasons and extended falconry seasons. Hunting hours shall not exceed one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Written comments concerning the proposed season dates may be submitted to the Director, Maryland Wildlife Administration, Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, 21401, until the close of business, July 24.

Broadwater Families Hold Reunion July 3

The descendants of the late Perry H. Broadwater, Bittinger, held a reunion July 3 and 4 on the Broadwater farm.

Several family members gathered at Penn Alps July 3 for dinner while a picnic was held the following day in Brenneman's Grove.

Representing the Clara Broadwater Speicher family were Floyd, Bernice, John, Winona, Kenny and Becky Zehner of Somerset, Pa.

From the Cora Jane Broadwater Holl family were Donald and Mildred Verbeck, Tonasket, Washington; Mervin and Iva Jane Hoover, Denver, Colo.; Tom and Judy Gillam, Indianapolis, Indiana; Dan, Linda and Anita Tucker, Youngstown, Ohio; David, David Jr., Miriam, Christine and Dennis Holl and Gladys Erbaugh, all of Bridgewater, Va.

Attending from the Chauncey Broadwater family were Mrs. Claude Broadwater, Potomac Park; Ethelene Durst and Hazel Klotz, Grantsville; Roy and Gladys Broadwater, Louisville, Kentucky, and Guy and Marjie Broadwater, Accident.

Representing the Fannie Broadwater Ault family were Mrs. Ralph Ault, Accident; Fred and Ruth Gates, LaVale; Grace and Becky Ault, Bel Air, and Roger Ault, Oxon Hill.

Donald, Margaret and Ann Hershberger, Bittinger and Ed and Ellen Geis, Silver Spring attended from the Mary Broadwater Brenneman family.

The families of Laura Broadwater Vanderbie, Ida Broadwater Ream and Clyde Broadwater were unable to attend. Clyde, the only surviving son of the daughter of Perry Broadwater, recently celebrated his eighty-sixth birthday with his wife, Effie, in Lanark, Ill.

Republican Women Attend Conference

Several local Republican women attended the Western Regional Conference of the Maryland Federation of Republican Women Saturday, July 15, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in Cumberland.

Workshops were held concerning club leadership, how to get new members in the club and how to manage a campaign.

Edward Mason, State Senator for District #1 was the luncheon speaker. Senator J. Glenn Beall, Jr. and Miss Louise Gore greeted the women before lunch.

Attending the conference from Garrett County were Brenda Butscher, Mary Kight, Bernadett Bittinger, Elisabeth Thayer, Ireta Callis, Glenna DeWitt, Cora Bowser, Cleda Baker, Hazel Margroff, Linda Edwards, Orpha Miller, Helen Keller and Mary Durst. Mrs. Ireta Callis is Western Region Chairman.

Hunting, Trapping Dates Are Set

The Maryland Wildlife Administration of the State Department of Natural Resources has established a hunting and trapping season for the fisher, the red and gray fox, the skunk, and the long-tailed weasel

The season for all these species is November 1, 1978, through January 8, 1979, inclusive, with no bag or possession limits.

This year the General Assembly changed the status of these species from "unprotected animals" to that of "furbearing mammals."

According to Bernard Halla, Director of the Maryland Wildlife Administration, this new law is significant because it enables the administration to manage and protect species which had always been unprotected. In the past, these species could be taken year-round by any means.

Section Of State Route 560 To Be Relocated

The State Highway Administration is planning the improvement of Maryland Route 560 in Garrett County. The proposed improvement involves the relocation of Maryland Route 560 in the vicinity of Loch Lynn Heights and the provision of a grade separation with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The section of the existing route proposed to be relocated extends between Garrett Road and Maryland Route 135, along Third Avenue and Paull Street, a distance of approximately half a mile.

A Location Public Hearing will be held on Thursday, August 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria of Southern High School.

The Project Planning Team will explain the engineering, social, economic, and environmental impacts of alternates that have been evaluated, including the "No-Build" alternate. Tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction will be discussed, and information regarding relocation assistance will also be explained.

Beginning on June 28, the Draft Negative Environmental Declaration, mapping to be presented at the public hearing and written views received to date will be available for inspection and copying during normal working hours at the following locations:

State Highway Administration, District #6 Office, Braddock Road, LaVale, Maryland; State Highway Administration, Office of the Resident, Maintenance Engineer, 403 South 8th Street, Oakland, Maryland; Ruth Enlow Library, Second Street, Oakland, Maryland.

All interested persons are invited to attend this hearing and present their views. Individuals and representatives of organizations wishing to be heard are requested to furnish their name, address, telephone number and organization they represent, if any, to Director, Office of Planning and Preliminary Engineering, 300 W. Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201, no later than July 28, so that their names may be placed on the list of witnesses.

Liberalized Lunch Policy Announced By State Board

A liberalized policy for free and reduced price meals and free milk for school children was announced today by the Maryland State Department of Education.

Entitlement to free and reduced price meals is determined by family size and income. A child from a family of four, for example, will be entitled to a free lunch and/or breakfast and free milk if family income is below $8,110. He or she pays the reduced cost for lunch (10 cents) and /or breakfast (5 cents) if family income is between $8,110 and $12,660.

Other factors which are considered in determining children who are eligible include unusual expenses for medical bills, shelter, special education expense, or casualty losses by the family. If family members are unemployed, the children of the family may be eligible for free meals and milk or reduced price meals.

Application forms with a letter to parents will be sent to all families with children in school at the beginning of the school year. Information provided on the form will be treated confidentially. No child will be discriminated against because of race, color, or national origin, or ability to pay. A copy of the new policy will be on file and accessible to parents in each school. Parents who are dissatisfied with the ruling on their children may appeal the decision according to procedures outlined in the policy statement.

Deputies Check Minor Crimes

Crimes including tampering with the U. S. mail were among those under investigation in the past several days by members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Paul Frantz, Route 4, Deer Park reported that someone had removed and opened several letters from his mailbox sometime July 13. One of the opened letters was found on the ground beside the mailbox when the Frantz' returned home from work, while the others had been replaced in the box.

Richard Hoover, Thousand Acres, reported a larceny July 1. He reported to the deputies that rings valued at $519 had been removed from a nightstand in the bedroom of his summer home. He told investigators that the theft had occurred during a half-hour period while he was away from the home that evening.

A summer cabin on Durst Road near Grantsville was broken into between June 24 and July 1, according to the owner, Thomas Anderson. Entry was gained by through a rear window. Missing were a hammer and a fire extinguisher. Loss value was set at $20.

A deputy on routine patrol in the Kitzmiller area July 15 noticed that a door in the Kitzmiller school was unlocked. He called George Brady, supervisor of maintenance for the County Board of Education, who checked the building and noticed that the safe door was also open. However, nothing in the building appeared to have been taken.

Robert Conley, Swanton, reported that between the 9th and 17th of July someone had cut the screen door of his cottage on Turkey Neck Road, and entered the front door. Nothing appeared missing or disturbed, and damage was confined to the screen.

TCC Discusses Project Description Format, Funding

A new format for the project package description for projects seeking funds from the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Economic Development Administration was approved by the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland at its meeting last week at the Sheraton Motor Inn near Hagerstown.

The proposal was submitted to the council by Richard C. Mappin, who serves as chairman of the planning and economic development committee.

Mappin explained that the new format will have project descriptions conforming to the new federal guidelines so that faster action can be anticipated from both ARC and EDA.

Detailed changes will be considered by the TCC at its August meeting.

Albert Feldstein, grantsman for TCC, reported that funding is near on a $100,000 housing improvement block grant for Lonaconing and another project to establish the position of municipal assistance coordinator for Garrett County. Funding for the latter is sought from EDA.

Official announcements concerning both grants are expected in the near future from the office of Rep. Goodloe E. Byron, Democrat from Maryland's sixth district.

Joel Shoap, director of the Western Maryland Area Agency on Aging and Acting Director of TCC, reported on two energy-related programs on which TCC has grants effective soon. A $60,000 grant from ARC calls for a study of the economic impact that may face Garrett and Allegany counties involving schools, water and sewer needs if the anticipated coal boom becomes a reality. A $26,000 grant provides for a study to determine wasteful use of energy in Western Maryland and recommended changes wherever feasible

State Police Investigate Two Larcenies

Two larcenies have been investigated by the Maryland State Police the last few days, one in Grantsville, the other in the Glendale area

An elderly Grantsville man was victimized Monday. Three dark complected, white males entered the victim s residence on the pretense of wanting to paint his house roof. One man talked to the victim while the other two ransacked the house taking $1,400 from the residence. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland investigated. The men left in a blue pick-up with a spray paint rig in the truck bed and with the rear license plate covered up.

Camping gear valued at $177 was taken from a camp site on the Glendale road some time last Friday. The victim, Bruce Ellen Foster of Forrestville had left the camp grounds late in the morning to go boating with her family. Due to returning late at night, the loss was not discovered until the next day. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant is investigating the incident.

Reporters Actions May Lead To Problems Between U.S. and U.S.S.R.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two American reporters today were at the center of an escalating war of words that could lead to reducing the mutual news coverage allowed by the United States and the Soviet Union and already has influenced an announced trade curtailment between the superpowers.

Craig Whitney of the New York Times, Harold Piper of the Baltimore Sun, who are in the United States on home leave, were ordered by a Moscow court Tuesday to pay the court costs of a trial they did not attend and to retract stories for which they were convicted of libel.

Monday afternoon, the State Department said through spokesman Tom Reston it would move slowly on deciding whether retaliation was called for.

But hours later it was learned the White House had decided to summon Russian officials to a State Department meeting to review the status of the Soviet News Agency Tass' San Francisco Bureau.

And in late afternoon, the White House announced President Carter had decided to kill the sale of a sophisticated Sperry-Univac computer to the Soviet Union and to impose the requirement for individual White House approval on the sale of oil development equipment to Russia.

These decisions, which had been urged by some members of Congress, had been in the works for some time and neither was tied directly to the court order on the reporters.

But the timing was considered significant and a top official acknowledged to UPI the move was a reaction to the "tense climate" which has been developing since before the trial of Russian dissidents and the later action against U. S. reporters.

Both the Times and the Sun said their reporters expect to return to their posts in Moscow, but both refused to print retractions for what they said were accurate, unprejudiced news accounts.

The Sun said it would pay the court costs, but the Times by late Monday had not yet made a decision on that.

Early in the afternoon, department officials said the adnunistration was taking a "wait and see" attitude, and that the final decision would depend on what the Russians do to Whitney and Piper.

Officials made it clear that if the Soviet action is a roundabout way of expelling the two reporters, or of closing their bureaus, then Washington would take similar action against Russian correspondents in retaliation — but this would not be decided until developments made the situation clearer.

A few hours later, reporters learned that a decision already had been made — after a high-level meeting with security affairs adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski — to summon Soviet Embassy officials to the State Department to discuss the "status" of the San Francisco Tass Bureau.

The announcement of the two new impediments to U.S. — U.S.S.R. trade also came from the White House shortly afterwards.

Members of Knights of Columbus Oakland Council #1771 met at St. Peter's Catholic Church Thursday evening for a Mass of Installation. Pictured, left to right, are the newly elected officers, front row, Dale W. Clark, district deputy; Richard L. Maroney, inside guard; Sherman White, warden; Joe Shorb, recorder; Henry G. Gregory, grand knight; William Dressman, financial secretary; and Jim Dickel, district warden; back row, Darrell Gregory, outside guard; A. B. Martini, chancellor; Tom Pratt, advocate; Rev. Leftist Wins Ecuador Election, But May Have To Face Runoff

ECUADOR (UPI) — A young leftist standing in for his uncle has won Ecuador's first presidential election in 10 years but not by enough votes to avoid a runoff.

Jaime Roldos, a 37-year-old lawyer, upset both predictions and Ecuador's military rulers when he emerged as the front-runner Monday with a little more than 30 per cent of the votes cast in elections the day before.

With nearly all the votes counted, Roldos led rightist candidate Sixto Durand with 437,238 to 320,004 votes. Liberal Raul Clemente Huerta was third with 306,599 votes.

But because Roldos failed to capture 51 per cent of the vote he will have to face a runoff with Durand, probably sometime in September.

Roldos became a candidate after the military ruled his uncle, Assad Bucaram, could not run.

Bucaram, founder of the Concentration of Popular Forces party and a former provincial mayor and governor, is an anti-military politician with a large popular following.

To keep him from running, the pro-military Supreme Electoral Tribunal ruled that Ecadorians whose parents were not born in the country could not run in the elections. Bucaram's parents were from Lebanon.

It was Ecuador's first presidential election since 1968, when populist Jose Velasco Ibarra won. Two years later he suspended the constitution and became a military puppet.

Heat Wave Continues In Texas, Twenty-Two Dead, Man Hospitalized

DALLAS (UPI) The records are beginning to stack up.

As many as 22 persons may have died of heat-related causes.

More people hospitalized. More electricity used. More water. More ice being sold.

And every day for the past 17 it's been the same. By the time the sun rises in the morning the temperature already is in the 80s, and as it crosses the clear North Texas sky the heat keeps climbing.

By 11 a.m., it's 99 degrees. By noon, 101. Then throughout the afternoon the electric signs on banks from Dallas to Abilene chart the steady increase: 102, 103, 108, 110.

And it looks like it's going to stay that way at least through the end of this week.

Dr. Allen Fain, Dallas County health director, said Tuesday his office knew of 66 documented cases of heat stroke since July 7 in Dallas County alone. Parkland Memorial Hospital officials said it was the worst incidence of heat stroke in more than 16 years.

Fain said complete death count from the heat would not be known until the Bureau of Vital Statistics had compiled its figures, which would not be for several days.

"The death certificate lists primary cause of death and three contributing factors," he said. "The technical cause is debatable. It's related to the thing that brought them in, what precipitated the heart failure, and that's heat."

Los Angeles Announces It Will Not Host 1978 Olympic Games

By Terrance W. McGarry UPI

There probably will be a 1984 Olympics, but for now the games are as good as homeless.

They almost certainly will not be in Los Angeles, the only city that offered to host them, and the International Olympic Committee must find a new site.

Los Angeles gave up Tuesday, saying it was impossible to reach a financial agreement with the IOC that would satisfy the city's suspicious taxpayers.

Opposition to hosting the games - an increasingly dubious honor in view of the expenses and violence they now bring - mounted steadily and the IOC and the city have been locked in an increasingly bitter wrangle over finances.

Mayor Tom Bradley, who led the fight to bring the games back to the city that hosted them in 1932, threw in the towel Tuesday, announcing the IOC had rejected the latest of a series of last-ditch attempts to find a financial formula acceptable to both the city and the committee.

"That proposal having been declined by the IOC, I am therefore recommending that the (City) Council withdraw the city's bid for the 1984 Olympic Games," said the grim-faced mayor.

In Lausanne, Switzerland, Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said today he is waiting to hear directly from Bradley and the U. S. Olympic Committee before commenting on Bradley's recommendation.

Bradley asked the council to hold up formal withdrawal of the bid until a private committee appeals to Killanin to meet with a Los Angeles delegation in New York later this week.

But, to reach an agreement, one side would have to give in to the other. Both sides feel important principles are at stake.

The Mayor and City Council members fear political suicide if they cannot promise taxpayers the city cannot lose a nickel, but the IOC demands host cities assume financial responsibility for the games.

The city's taxpayers, the people who voted so overwhelmingly for Proposition 13, were frightened by the $1 billion debt Montreal was saddled with after the 1976 games.

Also, the street warfare in Mexico City before the 1968 games and the Palestinian-Israeli slaughter in Munich demonstrate what an attractive stage the Olympics have become for terrorists.

Despite Montreal's financial woes, Los Angeles administrative officers estimated the cost at up to $400 million, and the local organizers said they expected to spend $183 million - and make a profit.

However, security cost estimates so far have risen from $2 million to $22 million, although that is still only a tenth of what it cost the Canadians.

Promises of "low cost" games did not stem the opposition, and Bradley was forced to promise "no-cost" games, divorcing the city from any financial responsibility.

But the IOC balked at that suggestion.

Where the 1984 Games go now is an open question, up to the IOC.

The Olympic movement probably is too big, too powerful and too widely supported to die for lack of a host - not in 1984 anyway.

Some city will probably turn up.

But after that?

Americans Drinking Less Coffee, Eating Less Candy and Eggs

Americans are drinking only half as much coffee as they did in 1946 and eating considerably less butter, milk, candy and eggs than in previous years, according to a new study on the subject.

At the same time, they are consuming more refined sugar, mostly in soft drinks, and more dietary fat than ever before. There also have been big increases in tuna, chicken and lettuce in the average diet, it said.

The statistics are compiled in a new book, "The Changing American Diet," published by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a consumer research group.

The authors, Michael Jacobson and Letitia Brewster, said that while some changing consumption patterns are healthy, others are not, and the negative aspects may outweigh the positive.

Since heart attacks, strokes, hardening of the arteries, cancer, cirrhosis of the liver and diabetes — six of the 10 leading causes of death — all may have some dietary link, there should be more care given to the diet, they said.

They said Americans should be encouraged to eat more fresh fruits and vegetables, potatoes, whole grains and beans, and consume less meat, high fat dairy products, oils and sugars.

"Some specific suggestions are to modify the meat grading system so that the fattest beef will no longer be considered prime, to ban advertising of sugary and fatty foods aimed at children on TV, and to begin campaigns on radio and TV to alert Americans to health consequences of the new American diet," the group said.

The book, based on statistics gathered at the Agriculture Department and elsewhere, reports that Americans drank 1,005 cups of coffee per person in 1946, but only 560 in 1976. It ascribed the change to rising coffee prices, a decline in coffee quality and a general switch to soft drinks.

In 1945 Americans ate 403 eggs per person, including those used in prepared foods, but in 1976 the figure was 276. Much of the drop, the book speculates, may have been caused by working mothers who no longer fix eggs for breakfast, and by the growth of cereals as a breakfast food.

Compared to 1910, it says, the average American's diet in 1976 consisted of 31 percent more dietary fat and 50 percent more refined sugar.

Tuna consumption, the book reports, jumped by 1,300 percent from 1926 to 1976, and Americans ate 43.3 pounds of chicken per person in 1976 compared to 15.5 pounds in 1910.

The publication also reports the consumption of fresh carrots tripled between 1920 and 1976, butter dropped by 76 percent from 1910 to 1976, candy eating fell by 18 percent over the same period, lettuce consumption jumped from 6 pounds per person in 1920 to nearly 30 in 1976, and in 1976 Americans drank only three-quarters as much whole milk as they did in 1910.

General Motors Co. To Grant Rebates, Extend Warranties

CHICAGO (UPI) — General Motors must grant extended warranties and pay $200 in rebates to the owners of nearly 67,000 Oldsmobiles with cheaper Chevrolet engines under the terms of a court settlement.

The settlement approved Monday by a federal judge could cost GM $27 million.

Illinois Attorney General William Scott, who originally brought the suit, called the settlement "a tremendous victory for the consumers."

Under the terms of the settlement, approved by U.S. District Judge Frank J. McGarr, affected car owners will be notified immediately by GM that they are entitled to the rebate and a 36-month warranty if they sign a claim from releasing the company from further liability.

The warranty, which is transferable if ownership is changed, ensures the car owner against mechanical breakdowns or failure of the engine, transmission and drive axle for three years of 36,000 miles.

The settlement affects 66,782 persons nationwide who signed purchase orders for Oldsmobiles by April 10, 1977. But the attorneys general for four states—New York, Iowa, Kentucky and Louisiana, have not agreed to the settlement.

The suit was filed against GM because owners of the cars in question were not aware they had Chevrolet engines.

The engine switch was discovered by a mechanic who tried to change the fan belt and the oil filter of a 1977 Oldsmobile only to find that he did not have the parts to fix the engine.

The discovery led to an investigation which indicated the engine switching was widespread. After last April, GM was required by court order to tell customers if the car they were buying contained a Chevrolet engine.

Customers who decline to accept the settlement still can pursue legal action against GM on their own.

Grasshoppers Still Ravaging Crops In Western States

(UPI) — In the flatlands of southeastern Colorado, along the fringes of the Great Plains, farmer Ralph Hallock is battling the grasshoppers stalk by stalk as they ravage his grain crop.

The hoppers are getting the best of it on Hallock's farm and the farms of his neighbors in Colorado and three other states — Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

"They took a third of my barley, they had taken 15 to 20 percent of wheat before he cut it and they are working on the milo (a sorghum grain)," said Hallock, who along with his father farms about 5,000 acres near Sheridan Lake, Colo.

"They are really moving in. Only this morning, I counted 25 hoppers per milo stalk. They have eaten 2-to-4 foot plants into the ground."

Hallock and other farmers in the region are battling the worst grasshopper infestation since 1958 when the grasshoppers caused more than $60 million damage in Colorado alone.

Last year's drought, followed by a moist winter and then a mild spring, created perfect conditions for the present huge hatch of hoppers, estimated at more than 60 a square yard in some areas. Infestations of more than 10 grasshoppers a square yard are considered potentially disastrous.

Besides the weather, the farmers also have some choice epithets for the federal governmental Protection Agency's ban of chlordane, heptachlor and DDT, some of the pesticides used successfully in the past against grasshoppers.

Last week agriculture officials from Kansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, and Nebraska met in Topeka, Kan., to plead with EPA officials for release of the restricted pesticides on an emergency basis to deal with the grasshoppers.

The EPA told the officials applicants for the banned pesticides would have to comply with all procedural requirements — and that takes a minimum of 30 days. Farmers said by that time there might not be much left to save.

Farmers and agriculture officials complain the approved pesticides don't have the killing power or the residual effect to deal successfully with the current heavy levels of infestation.

"The approved chemicals work to some extent, but with 60 per square yard, even if you kill 50 percent of them, you haven't helped yourself," said Roger Sandman of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture.

There also has been some bureaucratic wrangling in Colorado where legislators, who said they were not convinced there was a crisis, grudgingly approved a $2 million appropriation for a spraying program to fight the grasshoppers.

But while the bureaucrats argue, the farmers fret that grasshoppers are gaining.

"The grasshoppers are so thick you open the door and they're liable to come right in," said Leta Lindauer, who lives on a farm near Ogallala in the Nebraska Panhandle.

Hallock says the problem will only get worse.

"We have to spray once a week," he said. "There aren't any bodies because they eat one another. If you have the right chemical, one dead hopper will kill seven others, but the EPA won't allow it. If this was 10 years ago, we could have sprayed last week and taken care of it.

Government Leaders Want Mouth-Rinse Program In School

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The leaders of a government effort to prevent tooth decay would like to see every child in America get fluoride teeth treatment and they say a mount-rinse program in school is a good way to do it.

A once-a-week, one-minute mouth rinse using a weak sodium fluoride solution was tried for two school years in elementary schools in 17 communities where water was not fluoridated. The results were encouraging — cavities were reduced from 8 to 46 percent in most of the 75,000 children treated.

Dr. James P. Carlos, associate director of the National Institute of Dental Research called the findings "perhaps the most significance advance in the prevention of dental caries, or tooth decay, in several decades."

Carlos reported the study findings Monday and said fluoride tablets should work just as well in preschool youngsters who are unable to perform the mouth rinse. Both the mouth rinse and the tablets are available from the drug store with a prescription.

Carlos said there are 20 million elementary school children not now drinking fluoridated water. He said they would benefit immediately from flouride mouth rinses. When administered in school, he said it costs 50 cents a school year per child.

Flouridation of public water supplies is considered an ideal way to help prevent tooth decay, and studies indicate that drinking fluoridated water from birth will prevent 50 to 60 percent of tooth decay. But half the nation's population does not drink fluoridated water for one reason or another.

Members of the Maryland, West Virginia and Delaware State Fire Commissions met at Will o' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake, Monday for a two-day seminar. The group discussed fire prevention, fire investigation and fire codes among other related topics. Representatives from Virginia and North Carolina also attended.

Equal Rights Amendment Granted Extension For Ratification Date

WASHINGTON (UPI) — ERA advocates and the tiny snail darter were the big winners on Capitol Hill Tuesday, while the Carter administration suffered a blow to its efforts to help hold down inflation through controlling hospital costs.

A bill to extend the ratification deadline of the Equal Rights Amendment until June 30, 1982, cleared the House Judiciary Committee on a 19-15 vote. Proponents of the extension considered committee approval crucial and believe the full House and Senate will go along.

The Senate sided with the rare fish that figured in the Supreme Court decision to block completion of a $116 million Tennessee dam while working on a bill that would provide a review of projects affecting endangered species.

Supporters of the bill said the amendment, which would have permitted work on the dam to continue at the expense of the snail darter, went too far and would exempt more than 600 projects from the 1973 Endangered Species Act.

The House Commerce Committee, meanwhile, refused to go along with the administration and rejected federal controls on skyrocketing hospital bills.

The committee substituted legislation calling for hospitals to voluntarily cut their inflation rate by 2 percent this year and in 1979.

The full House approved a bill that would require employers to treat women affected by pregnancy and childbirth the same as other employees in fringe benefit programs.

However, the bill included an amendment allowing employers to deny such benefits for most abortions, an amendment not included in the Senate version. The result could be a bitter House-Senate conference fight that could scuttle the whole measure.

The Senate approved legislation designed to nudge industries away from use of oil and natural gas and toward other energy sources, a step forward for President Carter's five-part energy policy. But estimates of its effects differed widely.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., estimated the bill could save as much as 1 million barrels of oil daily by 1985. But Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., said utilities and much of industry are turning to coal anyway because of the price of gas and oil.

In other action:

—The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee approved the administration's plan to create a Cabinet-level De-partment of Education.

—The House approved a worldwide unmigration limit of 290,000 per year in place of current separate quotas for the Eastern and Western Hemispheres.

Explosion and Fire Knock Out Power In U.S. Embassy

MOSCOW (UPI) — A small explosion and electrical fire knocked out power today in the U. S. Embassy.

The blast, which slightly injured an American Navy Seabee, occurred in a basement electrical power control room near the embassy commissary.

The basement of the main embassy building has evacuated and embassy workmen wearing oxygen masks managed to extinguish the blaze within 10 minutes.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known. But witnesses said the Seabee enlisted man had alerted commissary employees and cashiers to light candles because the lights were going out.

Then he threw the switch on a power panel there was a blast and fire.

Two hours later the entire embassy building was still without electrical power or telephone service.

The origin of the blast was a power panel that converts Moscow's 220-volt electrical power into 127 volts.

Electricians had been rewiring the panel for the past week as part of the process of converting the building to 220 volts. The project was undertaken to sunplify the electrical system and increase safety.

Witnesses said the Seabee enlisted man had alerted commissary employees and cashiers to light candles because the lights were going out.

Witnesses said the Seabee suffered minor injuries to his left arm and took a large jolt of electricity.

The American Embassy has not been completely restored since a fire late last August that burned out the three upper floors.

State Income Tax Refunds Exceed $200 Million

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that, for the first time, State income tax refunds have exceeded $200 million. "As of June 30, 1978, we had mailed 1.26 million refund checks totaling approximately $218.8 million. Last year, Maryland income tax refund checks added up to $191.3 million," Mr. Goldstein said.

The average refund check this year amounted to $173.61, nearly $15 more than last year.

Approximately 220,000 Maryland income taxpayers received larger refund checks because of legislation which I proposed, allowing State income taxpayers to itemize deductions on their Maryland Income Tax Returns, regardless of what they did on the Federal forms. That legislation was passed by the General Assembly, signed by Acting Governor Lee, and applied to State tax returns filed this year. It provided approximately $9 million in immediate tax relief for State income taxpayers," Comptroller Goldstein said.

You can find plenty of Biblical texts about the wind. That's not why so many church churches have weather vanes atop their steeples.

Our early American ancestors were religious—and practical. A weather vane was to be mounted well above trees and roofs which could alter the course of the wind. Other churches had church steeple was the highest place.

Nor is there anything irreverent in the custom. For centuries man has looked to the Church for guidance, direction, hope. It seems natural as he pursues his daily work to look to the Church to see which way the wind blows.

We get our weather news today from press, radio and TV. But look to the church of your choosing to gain the faith and courage that see reverent souls through "fair wind or foul."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SOMETHING MUST GO!

Lesson for July 23, 1978

Background Scripture: Acts 18:18 through 19:41
Devotional Reading: 2 Corinthians 10:3-8

Something would have to go! There could be no doubt about that. Christianity was bad for business and there seemed to be no ground for compromise.

The setting for the above scenario was Ephesus a free city on the Aegean coast of what is today the nation of Turkey. The "business" was that of making miniature silver shrines of the goddess Artemis, the patroness of the Ephesians who had built her a temple that was one of the seven wonders of the world. The business was apparently a thriving enterprise among the silversmiths of that city.

Rev. Althouse

The Way

The "Christianity" that was "bad for business" was missionary enterprise of the Apostle Paul and Silas and the growing faith was known to many as simply "The Way." Wherever Paul and Silas went preaching and teaching the Good News of Jesus Christ there was ferment, upheaval and opposition. Luke seems to understate it somewhat in Acts 19:23 when he says:

"About that time there arose no little stir concerning the Way." To be sure, with riots, imprisonment, beatings and organized opposition it can safely be said that "there was no little stir."

The spokesman for the silversmiths of Ephesus was a man known to us as Demetrius. Although he was obviously an enemy of the Way, one can't help but respect him as an honest and forthright opponent. He "tells it as it is." Instead of appealing to their patriotism, their religious sensibilities, Demetrius frankly states the real reason for their common concern: "Men, you know that from this business (of making silver shrines of Artemis) we have our wealth" (19:25). There is no beating around the bush. Demetrius says plainly that Paul and his mission are threatening their business. It is not a matter of Artemis being in danger, but their pocketbooks.

Handmade Gods

Although Paul has probably not attacked the silversmiths by name, he has greatly hurt their business with his preaching and teaching against idols and the assertion that "gods made with hands are not gods" (19:26). This subversive religious teaching threatens, not only the silversmiths of Ephesus but the whole economy, much of which was dependent upon the heavy tourist and pilgrim traffic to Ephesus to see the great temple of Artemis.

Demetrius made a logical appeal to the silversmiths, but it was with their emotions that they answered. "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" It was the first century equivalent of "Hooray for our side" or "My country, right or wrong — my country!"

Demetrius was quite correct in his estimate of the situation. Sometimes Christianity is bad for business if that business is dependent upon something that is evil, false or harmful. Often, when the Gospel collides with our culture, something must go!

BEWARE OF BEES
Summertime isn't a time to forget about insects. They aren't likely to let us, anyway. The area of major concern here is the bee family, including hornets, yellow jackets, wasps and the like.
While most sting victims suffer only some pain, a local reaction of burning, redness and a large wheal formation, some are not so lucky. For those sensitive to bee sting venom, it could be a matter of life or death. They should see a physician, be desensitized and get information on the treatment. A bee sting kit should also be carried.

MORE THAN THEIR PRIDE is reflected in their work, as Robert and Helen Herboldsheimer, of Cumberland, work in bright sunshine which is reflected in their tin wares. They are well-known tinsmiths who create lanterns and other objects from tin and copper, who were demonstrating their capabilities at the Penn Alps Summerfest. Artists from many states were showing off their skills for the spectators roaming the grounds.

He recently had been awarded a research fellowship from the National institutes of Health for advanced training in biomedical research. The research will be done in the Netherlands beginning September 1.

Fike's wife, Josie, also attended CSU and received her doctorate in veterinary medicine in May. She is presently engaged in an internship in small animal medicine and surgery at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia.

John is a son of Glen N. and Ella Fike, El Segundo, Calif., and is a grandson of the late David and Florence Fike of Friendsville. He spent several days in Friendsville recently visiting his aunt, Mrs. Lillian Bates, his cousin Rick, and other relatives and friends.

Goldstein Standing Firm On Taxing Congress Members

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, in response to a suit filed by the United States Justice Department in Federal District Court, said this week that he would make no change in the policy of "levying the appropriate State income tax on members of Congress living in Maryland until the issue is resolved by the highest court in the land, namely the United States Supreme Court."

MCEA Mediates Schedule Grievance

Forest Service Fire Control employees from Garrett and Allegany Counties and MCEA Staff Representative Larry D. Kump met recently with Forest Service Director Donald MacLauchlan in a step three grievance hearing over work schedules.

Although AFSCME (AFL-CIO) had previously grieved the same issue and lost at steps three and four, MCEA was successful in resolving the scheduling problems to the satisfaction of all parties.

Director MacLauchlan confided that the meeting with MCEA "was a most informative session for me, and I appreciate the cooperative spirit that you all displayed."

Mr. Kump remarked, "Our success was due to the fact that we avoided playing trade-union games and instead presented facts and figures in a responsible fashion. Messrs. Marshall Fletcher, Charles R. Thomas, Dale Fike, and Roland Schoch (grievants) are dedicated professionals."

MCEA works for the public employee and the public.

Sequels are usually tainted from the beginning and Eric Seagal's OLIVER does not measure up to its predecessor, LOVE STORY, but commercially it has held its own on the way up the Best-Sellers list.

The book is a chronology of Oliver Barrett III, wealthy widower of his "preppie" sweetheart, Jennie of LOVE STORY endearment. Oliver is too busy covering up his grief and the fact that he is enormously wealthy to enjoy himself. Remorse at the death of a loved one is understandable, but a revulsion of wealth is unrealistic — it's dichotomous with the American Dream which Oliver is supposed to be the epitome of.

The reader is apt to get so tired of Oliver's deeply futile relationship with an ultra rich, ultra-chic divorcee that he or she may just give up on the book before finishing it. Thank goodness it's short.

To make matters worse, Oliver spurns the love of a dedicated girl-next-door type who also doubles as a doctor. Finally, in a soap opera twist ending, he recognizes her love.

The book's only saving grace is that it does elicit some emotion from the reader. Read and weep America.

Senior Citizens To Hold Picnic

Senior Citizens of Garrett County are reminded to call and make reservations for the annual picnic at Herrington Manor on Wednesday, July 26.

Mrs. Vivian Tasker, director of the Hot Meals Program for the Community Action Agency and Mrs. Marilyn Metheny, director of the Senior Citizen Programs for Commission On Aging, are working with Charles Thomas, Superintendent of Herrington Manor and Swallow Falls State Parks, to set up the picnic.

Swimming, fishing, boating and nature walks are among the activities planned. Mrs. Tasker and her staff will serve lunch.

Donations to defray the cost of the lunch are encouraged, as they are at all Title VII meal sites. "Our grant is less this year than in the past few," Mrs. Tasker said.

Reservations for transportation and meals can be made by calling 334-3314 or stopping by the Senior Citizen Service Program office at 104 Center St.," according to Mrs. Metheny.

Twenty senior citizens from the Oakland Center traveled to Grantsville July 13, for the Summerfest at Penn Alps. Garrett Bus System provided transportation.

AMA HEALTH TIPS

SUN TANNING RULES LISTED

The summer swimming and outdoors season is back again, and with it comes the hazard of sunburn.

The American Medical Association points out that there is virtually no beneficial value to suntanning, and there is real possibility of harm. Heavy tanning brings premature wrinkling and aging of the skin, and also can cause skin cancers.

If you insist on tanning despite the doctor's advice, apply a little common sense and care on the first few days in the sun, and you can avoid a severe burn.

Here are some simple tips for enjoying sunshine and tanning without the painful burns.

- Take it easy the first few days. Tan slowly. Start with 15 minutes the first day and increase the time by 10 minutes each day. The sun is hottest during the midday hours.
- Suntan lotions and creams can screen out some of the burning ultraviolet rays and thus reduce burn. They can't speed up tanning.
- Protect your hair. Too much sun can make it brittle and hard to manage.
- Lubricate the skin with cream or lotion after a day in the sun to help offset the excessive drying effect.
- Protect your eyes with dark glasses or with gauze pads.

Follow these precautions and avoid spending most of the holiday suffering from sunburn.

Pratt Exhibit Opens At Ruth Enlow Library

Local Artist, Sonia Long Pratt, opened an exhibit at the Ruth Enlow Library last week. The show includes macrame and oil paintings ranging from abstract to surrealistic techniques

by Jim Willis

A new exhibit by Sonia Long Pratt opened at the Ruth Enlow Library last week.

Mrs. Pratt, who teaches art at Southern High School, previously taught in Marion County, W. Va. She received her BA degree in Art Education from Fairmont State College in 1972. Since then she has attended the University of Arizona, Guadalajara extension in Guadalajara, Mexico; the Heritage Workshop in Elkins, W. Va. and West Virginia University graduate school of painting.

Her exhibits have included Fairmont State College, Clarksburg Art Center, Garrett Community College, Morgantown Art Association, Elkins State Forest Festival, Glenville State College, Sunrise Gallery in Charleston, W. Va. and Guadalajara, Mexico.

Upon graduation from Fairmont State College she was given recognition by the Fine Arts Faculty as an outstanding art student. In 1973 she was chosen by the W. Va. Commissioning Council to exhibit two of her works in Charleston. Several of her creations are included in private collections.

Mrs. Pratt works primarily in macrame with fibre, and in oil painting. She has tried several techniques in her painting ranging from abstract to "realistic" surrealism. Her study in Guadalajara has perhaps influenced her use of strong vibrant colors, and she noted that the figures of Matisse and the fantasy of Chagall have made an impression on her style.

Mrs. Pratt, a native of Mannington, W. Va. has been a resident of Garrett County for five years along with her husband, Fred. They are the parents of an 18-month-old son.

Several of the pieces on display at the library are for sale. Mrs. Pratt sells primarily by exhibition although she does accept commissions and she is tentatively planning an exhibit in Wheeling at present.

"MOTHER AND DAUGHTER" — A primitive technique in pseudo Haitian style completes this striking oil framed in natural wood

"LAS CASAS GUADELAJARA" — A linear landscape in oil suggesting the color of picturesque Mexico.

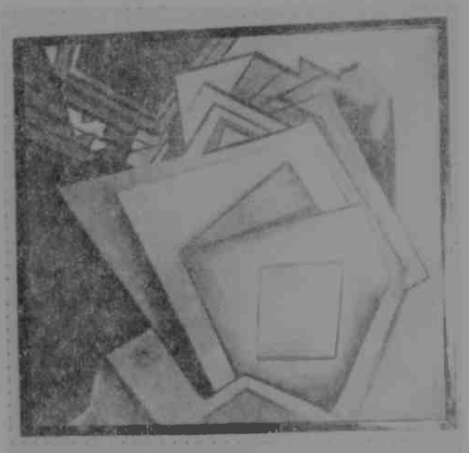
"JERRI" — An impressionistic rendering in sombre oil colors

"NIGHT DREAM" — The stark figure provides a vista for the surrealistic panorama of this oil painting.

MACRAME — Untitled, this attractive wall hanging was worked in larks head, square, side-loop and binding knots.

"MOONLIGHT" — A surrealistic oil composition in three depths

"SUNBATHERS" — A large oil on canvas with montage composition



"ELEVATION" — A geometric abstraction in warm vibrant colors.

306 Households Receive Utility Bill Assistance

A total of 306 households in Garrett County received financial assistance for payment of last winter's utility and fuel bills through the Emergency Energy Assistance Program. The program, coordinated by the Maryland Office of Economic Opportunity, certified over 10,600 households statewide as eligible to receive assistance.

The 306 homeowners, or a total of 1,073 residents, were given $53,580. In Allegany County, 528 homeowners received assistance totaling $88,900. Washington County residents received $40,554, which was divided among 246 households.

A total of $1.7 million was distributed throughout the state to aid Marylanders in paying the costs of energy-related emergencies.

All individuals receiving assistance had to meet certain income standards and have large unpaid utility and fuel bills or be threatened with utility cutoff at the time of application. In addition, payment was made for such energy-related items as emergency furnace repairs, firewood and certain housing repairs.

Allocation of funds was based on the population in the various jurisdictions. The program operated for the seven-week period between April 1 and May 20. Funds for the program were allocated by the Community Services Administration to the Governors of all 50 states, with various agencies administering the program locally. The program was similar to the Special Crisis Intervention Program run last winter by the Department of Human Resources.

A ceremony dedicating the improvements to the Walnut Bottom Church was held Sunday, July 9.

The church was enlarged to seat 200 people and the basement has been divided into a combination banquet room and classroom. Paneled walls, a white ceiling and green carpet up and downstairs are among the newest renovations to the church. A large gold cross adorns the front of the church while ceiling lamps are decorated with crosses. Brother Rowe did the carpentry work with help from members of the church.

Guest speaker for the Sunday morning service was Rev. William Davis, president of the Potomac District Youth Department and formerly of Walnut Bottom. Rev. Davis now resides in Fairfax, Va.

Following the service, an all-day dinner was held on the church grounds.

Musical selections were performed by the Tanner family, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. George Tichnell, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Davis, Beulah and Judy Tasker, Crystal Nealis, Brenda Grassic, the Foote Sisters, and Mr. and Mrs. David King.

Afternoon speaker was Rev. Joe Eversole who offered a prayer of dedication.

Visiting ministers for the event were Rev. Joe Eversole, Rev. William Davis, Rev. James Tichnell, Rev. Walter Leake and Rev. George Tichnell.

New Piney Creek Dam Discussed

Herbert M. Sachs, director of operations of the State Department of Natural Resources, was in Cumberland Monday to confer with Allegany public officials concerning the progress toward a new Piney Creek dam which would serve as a major water supply source for that county.

Attending the meeting were Commissioners John J. Coyle, Arthur T. Bond and Linda Golden, member of the Allegany County Water Commission, representatives of the city of Frostburg, and Garrett Commissioner Wayne Hamilton.

Most officials seem agreed that Piney Creek in the northeast corner of Garrett County is the best source of water for Frostburg and the communities along George's Creek.

The city of Frostburg has had an impoundment on Piney Creek for many years. Officials now seem to favor a new and larger dam about one and one-half miles downstream from the present dam, and most of Monday's meeting was spent discussing the proper steps to be taken to implement plans for a new dam.

Early in May, estimated cost of the larger dam was thought to be in the neighborhood of $9,000,000 to $11,000,000. An Act of Congress might be needed to provide the essential funds.

Commissioner Hamilton attended to try to obtain assurances that Garrett County will be able to obtain some of the water from the new dam, which will be located within its boundaries.

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

I'm sure you've heard it said: "Why should I sell my home through a REALTOR? I can sell it myself and save a lot of money." Right? Wrong!

This kind of thinking usually turns out to be financially unwise. The prospects will usually start by mentally deducting the commission and then start negotiating from there. On the average, a homeowner saves NO money when he sells his own home. In fact, the opposite is true. Studies over a ten year period show that the net proceeds from owner-sold property are LESS than the REALTOR-sold piece of real estate, even after the payment of commission.

As a private seller you're at a great disadvantage in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a REALTOR. He'll sell it for you - without hitches - for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone one of our offices:

Teachers Reminded Of August 14 Registration Deadline

The Political Action Committee (GPAC) of the Garrett Teachers Association reminds teachers of the August 14 deadline to register to vote in the September 12 Primary Election. Mail-in voter registration request forms were sent in June to all non-registered teachers who are residents of Garrett County. These forms may be returned to the Board of Election Supervisors anytime before August 14.

GPAC also reminds all candidates for the office of County Commissioner of Garrett County that the questionnaires mailed to them were to be returned by July 15. If they have not done so, they should return them immediately in order to have their opinions included in the newsletter to be presented to all teachers in the fall. Local candidates for the Maryland legislature will be receiving a similiar letter and questionnaire from GPAC in the near future. Their responses will also be included in the newsletter.

Loan And Purchase Rate For Corn Down

The loan and purchase rate for Maryland 1978 corn crop is $2.17 per bushel, down one cent from the 1977 rate, according to Paul A. Crowl, Chairperson of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).

The 1978 soybean loan rate is $3.47 per bushel, $1.00 per bushel more than last year's rate.

According to Crowl, the rates are based on national loan and purchase rates of $2.00 per bushel for corn and $4.50 per bushel for soybeans. "The rates reflect production and utilization patterns, historical prices received by farmers and differences in transportation costs," Crowl said. The schedule of premiums and discounts is unchanged from 1977.

The county corn loan rate is for corn grading No. 2. The soybean loan rate is for soybeans of the yellow or green classes which contain 12.8-13.0 percent moisture and which grade not lower than No. 2 on the factors of test weight, percentage of splits and heat damage, and not lower than No. 1 on all other factors.

Price support loan programs are administered by ASCS. Farmers who have questions concerning the 1978 loan and purchase rates should contact the local ASCS office.

4-H Schedules Archery Lessons For Young People

Dale Paugh, Chief Instructor for the Garrett County 4-H Junior Archery Club, has announced a series of archery lessons which will be given at the Deer Park Sportsmen's Club on the Tuesday dates of July 18 and 25, August 1 and 8, from 7 p.m., until dark. (To reach the Deer Park Sportsmen's Archery Range, take Rt. 135 approximately three miles east of Oakland, look for the entrance on the right side of the road, just before reaching Mellinger's Yamaha shop.)

Mrs. Becky Friend will cover the basics of shooting with youth who are unfamiliar with the sport of archery. Mrs. Friend will teach those youth how to string the bow, parts of the bow and arrow; drawing, aiming, shooting, follow through and the safety aspects of using the bow and arrow properly.

Dale Paugh will work with those youth who have previous archery experience. Dale will help youth develop competitive archery interests, and will cover field archery and bow hunting.

To join the junior archery program a $4.00 registration fee ($1.00 per night) will be charged to defray the cost of arrows, bow strings, targets and other equipment.

For further information about the 4-H Junior Archery program, call the Extension Office or speak with Dale Paugh or Becky Friend. All youth are welcome and encouraged to attend. Youngsters may bring their own bows. The club will furnish all equipment necessary to learn the basics of archery.

Craftsmen And Artists Display Skills At Penn Alps

By Carol Canan

Demonstrations of all types of handicrafts, from cornhusk dolls to grandfather clocks, highlighted the first Summerfest, cosponsored by Penn Alps and the Maryland Arts Council July 13-15 at Penn Alps.

Admission to the grounds allowed spectators to see samplings of such skills as glassblowing, tole painting, spinning, painting, bird carving, yarn dyeing, and chair seat and basket weaving. Also available for sampling were regional and ethnic foods and drinks such as sausageburgers, funnelcakes and herb teas. Containers of local wild and garden flowers decorated the grounds and demonstration areas.

In the center row, at left, is Mrs. Margaret Chaney, of Ridgeley and her daughter Ronni, seated behind fibers they were dyeing with colors extracted from lichens and other natural substances. Mrs. Chaney learned how to extract such dyes several years ago in a course at Penn Alps. Lichens produce dyes in shades from red through pink to purple, while mullein leaves, when brewed, produce a yellow dye.

In the center, a little girl is taking her carved wooden dog for a walk on the grounds of the fest. At right, glass blower extraordinaire Willard Wyse, from Michigan, shows his skill with a torch. Mr. Wyse was formerly an assistant administrator of the Penn Alps organization.

On the bottom row, handloomed pillows made of natural fibers and naturally dyed by Mrs. Margaret Chaney were on exhibit with various other handmade items at this table. At right, Jim Dennison softens and prepares a handful of clay before starting his pottery wheel. At right, careful movements of his fingers and hands are working with the wheel to create a smooth piece of pottery.

Sixty-five Cases Of RMSF Listed Throughout State

At midpoint of the 1978 Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever (RMSF) season in Maryland, a total of sixty-five reported cases, including one death, was announced this week by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Dr. David Sorley, Assistant Chief, Division of Communicable Diseases, said that fifteen of these cases are confirmed by laboratory blood testing. The sixty-five cases to date compares with a reported thirty-four cases for the same period last season.

Since June 2nd, when Dr. Neil Solomon, Maryland Secretary of Health and Mental Hygiene, announced an intensive statewide RMSF surveillance program designed to play a major role in identifying geographical areas of tick infestation which account for a larger number of cases, reports from all areas of Maryland have been under study.

Although our reported RMSF cases are almost double last year's number at this time, Dr. Sorley said only continued investigation of each reported case will confirm whether Maryland has a greater incidence of the tick-borne disease. Many of the reported cases, although clinically similar to RMSF, do not meet serological criteria to make a confirmed diagnosis, he noted. Additionally, improved reporting due to this year's intensive surveillance effort may account for the apparent increase in RMSF reports.

Dr. Sorley said that RMSF can be fatal if not diagnosed and treated promptly with appropriate antibiotics. The major danger with this disease is the delay of the patient in reporting what may be confusing symptoms of fever and rash to a physician and in not reporting a tick bite or other tick exposure.

Dr. Sorley said in Maryland only a small per cent of all ticks are infected. Symptoms of the disease, often similar to measles and usually appearing within three to ten days after the attachment of an infected tick, may include: severe headache, fever (occasionally 104° to 106°), chills, fatigue, generalized body aching and faint skin rash. The rash generally involves the palms and the soles of the feet. Although children account for the majority of cases, fatalities tend to be in adults above 35-40 years of age. Physicians should use two blood tests, two or more weeks apart, to confirm the diagnosis when RMSF is suspected.

The family dog is highly susceptible to tick infestation, usually acquired from known tick-infested areas. Fortunately, dogs rarely show even mild signs of an infection, but heavy tick infestation can cause skin infections and blood depletion in dogs. To protect the family and the pet, owners should confine or leash their pets or they should thoroughly inspect them for infestation before allowing them indoors. Usually the tick will have crawled to the head and ear areas. Dogs frequently cause tick infestation of homes, which results in costly extermination procedures. Deticking dogs by hand may cause human infection with RMSF. Ticks should not be removed with bare fingers nor should they be killed by squeezing them between fingernails.

Veterinarians can give advice on selecting tick repellents for pets. Indiscriminate use of tick collar and insecticides should be avoided. Heavily infested animals should be treated by a veterinarian and safe material obtained to treat home infestations.

The county distribution of reported RMSF cases includes: 10 in Harford (with 1 death); 9 in Anne Arundel; 8 in Carroll; 7 in Baltimore City; 4 in Kent, Howard and Baltimore County; 3 in Frederick and Montgomery; 2 in Charles, Dorchester, Prince George's; and 1 in Allegany, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Talbot, Washington, Wicomico and Worcester.

Conditions Listed For RTOR Law

"No Turn on Red"

This sign is posted on 620 of the 5,600 State-maintained approaches to intersections controlled by traffic signals.

With approximately 11 percent of such approaches marked "No Turn on Red," Maryland is in line with the 47 other states which have adopted Right Turn on Red After Stop (RTORAS) legislation.

Before the RTORAS law went into effect July 1, State Highway Administration traffic engineers studied all of the intersections at which the agency maintains approximately 1,400 traffic lights. Counties and municipalities conducted similar surveys of intersections under their jurisdictions.

According to Thomas Hicks, Assistant Chief Engineer for Traffic, turns on red are prohibited at intersections with one or more of these characteristics.

*Insufficient sight distance. The view of oncoming traffic is obstructed to the extent that such turns are considered hazardous.

*Five or more approaches feeding into a single intersection.

*Unusual or unexpected traffic movement. Examples are special left turn lanes and access roads to shopping centers or drive-ins.

*Vehicular traffic on all approaches periodically giving way to pedestrians. At these "Barn Dance" intersections, pedestrians may cross at any angle while all movement of vehicles is stopped.

*An abnormally high number of very young, very old, or handicapped pedestrians.

*Curving, steep, or narrow approach roads.

Mr. Hicks pointed out that "No Turn on Red" signs have been posted at some intersections which were previously marked "Right Turn on Red After Stop." The decision to prohibit turns on red was based on a review of accident statistics at these locations, he said.

He added that the SHA reviews all traffic regulations continuously. As traffic patterns at a location change, regulations are revised accordingly. This practice will be applied to regulations governing turns on red.

"Safety is a paramount issue," he emphasized. "It is absolutely necessary that right turning vehicles come to a full stop before moving against a red signal."

The General Assembly passed the RTORAS legislation to bring the state into conformity with the other 47 where right turns are permitted on red. RTORAS also results in saving of fuel and driving time.

Sheriff Releases June Activity Report

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department served 207 papers relating to civil, criminal, law, equity, and juvenile cases, including summons and warrants, during the month of June, according to Sheriff John Evans, Jr.

The men also answered over 150 complaints and made 200 patrol checks on businesses and residences.

Twenty-five were arrested, on charges ranging from breaking and entering to larceny and shoplifting. One was arrested for arson.

Eleven prisoners were incarcerated at the beginning of the month, and 20 were added through June 16. Twenty-five were released, and four prisoners who had previously been sentenced were transported to the penitentiary, leaving two prisoners to be transported to the Allegany Jail in Cumberland.

All persons arrested since the 16th are being detained in the Allegany Jail until the new jail facilities are completed in the Courthouse addition.

Activity added over 20,000 miles to the departmental vehicles, including the three new brown and tan Ford LTD II's which were added to the fleet in recent weeks. Sheriff John Evans is still awaiting delivery of his new police car, according to a spokesman for his office.

Byron Releases Survey Results

Noting that "current tax payer protests are very real," Rep. Goodloe Byron recently released preliminary results of a recent area survey indicating that over 90 percent of Central and Western Maryland citizens favor cuts in Federal spending to go along with cuts in Federal taxes.

"This current taxpayer unrest is good for the country if it leads to reductions in unnecessary Federal spending and puts pressure on legislators to eliminate the fat in government programs," Byron said.

The two-question tax survey was sent to 200,000 Sixth District residents and according to Byron the return rate has been "astounding."

Usually on a mid-year, short survey like this you expect about 5,000 responses six weeks after the mailing," he said. "People are obviously interested in being heard on this issue, however, because 12,000 replies have been received in the first two weeks and the survey forms are still pouring in."

Preliminary findings show respondents favoring Federal legislation similiar to California's Proposition 13 by a 9-to-1 margin. A Constitutional Amendment enabling non-binding national popular votes on issues is also supported by the same ratio.

"The tax revolt is very real and the message is loud and clear: cut Federal spending and balance the Federal budget," Byron said.

"For the past four years I have introduced legislation to balance the Federal budget and each tune the measure was held by the Judiciary Commuttee. The results of this questionnaire may change their attitude.

"When the totals are complete later this month I plan to insert them in the Congressional Record for all congressmen to see. I also plan to use this groundswell of public sentiment to request hearings on measures calling for a balanced Federal budget and cuts in Federal taxes," Byron concluded.

On Dean's List

Nina Bishoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Bishoff, Oakland, was one of more than 500 undergraduate students named to the Dean's List at Hood College for the spring semester.

To qualify for inclusion on the Dean's List, seniors must achieve a grade point average of 3.3; juniors a 3.2; sophomores a 3.1; and freshmen, 3.0. The average is computed on a four point scale.

Miss Bishoff will be a senior this fall.

CALLING ALL Homemakers

Brought to you by Debbi Paige

A GOOD BUY

Since everybody is so conscious of what they should spend their money for these days, I though I'd pass along some thoughts made recently by an economic analyst on family spending.

He said in his opinion, among the best buys today are furniture and other home furnishings - and his reason is that one should consider the knowledge that furniture and home furnishings last longer and therefore give the purchaser a longer run for his money.

He said it makes sense to him to put money into something of a permanent or semi-permanent nature such as furniture, where the cost is amortized over a long period of time, and where you get continued pleasure from it.

He also brought out the point that it makes sense to put one's money into a place where people spend as much time as they do in their homes.

In any case, whether you're thinking about economics or simply the comfort and beauty of your home, remember that we not only have good furniture values and selection, but we're aware of helping you consider your budget, and getting you the most for your money.

So, please feel free to stop in and see us at your convenience. We're here to serve you.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

With the sharp increases in the cat and dog populations during the summer every pet owner should consider spaying or neutering their animals. This particularly applies to cat owners who allow their pets to roam. Because cats are generally more prolific and better able to fend for themselves in the outdoors the excessive feline birthright has been climbing out of control for the past number of years.

If you should decide to neuter, it should not be done before eight months of age to permit the cat to develop as normally as possible. When puberty occurs in either female or male, most cat owners will find that they can no longer postpone a decision on this question of whether to have the cat altered or permit it to remain whole.

If the cat is not going to be used for breeding — and that means most pure-bred cats and virtually all other cats — it should be neutered. Here are some of the reasons:

The Male: A whole male cannot be kept in the house after puberty because it forgets its toilet training and "sprays" around the rooms, and its urine has an unendurable stench. Many novice cat owners get rid of their pets at this time, sadly, because they are unaware that castration will remedy both of these objectionable conditions. Whole tomcats insist on roaming and they are often in fights with other cats. Their unsexed brothers, on the other hand, are happy to be stay-at-homes and usually are much less belligerent.

A neutered cat is just as good a mouser as any whole cat and its health is at least as good, if not better. Those cat owners who wonder if cats should not be mated for the sake of their health can be assured that there is nothing inherently health promoting in copulation.

The Female: Many of the same arguments apply to the female, with some additional ones. A spayed female loses the wanderlust that afflicts a whole queen. It doesn't attract tomcats who would otherwise come around the house, spraying the shrubbery and making the night sleepless with their caterwauling.

The neutered female is saved from the stress of kittening and its risks, small though they may be. And there are not unwanted kittens to be put to sleep. This is a major consideration, for the world is full of unwanted cats that die of cold, exposure, disease or the attacks of hostile animals. It is a curious thing that some people, in a rather obvious example of anthropomorphism, regard the neutering of cats as immoral but are perfectly willing to let the cat produce litter after litter of kittens that must be killed.

To reassure those who fear that the neutering of animals is birth control — and feel that birth control — and in keeping with moral law — Friends of Animals, an organization which assists low-income families to pay the cost of spaying their pets, solicited an opinion from the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York on this matter. The Reverend Timothy J. Flynn, director of the Archdiocesan Bureau of Information, replied, "I think that you should notify your members through whatever means you have at your disposal that the Church has no objection to the spaying of animals."

For most owners of female cats, the question of spaying is resolved abruptly after several nerve-wracking nights spent listening to their pets "calling" for a mate.

The neutering of either male or female can be done at any time, even immediately before, during, or after the female's season. The veterinarian who will perform the operation may have a personal preference in this matter of timing, and he should be consulted first.

It is easier, and less expensive, to have a male unsexed. The organs are external and accessible. The cat is anesthetized and then castrated. Most veterinarians leave the scrotal sac intact after removing the testes from within it, so that the cat still looks like a male. The cat can be taken home the same day usually after the effects of the anesthetic have diminished.

The spaying of the female, on the other hand, requires an abdominal incision to permit the removal of the ovaries and related organs. It is a minor operation, but the abdominal wall has been breached, and usually the cat must be kept in the animal hospital for a few days to ensure confinement and hence proper rest while the incision heals. It follows, therefore, that the operation should be more expensive for the female. The fees for neutering either sex, however, are very reasonable.

After spaying, many cat owners fear that their pets will grow fat. There is no sound basis for this fear. It is probably predicated on the fact that chickens are unsexed to fatten them as capons, but cocks are castrated at a very early age, even before the secondary sex characteristics have been developed. If any animal is unsexed before puberty, it tends to grow fat. After puberty, that is not true. If a cat is neutered at any time after the age of eight months, it should develop normally except in its sexuality. There is no reason why a neutered cat, fed a correct diet, should be fat.

Sexual behavior usually ends in the female cat within twenty-four hours after spaying — that is, before it is ready to return home from the vet's. In the male cat, interest in sex usually will diminish rapidly and within a couple of weeks the cat has lost all appetite for amorous conquests. However, in some cases, usually cats which have engaged in copulation at some time before castration, the cat may exhibit some sexual behavior for awhile. This can be somewhat disconcerting to the cat owner, who is certain that the vet botched the job. He didn't. In such cases, the male's interest in other cats is not really very strong.

Maryland Receives 2 USDA Grants

Maryland will receive two U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) grants totalling $33,700, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said. The grants are made under USDA's Federal-State Marketing Improvement Program.

The largest grant of $24,370 will be used to generate increased export demand for purebred beef cattle and semen through export seminars and other activities, according to Barbara Lindemann Schlei, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS).

The remaining $9,000 will be used to improve the state farmer-to-consumer direct marketing operations, Schlei said. The state will match both grants with equal amounts of state monies.

Export of livestock from Maryland in the past has been limited mostly to dairy cows and purebred black angus bulls. State officials told USDA that a major drawback to export sales by individual producers has been locating buyers and knowing how to prepare cattle for shipment.

"The decline of slaughtering in the East and the Westward push of commercial meat production is forcing Maryland farmers to find alternative livestock markets," Schlei said. "This program is intended to give producers the facts for exporting their livestock."

To encourage the establishment of roadside, farmers and tailgate markets, as well as other direct market operations, Maryland officials will develop a slide presentation and other informational materials.

Maryland officials estimate that the farmer's share of the food dollar is only 40 percent, Schlei said. Product costs between the farm and the consumer increase by more than 150 percent for some items because of marketing charges.

"Eliminating some of these charges by selling direct would benefit both the producer and the consumer financially and, at the same time, assure the consumer of higher quality and more nutritious products," she said.

By Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with the citizens of Central and Western Maryland. You may send your questions to me, in care of the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I will answer each of you who writes. The following questions are typical of those asked of me in recent weeks.

Did you support the National Energy Act when it passed the House last year?

Yes I did. As you may know, that bill would have restricted utility rate increases under automatic fuel adjustment clauses. It also provided for tax credits for energy conservation and solar energy use, increased fuel efficiency of automobiles, conversion from oil and natural gas to coal, and other important measures.

Has Congress passed legislation reducing air fares for Senior Citizens?

Yes, and numerous airlines will now begin to offer additional special discount airfares for persons 65 of age or over. Most discount fares will allow the elderly to make reservations within 24 hours of scheduled departure rather than flying on a standby basis. Most tickets will reflect a one-third discount on air travel, and will not require a special identification card prior to use of the fare.

What do you plan to do with the results of your recent tax questionnaire?

When the totals are complete this month I will insert them in the Congressional Record for all congressmen to see. I also plan to use the results as leverage for requesting hearings on measures calling for a balanced federal budget and cuts in federal taxes. Preliminary findings show Central and Western Maryland citizens favoring legislation to reduce federal expenditures and taxes by a 9-to-1 margin. A constitutional Amendment enabling national popular votes on issues is also supported by 90 percent of the respondents.

Does the government publish any literature on car repairs?

The Air Force publishes a 75-page, illustrated, do-it-yourself manual on car care. It includes a step-by-step guide to changing oil and filter, tuning the engine, and other similiar chapters on car maintenance and repairs. For your copy of "Backyard Mechanic, Volume 2" send $1.60 to the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

What can be done to protect lost jobs due to unfair foreign competition?

I believe that American businesses and workers deserve protection from unfair foreign competition. That is why I have joined with other Members of Congress in urging the Administration to take strong action to assist the American steel, textile and shoe industries — all of which are important to Central and Western Maryland. I have also supported legislative proposals to combat the unfair competition of foreign countries which subsidize their industries and exports, exploit their citizens by allowing very cheap wage rates, and permit the "dumping" of excess production in the United States.

I will graduate from high school next year and would like to know what jobs are in most demand?

The Federal government publishes a general monthly leaflet on "Occupations in Demand" which lists the number of job openings for over 100 occupations, including the cities or localities in which they are available. For your free copy of this booklet, write the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Off the beaten path...

So we're not the "first left after the clover leaf." And we can't seat you and 300 of your closest friends in our dining room. And our little menu won't bewilder you with a vast selection of entrees.

But we can help any dinner become a celebration, with fine food and drink, graciously served. And you'll enjoy a carafe served with dinner (our treat, of course), crusty homemade bread, and an unusually complete appetizer and salad bar when you dine with us.

We may be off the beaten path, but people who enjoy a memorable evening out are beating a path to our door.

Come dine with us, enjoy our open air back porch as we feast on fresh Chesapeake Bay crabs.

By James Burley

Q. In 1975, I had a module home put on my lot for which I paid $23,106, including the plumbing, electric, and the foundation. The assessors say my property and house are worth $51,000, but anybody can buy this same kind of house for about $26,000.

Last year my assessment increase was $4,500, which is way over the socalled fifteen percent. The only grounds for protest that I could see was the fifteen percent. The overcharge was $1,336.50.

My property is now assessed for $25,590. Enclosed is a copy of my assessment notices. If there is any advice you could give me, I would deeply appreciate it.

A. Your notice reflects a combined assessment of your land, your home, and other improvements. The land values of waterfront properties in Bowleys Quarters, where you reside, have risen dramatically in the past several years. This accounts for some of the increase.

Apart from this, the assessment of your home this year did not include a physical review. The assessments office has admitted that they overlooked the fact that your residence is of the unique, modular construction type. Upon reviewing the matter, the assessments office has now corrected their mistake. You will receive a corrected final notice that reflects an assessment only slightly higher than last year.

The fifteen percent limit on the assessment increase which you mention would normally protect you, but you will not have to be concerned because your new assessment will now be far under this limit.

Another factor, working in your favor, is the ten percent rollback. As a result of the correction of the oversight and the rollback, your tax bill this year will be less than it was last year.

Q. We are senior citizens. I am sixty-two, and my husband is seventy-three years old. Each of us is in bad health. My husband is a heart patient, and I am on a kidney machine. We would like to have information on property tax deductions.

A. You should, without any further delay, apply for a Homeowners' Tax Credit, using the white application for those sixty and older or the disabled. Do not confuse these forms with the new, blue, single-sheet ones that are for those who are under sixty. Homeowners in the over sixty or disabled category, which is your case, receive special benefits.

Your application form was printed before the most recent changes in the benefits were made. The tax schedule shown on the form has been liberalized, and your credit will be greater than the table suggests. The maximum credit for your group has been increased from $750 to $900. The maximum assessed value of your home that is eligible for credit is now $40,000, rather than $30,000, and the net worth limit has been increased from $150,000 to $200,000. Also, you no longer have to include the value of your home in determining your net worth. These are the main changes that affect you and which do not show on the old application.

You actually have until September 1, to apply, but the sooner you apply, the sooner you will receive your tax credit. If you put the matter aside, you risk the danger of forgetting about it and may miss the deadline. Then it will be too late.

Applications are available through the Property Tax Credit Section of your local assessments office. In your own interest, act promptly.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to 'Assessment Answers — James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

This column was written with the co-operation of the Maryland State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

Mrs. Stevenson Given Recognition At Boonsboro Home

Mrs. John Stevenson, who resides in Reeders' Memorial Home, Boonsboro, was recently honored as the resident personality of the month there.

The article, which appeared in the monthly newsletter, paid special tribute to her "refreshing wit and vitality;" her willingness to share with other residents by reading aloud to those who are disabled and unable to read for themselves; for giving daily help with projects in the activity room, and especially for being "91 years young."

Mrs. Stevenson formerly lived in Mt. Lake Park, where she actively participated in church and community affairs. She is the oldest living charter member of the Bethel United Methodist Church and is also a charter member of the local Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of D.A.R.

DOES IT YOUR WAY

FREE ASSISTANCE for veterans and their families will be available locally when a Field Service Unit of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Oakland on Monday, July 24. This is the fifth consecutive year that one of these 26-foot mobile offices has visited the state, providing free counseling and claims service to veterans and their families. The DAV Field Service Unit will be located at the corner of Liberty and Second Streets from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The traveling veterans' service facility will be manned by DAV National Service Officers who are fully qualified and trained to assist veterans and their families in filing claims for Federal and State benefits to which they are entitled by law. These include disability compensation, pension, employment and job training rights, educational benefits, hospitalization and medical care, Social Security, death claims and more. Assisting here will be Arlie Breedlove, Mt. Top Chapter 29 Service Officer. A veteran need not be a member of the DAV to take advantage of this free service. Local DAV and DAV Auxiliary members are cooperating with the National Headquarters of the 550,000-member DAV in bringing the Field Service Unit program to this area.

Thirty-Seven Return From Europe

A group of 37 persons, most of them from Somerset County, Pa. and Garrett County left Springs, Pa., early July 1 for an eight-day church history and sightseeing tour of Europe, returning home early July 9.

Members of the group from Garrett County were, Mr and Mrs. Raymond Bender, Accident, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mast, Grantsville, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kinsinger, Grantsville; Richard Brenneman, Grantsville, Roy Beitzel, Bittinger, Sharon L. Bender, Accident; Hilda Beitzel, Bittinger and James Oester, Grantsville.

Rev. John H. Kraybill, pastor of Springs Mennonite Church planned the tour and led the group. They travelled from Springs to New York by chartered bus, from New York to Amsterdam by plane, and while they were in Europe, they had the full-time services of a multi-lingual guide, sightseeing bus, and driver. They also stayed in tourist class hotels, each night in a different city.

While in Europe they toured six countries including, the Netherlands, Germany, Switzerland, France, Luxembourg and Belgium. The group's primary interest was to visit church history sites and then general sight-seeing.

In Holland they visited the birthplace of Menno Simons, an early leader after whom the Mennonite Church was named. In Amsterdam they visited the Singel Mennonite Church, which was a hidden church during the 16th century times of persecution. In Germany they visited Weierhof, a community in the palatinate area established in 1690 by Mennonites fleeing from persecution in Switzerland. In Switzerland they visited sites in Zurich, the city where the Anabaptist Mennonite movement began during the reformation days in 1525. They also visited Switzerland's Emmental valley, the area from which came the ancestors of many Mennonites now living in the Eastern United States.

In Brussels, Belgium, they visited the Robert Otto family. Robert, son of Rev. and Mrs. Walter Otto, of Springs is serving there as director of a hostel for foreign students studying in Brussels.

While in Basel, Switzerland, the group spent an evening with Herman Bender, of Springs, who was in Europe for two weeks with his son, Dr. John Bender, and family while Dr. Bender attended a medical convention.

Maryland Receives Grant For Medical Training Of Officers

Director John W. Hoglund of the Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute, University of Maryland, recently announced the receipt of an $80,000 Maryland Department of Transportation grant for the training of law enforcement officers in basic emergency medical care.

The Emergency Care Division of the Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute will coordinate the statewide effort in cooperation with the Maryland Police and Correctional Training Commission, which is headed by Director Robert L. VanWagoner. The Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services, under Dr. R. Adams Cowley, is the certifying agency and is cooperating with the Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute in curriculum and examination development.

The program will provide funding for one year which will be used to train 60 Crash Injury Management Instructors who will work with the Police Commission and 13 law enforcement training academies in the state. The project is also designed for the completion of 40, 40-hour Crash Injury Management programs in the first year which will train over 1,000 police officers.

The objective is to prepare the law enforcement officers, who are often "first responder" at accident scenes, to provide the basic life support to sustain the accident victims until medical assistance arrives. This type of training has resulted in a reduction in accident deaths and permanent disability in the areas of the nation where the Federal Department of Transportation has offered the program.

The intent of the Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute program is to prepare the thirteen (13) certified police academies and the more than the one hundred and nine (109) police departments in the state to be able to run their own Crash Injury Management program after the initial grant funding is exhausted.

The Crash Injury Management project will be operated by Senior Instructor Robert B. Wright who will be located in LaPlata at the Southern Maryland Regional Office of the Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute.

Other information on the project may be obtained by contacting Senior Instructor Robert B. Wright, Crash Injury Management Project, Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute, P. O. Box 813, LaPlata, Maryland 20646; or by calling (301) 934-8333, which is the Project's phone number.

Attending the pageant from Oakland were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Flowers, uncle and aunt of Donna.

Adult Center Members To See Pirate Game

The Appalachian Adult Activities Center will take a trip to Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Thursday, July 20, to see the Pirates vs. the Dodgers in major league baseball.

For most of the Activities Center participants, this will be their first trip to a professional sporting event.

The tickets for the game were given courtesy of the Pirate Baseball Club and assistance with the cost of the trip has been provided by local civic organizations.

Approximately 50 participants and chaperones will be attending this all-day event.

Jacksons Host Open House For Battalion Reunion

Col. and Mrs. J. H. Jackson held a weekend open house for a reunion of the U. S. Army 160th Engineer Combat Battalion, which Col. Jackson commanded in Europe in 1944 and 1945.

Their unit won the Presidential Unit Citation for heroic action at Echternach, Luxembourg, where 480 boats were lost in an assault of the Sauer River and the Siefried line.

The battalion conducted 20 assault crossings of rivers and built 47 bridges, including the longest tactical bridge built in modern warfare. The bridge was 1,896 feet long, and was constructed under fire in 21 hours over the Rhine at Mainz, Germany.

Festivites over the weekend included a dinner at the Will o' the Wisp on Saturday evening and a picnic on Sunday afternoon at the Jackson home.

Members came from Massachusetts, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Texas, Connecticut, Ohio, New Jersey, New York, Delaware, Florida, Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 102 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD. WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1978 | PER COPY 20c | NUMBER 23

People Helping People...

There was a time when mentally retarded individuals were thought to be possessed by demons. Many of them were kept in cages. Many were destroyed. Animals were given better care.

Fortunately, with the widening of our knowledge of science, we discovered that mental retardation is nothing more than a physical malfunction due to any number of causes, which usually occur during prenatal life. Most people now realize that these individuals are truly human and deserve to be treated as such. A few have found them to be, indeed, some of the warmest people around.

This week's issue of The Republican carries a feature (page 19) which covers a most heartwarming example of people working with people — the Outdoor Education Program for Special Education Students.

Many gifted, dedicated and generous people donated their time and talents last week at Camp Hickory to help brighten the lives of 49 special education students. Several of these young people will probably remember that week of fun for the rest of their days.

We take this opportunity to thank those directors, counselors and teachers who went out of their way to help these special persons. We say that they did it all for nothing, at least in monetary terms. However, the laughs, the smiles and the hugs from these beautiful young people must be a tremendous reward.

More people should spend a greater amount of their time working for this kind of reward rather than for a job promotion or a pay raise. It is a far superior reward, but more importantly, it is the Christian thing to do.

Mills Convicted Of First Degree Murder Friday

A Mineral County Circuit Court jury Friday returned a verdict of first degree murder with no recommendation for mercy in the trial of David B. Mills, accused of the shooting of Mrs. Ida Mae Cooper of Davis, W. Va., in January.

The verdict carries a life sentence with no opportunity for parole.

The panel began its deliberations at 9 a.m. Friday and returned the most severe possible verdict 7½ hours later. The jury heard closing statements and the court's instructions late Thursday.

William B. White, jury foreman, said jurors felt their verdict would be doing Mills a favor. "He's a follower, not a leader, and he's had the wrong kind of leadership," he commented.

White also said some jurors thought if Mills was given only a few years in prison he would come out after being paroled with no friends and no one to turn to and "most likely would re-enter a life of crime."

Tucker County Prosecuting Attorney J. Pat Nichols said he plans "without question" to try Mills on either kidnapping or armed robbery charges in connection with the January 25 incident. Judge Donald Hott, who presided over the three-day trial, indicated that the trial could come in late September.

Fred Hamilton, reportedly the perpetrator of the plot to kidnap Mrs. Cooper, faces charged of being an accessory before the fact in the Cooper murder. Hamilton is presently awaiting trial for the shooting death of Trooper Bruce Brown of the West Virginia state police.

No date has been set for sentencing, but motions from Mills' attorneys for a new trial will be heard August 17.

Defense attorneys had contended that Hamilton "brainwashed and mesmerized" Mills when the two were inmates in the Tucker County jail last winter. Mills also testified Hamilton supplied him with a form of LSD.

Chessie Employe Dies When Struck By Runaway Train

A Chessie System employe was killed shortly after noon Wednesday when he was struck by a runaway locomotive from Mettiki Coal plant.

The victim was identified as Ira Junior Vance, 54, of First Street, Elkins, W. Va. He was pronounced dead at the scene from massive head and arm injuries by Garrett County's deputy medical examiner, Dr. James H. Feaster.

According to Tfc. C. H. Hinnant, who investigated for the Maryland State Police a factory representative from Johnson Railway Service, Inc., Clarksville, Georgia, was instructing Mettiki employes on the operation of a locomotive at the Table Rock plant site. The group left the area temporarily and upon their return, they discovered the locomotive's air brakes had released and the engine had drifted away.

About 12:55 approximately one mile south of the Mettiki plant and one-half mile from Wilson-Corona road, Mr. Vance was working on the tracks and apparently failed to observe the rapidly approaching locomotive. The engine struck the man and then continued south for approximately two miles before it derailed on a curve near Bayard. The locomotive, valued at $215,000, was a total loss.

The body of Mr. Vance was removed to the John O. Durst Funeral Home in Oakland, and later taken to Elkins for burial.

Nation's Yule Tree To Be Cut From Savage Forest

A 65-foot Norway Spruce which has been growing on Keyser Ridge in the Savage River State Forest since 1939 will be moving to Washington, D. C. in December for use as the national Christmas tree for 1978.

This is the first time in history Maryland will be providing the national tree, which is to be displayed on the White House lawn.

The tree was planted by Resettlement Administration workers in 1939, and was selected from several acceptable candidates in the Garrett County area.

Maryland Forest Service deputy director Tunis Lyon and National Architect Paul Pincus made the selection, and the Forest Service will remove the tree and deliver it to the White House.

MDA Schedules Ginseng Season

Marylanders who gather wild ginseng roots are to receive a helping hand from the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Division of Plant Industries.

MDA has established a simple permit and season system to govern the wild ginseng gathering trade in Maryland, giving those who gather the herbal roots in this state a chance to sell their harvest on the export market.

Need for such a permit and season system has been brought about by a policy of the U. S. Department of Interior which requires all wild ginseng root sold for export to be certified as to its state or origin.

Therefore, unless Maryland established such regulations, ginseng gatherers in this state would not be able to tap into the export trade which is regarded as the prime outlet for the herb, a highly regarded commodity in Asia.

The Maryland season for ginseng gathering will run from August 15 through December 1. Those who gather the roots are required to secure a one-year permit costing $2 from MDA's Division of Plant Industries.

Those who wish to apply for a permit should write Plant Protection Section, Maryland Department of Agriculture, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

It is believed Marylanders harvested $70,000 worth of the ginseng roots last year.

COMMUNICATION GAP — One problem Clara Fitzwater, left, may have faced in a real medical emergency, would be to explain to this young "injured" child what a sphygmomanometer is. Actually, it is a blood pressure gauge she is preparing to use, one of many medical apparatus used by trained emergency medical technicians or EMT's during the mock disaster drill held Sunday on the Hoyes-Sang Run Road. Deputies Check Minor Incidents Garrett County's sheriff's department members investigated several minor incidents during the past week, including the larceny of a battery from a parked farm truck.

Sometime between July 20 and 21, someone cut the cables and removed the battery from a truck belonging to Dale Evans. The truck was parked in a field near Frick's Crossing not far from Deer Park when the incident occurred. Loss value was estimated at $114.

Will Kerns, Box 45, Oakland, told the deputies that someone had broken out a window at his home during the afternoon of July 29. Items missing from the house included a bottle of whiskey and some change.

Whoever entered the home of Henry Wagner during the day July 27 took only cigarettes, and left such valuables as a camera untouched. A window had been removed from the front door to gain entry.

A young bicycle rider was struck at the west end of Shallmar July 29, but was not seriously injured. According to the police report, the child, who was staying in the home of Raymond Sherwood, was riding a bicycle in the roadway. A car operated by Andrew Bruckey struck the child despite the operator's attempt to stop the vehicle. No charges were filed.

One man may be charged with assault following an altercation July 27 at a strip mine site off Squire Fike Road, in the Friendsville area. Robert White, operator of a bulldozer owned by the E. M. Henckel Coal Company, told the deputies that he was operating the piece of equipment when three men drove up. An argument ensued, concerning the condition of the dozer, and one of the men allegedly assaulted White. White's supervisor later told him that the man who was involved was affiliated with the coal company. No charges have been filed as yet in the incident.

Potential Jurors To Receive Letters

BALTIMORE (UPI) — letters have been sent to 1,005 Maryland residents informing them that they may be asked to be on federal juries during the September term of the U.S. District Court.

U.S. District Judge Frank Kaufman began the selection process last week when he randomly chose the prospective jurors from a list of Maryland registered voters.

The jurors are needed for two special grand juries, the 23-member regular grand jury and various trial juries.

Many Celebrate Special Mass At St. Peter's

A number of former parishoners, many present church members and those from other denominations of the area participated in the special Mass Sunday afternoon at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland.

Archbishop William D. Borders of Baltimore was the main celebrant of the Mass, assisted by Rev. Regis F. Larkin, Cumberland, former pastor, who delivered the homily; Rev. Frederick H. Other clergy in the congregation were Rev. Manning Smith, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, and a representation from the Holy Cross House, Deep Creek Lake.

Others present at the Altar were Theodore Sweitzer, master of ceremonies, and Steve Klende as altar boy.

Reading the Scriptures were Jane Nolan, Clarence Stem and Robert E. Lee. Presenting the gifts at the offertory were John R. Members of the Chief Justice Taney Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, acted as color corps.

Some former members and families from out of town were Ceciha, Virginia and Harris Duke, Baltimore, sisters and brother of Father Duke; Sister Philomena Faherty, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. David Brindle, Morgantown, W. Va.; Arthur Wolf, who teaches at a school for the deaf in Newark, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mosser, Frederick; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Michael, Rockville; Kathy, Margaret and Stephanie Mance, all of Washington, D.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mance, Lewisburg, W. Va., and others whose names were not available.

Also present were Bernard I. Gonder, who, along with the late Robert B. Garrett, was the first incorporator of the parish, serving for 15 years, William Eggers, the first boy, and Mrs. Katheryn (Foley) Harvey, the first girl baptized in the present church.

Over 200 were present at the Mass.

A buffet and reception followed in the church social center. On display were a number of former church items including Altar Cards and the old Sanctuary Lamp, assembled by Ted Sweitzer. About 175 attended the reception.

The occasion was the 75th anniversary of the dedication of the present church building and the 175th (plus one) anniversary of the founding of the parish.

Preparations were made by various committees of the parish council.

A history of the church in Garrett County is in preparation and should be available soon.

Board Indicates Continued Interest In Water Project

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners made it clear at Monday's meeting it is still interested in continuing as one of the sponsors of the Upper Casselman River watershed project despite a delay in responding to a letter received in May.

A. Gerald Arthur, county engineer, wrote that John Reckner of the Garrett County Soil Conservation office had written the Allegany County Commissioners and the Allegany County Sanitary Commission May 17 requesting comments concerning their interest in the Upper Casselman River watershed. Reckner informed the county engineer he had received no response from either letter.

Piney Creek, in northeastern Garrett County, is the source of Frostburg's water supply and is in the Upper Casselman watershed. For several years the Commissioners from Allegany County have been investigating the possibilities of constructing a larger dam on Piney Creek so the additional water might serve communities in George's Creek as well as Frostburg.

Commissioner Arthur T. Bond made the motion to notify the Garrett County Soil Conservation office if the county commissioners want to continue as a sponsor of the watershed project.

William Nace, a retired Soil Conservation Service employe, serves as acting chairman of the Upper Casselman River watershed steering committee.

Blue Cross, Blue Shield Subscribers To Receive Refund

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Maryland said Monday subscribers will begin receiving refunds this fall totaling $15 million with the average refund estimated at $20.

The companies said about 1.2 million group and non-group members will benefit from the refund ordered July 15 by state Insurance Commissioner Edward Birrane. They said the refunds will range from $4 to $46.

Birrane ordered the refund from the non-profit health insurance companies' $23.2 million surplus for 1977. The remainder of the surplus, $8.2 million, will be put into emergency reserves.

About $2 million of the surplus will be refunded through one-time credits on the October, November or December bills of 240,000 individual subscribers.

The companies said $13 million will be returned to local rated groups in checks — $10.75 million from Blue Cross and $2.25 million from Blue Shield.

Non-group subscribers will receive refunds of $1.75 million from Blue Cross and $250,000 from Blue Shield.

The company said about 950,000 group members or their employers will receive refunds in checks, based on each group's contributions to the insurance companies' 1977 earnings.

Blue Cross President Thomas Sherlock said group refund checks would be mailed in November.

The presidents of the two companies said the refunds were made possible because of the increases in the respective reserve funds of the corporations in 1977.

They said the reserves have increased because of a savings generated by a drop in inpatient hospital use by its members and a moderation of increases in hospital costs and the use of medical services.

Department Begins Energy Programs

The Maryland State Department of Education has begun two programs designed to reduce energy consumption in the schools and increase the awareness among students, teachers and parents of the need for energy conservation.

Energy evaluations of selected schools are being supported by a $25,000 grant of federal funds from the Maryland Energy Policy Office. Purpose of this program is to improve the energy efficiency of school buildings by identifying practices and structural characteristics that result in energy waste.

An energy education program will be launched this fall under a $50,000 federal grant from the Energy Policy Office. The State Department of Education will provide assistance to local school systems in the form of training, curriculum materials and small grants for energy education in grades kindergarten through 12. A main focus will be on helping science and social studies teachers to work together in making issues of energy use a part of the school curriculum.

The education department will also assist in conducting seminars on energy conservation for community groups.

Dear Sir:

As anyone who follows Garrett Community College athletics is aware, a major change has occurred within the GCC athletic department. Two winning coaches have recently resigned, one to retire from coaching, and one to coach at a four-year institution. Along with the resignations of coaches Denny Fearnow and Paul Holzshu have come the furor over the out-of-state student tuition and a flurry of misunderstandings. It is time we cleared the muddied waters to give credit to two outstanding men who have given Garrett County something to be proud of.

It is not just the win-loss records compiled by Coach Fearnow's baseball teams and Coach Holzshu s basketball teams over the past year — though they are impressive. It is not merely that their dedication enabled Garrett, the smallest community college in Maryland, to play and win, in the big league of intercollegiate competition. Nor is it just that they gave all of us many exciting moments as we watched their teams compete, always knowing that — win or lose — we would be proud of their performance.

What they have given to GCC has to do with the character of being "first class." These coaches instilled in many young men those nebulous qualities of sportsmanship, discipline, respect, and pride, so that wherever they played, they represented Garrett Community College with honor.

Coaches Fearnow and Holzshu also demanded high standards of academic performance of their student athletes. This made the job a little easier for those of us who teach academic courses. Many young men who otherwise might have been denied the opportunity were brought to Garrett by these coaches and encouraged to pursue an education.

As Dennis Fearnow leaves the ranks of intercollegiate coaching, and Paul Holzshu becomes head basketball coach at West Liberty State College, we wish them both well and we say "thank you" for giving us something to cheer about.

Sincerely yours,
Joan B. Crawford,
Chairman, Academic Council

Dear Mr. Sincell,

The article on the county animal shelter could not have been more timely. And how many tunes does one see a big problem brought to light in a report and a solution given at the same time! Not very often, but it has happened in this case. Dogs that are adopted from the pound often come up with severe health problems, most often distemper.

The County Commissioners and Garrett Community College with its staff deserve to be congratulated on their combined effort to solve the county animal shelter's major shortcomings. The program as outlined in last week's article will provide many opportunities to improve the facility and provide a much better service to the county.

Jim Willis also deserves to be congratulated. The article was not only timely, but also well researched and well written. I would also have to extend the congratulations to include his weekly "Pet Pointers" entry. This column provides valuable information to the present and potential pet owner. I have had many clients ask indepth and important questions about the care of their pets because of something they have read in Jim's articles.

So, to Jim, the County Commissioners, and Garrett Community College I can only say thank you and keep up the good work.

Sincerely,
James Fearer, D.V.M.

Dear Mr. Editor:

In the last few months you have expanded and made numerous changes in our newspaper and we thank you. The Republican newspaper has served this county well for many years and we wish it continued success, even to the point of looking toward the future when this county can support a daily newspaper. It is satisfying to note that you are alert to the changes in our needs and are supplying them.

May I be so bold as to suggest further changes?

First, it is thought that you might discontinue to print all names of traffic violators. This weekly list now amounts to about a hundred, takes considerable space, satisfies only the hunger of those who have a peculiar appetite. It also labels our newspaper as a weekly and we wish to project our newspaper as "big time".

Second is our annual rattlesnake story. We admit to the fact that such varmints exist in our county and that years ago we proudly swapped rattlesnake stories, but times have changed. Yes it is news, but it now should be buried in back pages without numerous and large photographs.

Best of luck to you and our newspaper.

Sincerely,
Phil Garman

Dear Mr. Garman,

Unfortunately traffic violations have been on a rapid increase. However, traffic violators who read their names in print may not be as apt to repeat the offense. It is our hope that by listing the violators and their offenses, we may play a small part in alleviating the problem.

Secondly, The Republican is a rural newspaper and it is a weekly. It has always been the policy of this newspaper to please our readers. Therefore, our scope, which includes such columns as book and movie reviews for the more cosmopolitan reader, also includes "rattlesnake stories," which may interest our rural readers.

We're proud of our county which combines many country amenities and city conveniences. But if you're looking for the "big time," you might try Hollywood.

Editor

P.S. We certainly do appreciate your compliments and your feedback, whether positive or negative.

Dear Editor:

I seldom write to The Republican, but in this case feel I must concerning the proposed animal shelter addition and improvements. These are all well and good, but everyone I've talked to over the past week feels it would be so much better to take part of that $39,000 plus and devote it to a low cost spaying clinic for Garrett County animals. This would do away with a lot of the need for extra space, time, food, care, etc. as those extra dogs and cats wouldn't be born to begin with. I have 2 animals myself and would be first in line to have them spayed at a reduced costs, as I cannot afford the full price as charged. Perhaps a deal could be worked out with a local veterinarian to do this service at a nominal fee to benefit the entire county population and our excess animal population.

Also, I feel that the plan to charge $20-$25 per animal to be adopted is going to serve as a death sentence to nearly all the excess animals housed at the shelter. As the economy is poor to begin with, people just won't pay that amount of money for a pet that isn't pedigreed. It shouldn't be that way, but I feel you will find that it's a fact of life. Please, somebody, reconsider.

Sincerely,
A poor animal lover

Dear Animal Lover:

We appreciate your letter — public response to this problem is welcome by all concerned.

First of all, a low cost spaying clinic would be a welcome addition to Garrett County. Perhaps if interested persons such as yourself contacted the proper channels this could be realized.

In regards to the $20-$25 adoption fee — haven't animals at the county shelter always been committed to a "death sentence"? Adoption rates are under 10% and the public has been hesitant to adopt pets that were most likely exposed to distemper or other viruses.

Many responsible pet owners make sure their pets are wormed, innoculated and spayed or neutered. The total cost of this is usually in excess of $40; therefore, $25 seems a small price to pay for a healthy pet — and a lifetime of companionship and love.

Jim Willis

Editor, "The Republican"

If more was needed to convince our voters that we desperately need a new Board of County Commissioners, recent items in last week's news should do the trick.

They have had buses running empty for four years. People didn't ride them. Now they are spending $50,000.00 to study need for public transportation in the county. Their planners will likely recommend, and the people might be saddled with another program that will add millions to the amounts already wasted. Yet, nobody but the planners will benefit, and our taxpayers will be the losers.

Another boondoggle was announced. The State will make a Grant of $1,600,000 for a Day Use Center at Deep Creek.

Under a Bill by Delegate Bolden, $346,000 will be spent for the restoration of the old Casselman stone bridge at Grantsville. I am informed that by this method Bolden hoped to keep Commissioner Edwards from becoming a candidate for the House of Delegates. This is a lot of money to be spent at a time when public money ought to be conserved. Garrett County officials have not learned anything from proposition 13 in California.

Surely, our taxpayers have seen enough. Our Courthouse is a total wreck. Our good solid jail is demolished. Our taxes are still going up. We have a debt of $300,000 for money borrowed to establish a so called factory at Accident that employs four to eight people.

Our Representatives enacted a law that was designed to rob our people of their constitutional property rights. We need not only a new Board of Commissioners. We need new representation in Annapolis. Luckily, we have candidates for all these offices that will afford us a chance to choose.

Sincerely,
Clifford Friend
Accident, Md.

Dear Mr. Friend,

In checking some of your allegations, we discovered that the $50,000 is being spent by the Federal government, not by the county commissioners. The program involves a major project which will study the entire highway system as it relates to the economy of our county. The county buses have little or nothing to do with this particular $50,000.

H.V. Test Systems, which we feel is a significant asset to our county, now employs 23 persons, not four to eight. "We" (meaning Garrett County) do not "have a debt of $300,000" due to H.V. Test Systems. This money was borrowed from both Garrett County banks, by H.V. Test Systems, through the Garrett County Development Corporation. The reason the money was borrowed through the Development Corporation was because a lower interest rate could be acquired. H.V. Test is paying off that loan on a regular schedule, just as any business or individual pays off a loan.

We also question the possible use of hearsay against Delegate Bolden.

Deer Park Ice Cream Social Is "Very Successful"

The Deer Park Civic Association held its second annual ice cream social Saturday, July 29, in the town park. A total of $943 was realized from the sales of homemade ice cream, cakes, coffee and hot dogs.

According to Sharon King, president, approximately half of that amount will be profit, and will be used to finance such association projects as the purchase of benches for the park area.

Musical entertainment was provided by several area groups.

Ms. King noted that this was an outstanding accomplishment for an organization just over one year old, and stated her appreciation on behalf of the Association to all those who helped make the social successful, including those who donated baked goods, bought drawing tickets, or supplied entertainment.

"First National? . . . sending a clown to the Fair? You've got to be kidding!"

It may sound silly to you that we would have our staff clown represent the bank at the Fair. After all, aren't bankers supposed to act dignified, proper and somewhat reserved?

Well, this year we've decided to change that, by appealing to the younger folks at the Fair. And, why shouldn't we? Kids are people, too! They are very important to our bank's growth. Those small savings accounts can blossom into big accounts in almost no time.

But you can't get a kid's attention by wearing a gray flannel suit. And you can't make a kid happy by giving him a fancy piece of literature, or a long list of banking services. That's why we're using the clown. We think the best way to get kids interested in banking is to make banking interesting to kids! And we encourage kids of all ages to bank with us. We'd like to be your financial friend . . . no matter how young you are.

Steny Hoyer Speaks To County Residents Friday At Country Club

OAKLAND, MD. (UPI) — Senate President Steny Hoyer told a Garrett County audience Thursday that he and acting Gov. Blair Lee III plan to get the Western Maryland vote in the gubernatorial race by "being there and asking for it."

Hoyer, who is Lee's running mate in the Democratic gubernatorial primary, told about 35 people at the Oakland Country Club that he and Lee will spend time in Western Maryland.

"We hope to get the Western Maryland vote by being there and asking for it," he said.

"That may sound overly simplistic, but people have to know they have access to you. The people also know Blair Lee is a good governor.

"He's had 20 years experience in public office and is a solid public official," Hoyer said. "I think we complement each other — his experience is in executive government and mine is in the legislature."

County Commissioner Wayne Hamilton endorsed the Lee-Hoyer ticket at the county club meeting.

Hoyer conceded that Maryland has had some problems and mentioned the convictions of former Gov. and Vice President Spiro Agnew and suspended Gov. Marvin Mandel.

"Bu 1 think Blair Lee is trying to change that with an open, efficient, effective approach," he said.

He said Western Maryland's problems include the cost of energy, economic development and unemployment.

Hoyers said Lee has put forth an economic plan for a more vigorous policy to entice industry to Maryland, with fair taxation and a more friendly approach to business.

He said Lee also asked him to head a council responsible for economic development.

"We already have a high retention of exisiting business," Hoyer said. "Emphasis now must be placed on the private sector, not the public sector.

Hoyer said the recent legislation lowering air pollution standards showed big business that the state does not want to restrict industrial development.

On another issue, Hoyer said Maryland taxes may be headed towards a Proposition 13-type restructuring.

Although he opposes absolute tax limits similar to those in California's Proposition 13, Hoyer said, "I'd like to see government show some fiscal restraint."

He said the 1978 General Assembly was one of the most successful in providing direct property tax relief.

"In fact, 97 percent of the residents in Prince George's County received a tax cut," Hoyer said.

Chestnut Blight Research Funds Are Appropriated

Funding proposed by Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D) of West Virginia for research on the American chestnut blight problem was appropriated recently to a U. S. Forest Service research facility in Morgantown, W. Va.

Researchers with the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station will coordinate studies of this common tree disease with scientists from West Virginia University, Concord College, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute (VPI) in Blacksburg, Va. Forest Service researchers at the Southeastern Forest Experiment Station in Asheville, N. C. will also participate.

A phenomenon called "hypovirulence," first observed in France in the 1960s, will be the main target for research. In nature, some chestnut blight cankers are healed by hpyovirulent (H) or weak, strains of chestnut blight. Dr. F. Bryan Clark, director of the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station, said that "Though hope is slim, hpyovirulence is a possible new solution to the chestnut blight problem, and we'll continue to try."

Several approaches will be used. At West Virginia University's Division of Plant Sciences, scientists will evaluate natural methods for spreading these weak strains. They will also observe the interaction of different strains of chestnut blight.

Scientists at Concord College's Natural Sciences Department and VPIs Plant Pathology Department will test (H) strains for their effect on chestnut blight in blight resistant and susceptible trees. They will also study changes in the wood tissue of cankers.

Forest Service researchers in North Carolina will examine the variations in strength among different strains of the disease. They will pair strong and weak strains and study their effect on the growth of cankers. Also, scientists will compare the growth of individual strains of chestnut blight.

For more information on chestnut blight research contact Clay Smith, Timber and Watershed Laboratory, P. O. Box 445, Nursery Bottom, Parsons, W. Va. 26287, Phone (304) 478-2000.

Included in the program will be contests, prizes, and classes in music and crafts. All students present on Monday night, August 14, will be eligible to enter a coloring contest.

The commencement service will include class presentations and awards, as well as feature-length film, "Through Gates of Splendor," the true story of five missionaries killed by Aucas in the jungles of South America.

Life Care Contracts Hearing To Be Held

The Maryland Office on Aging will hold a hearing on "life care contracts" on Wednesday, August 9, at Essex Community College in the Lecture Hall of the Administration Building from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., according to an announcement today by Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive public opinion regarding life care contracts, an arrangement which offers the elderly total care in exchange for entrance and monthly fees. Since this type of care for the elderly is presently unregulated in Maryland, legislation was introduced in the 1978 General Assembly addressing the question of "life care." It was found by the legislators that the subject was so complex that further study was warranted and the bill was referred to the State Office on Aging for a detailed study of all aspects of the life care contract question. A special committee was formed by the Office earlier this year to consider the issue and prepare potential legislation for the development and regulation of life care communities.

"We welcome this opportunity to increase the security of many people who desire this type of living," said Dr. Tayback. "Consumer education and legislative regulation is necessary because there are significant numbers of elderly people who want life contracts. We will attempt to develop recommendations for legislation which will promote provider initiative and will at the same time provide consumer protection."

Dr. Tayback explained that a recent network television program, 60 Minutes, described two life care "retirement villages" in California and Michigan which could not meet contract conunitments. This program stirred interest in the subject and was one of the factors leading to the formation of the Office on Aging special committee.

The committee is composed of distinguished representatives of the provider industry, consumers and State government and is chaired by Jacob M. Yingling, Housing Officer for the State Office on Aging. Mr. Yingling stressed that the committee has no knowledge of any retirement villages in Maryland being in financial difficulty at present.

"Our committee was formed as a result of a mandate from the Maryland General Assembly. We will prepare a set of recommendations for Dr. Tayback's inspection and then carry these recommendations to the 1979 Maryland General Assembly for action," Mr. Yingling said. "In addition, we are open for suggestions from any individual or group to express ideas or concerns. That's why we are holding this hearing on August 9."

Some of the topics to be discussed at the hearing are: admission criteria, resident removal, contract termination, changes in fees, protection of resident accounts, use of Medicaid and Medicare by residents and rights of residents. The chairman made clear that the study committee is not limiting discussion at the hearing to these topics. Other areas and issues may be raised. Mr. Yingling noted that the full committee will be accepting testunony at the hearing on August 9.

For further information on this important meeting, please contact Mr. Yingling at the State Office on Aging, Room 1004, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201

A TRAIN RIDE

The steady clack, clack,
grind of the wheels
determinedly on the tracks as we roll past wheat fields and old shanties, clothes on the line and people on their back porches.
telephone poles,
country streams, and America
in its back yard.

YELLOW-MELLOW

The bright red sun sinking slowly behind the trees,
beyond the horizon,
yielding its dominance
of the yellow-mellow day.
The pale white moon rising slowly
out of the clouds,
to gain possession
of the inky black sky.
The stars
wink in the sky and a butterfly dances in the moonlight.

RONDA

It was an Andalusian summer, Spanish warmth and sunny days.
Sandy nights that drifted
into never-ending days.
Hazy mountains
in the distance,
tinges of purple rising now to meet the sunset golden above the little village town.

By James Burley

Q. I was sixty years old on July 1. At the present, I am living on welfare. After August 1, I will draw Social Security in the amount of $190 per month. Will I be eligible for a tax reduction?

I own my own home and live in it. I would appreciate any help you can give me.

A. The income that you received in 1977 will be the determining factor regarding your eligibility for a tax credit against your property tax that is due this year.

Any money received by you through public assistance in the form of cash grants is a part of the gross income definition and must be included as income when you apply for your property tax credit. The money that you receive through Social Security, beginning in August, will not have to be reported on your application this year. It will be reportable next year when you file.

You were sixty on July 1, and this qualifies you as a "full credit" homeowner.

Q. Will you please tell me what help might be available to me? I am a disabled retiree, age fifty-one. My gross income is $10,000, and I own my home. I would like to know my maximum tax and the determination of eligibility.

A. Although you are under sixty, you could be determined to be a "full credit" homeowner due to the fact that you are disabled. "Full credit" homeowners are those sixty and over, and those who are totally disabled.

The requirement for eligibility is that you are medically certified to be one hundred percent permanently and totally disabled. You can be so certified through an agency of the federal government, such as Social Security, or by your own local health officer. This certification must accompany your application for the tax credit.

If you are certified as permanently disabled, then you would be entitled to a full credit for all eligible taxes in excess of $310, up to a total credit of $900. This is based on your income of $10,000.

Q. Could you tell me if we are eligible under the new homeowners' property tax law?

My husband is fifty-five, had a heart attack three years ago, and is still under a doctor's care. I do not work because of arthritis. We have two children at home. Our income from his job is $9,600, plus a little interest from a bank account.

Is there any kind of a break for a family like ours on a very low income?

A. Your maximum tax liability, based upon your family income of $9,600, is $288. As you and your husband are both under sixty, you are considered "partial credit" homeowners. This means that you would be eligible for one-half of the amount of the difference between the $288 and the sum of your eligible property taxes. If, for example, the difference between these figures is $200, you would divide this in one-half ($100) to determine your tax credit.

But, on the basis of your husband's health, he might be able to be medically certified to be totally disabled. This would then qualify you as "full credit" homeowners.

Your first step should be to consult with your family physician who is able to make the competent judgment as to the extent of your husband's disability. Your next step depends upon your doctor's diagnosis.

When I applied for a tax credit under the old Circuit Breaker Program in a previous year, I was told that I did not qualify because my income was too great. Can you tell me what the limit on one's income is now under the new Homeowners' Property Tax Credit Program?

There is no limit on income that once reached automatically disqualifies a homeowner.

The limit that the tax credit program sets is on the amount of property tax a homeowner must pay. This is expressed as a percentage of income, and no property tax in excess of the amount determined by this percentage would have to be paid by a qualified homeowner up to the maximum allowable credit. The maximum credit allowed by law for those over sixty and the disabled is $900. For those under sixty, the maximum credit is $450.

The theory behind the tax credit concept is that property tax relief should commence when the property tax burden reaches a percentage of a family's income that the state feels is excessive.

The limiting rates, spelled out in the law, are 1½% of the first $4,000 of income, 3½% of the next $4,000, 5½% of the next $4,000, 7½% of the next $4,000, and 9% of any amount of income over $16,000.

Using this formula, a homeowner with an income of $4,000 would have a tax liability of $60. If the homeowner were over sixty, he would get a credit for the difference between the $60 and the actual amount of the tax bill to the maximum amount of credit of $900. If the homeowner were under sixty, he would get a credit for one-half the amount. The effective percentage of income limiting the liability is 1½% in this instance. A homeowner over sixty with an income of $16,000 would have a tax liability of $720, and the effective limiting rate would be 4½% of the $16,000 income. Any amount of tax exceeding the liability up to a maximum tax bill of $1,620 would be returned to that homeowner in the form of a credit. In other words, if his tax bill were this great, he could get a full $900 credit. A homeowner under sixty with the same income could receive a credit of one-half this amount, which, of course, is $450.

Likewise, a household with an income of $18,000 would be eligible for a credit applied against the balance of a tax that exceeded a tax liability of $900. Again, those over sixty would get a full credit and those under sixty one-half credit.

Although there is no limit on the amount of income that a homeowner may have, the tax liability increases in percentage along with the income.

One more example will further help to illustrate this point. A homeowner with an income of $2,000 will have a tax liability of $30, which is 1½% of the $2,000 income, and the credit will be based on the difference between this limit and the actual tax bill. A homeowner having an income of $24,000, on the other hand, will have a tax liability of $1,410, which is 6% of this homeowner's income.

Even a family with a combined income of $30,000 could be eligible for a tax credit if the property tax exceeded $1,980, the limiting rate being 6.6% of the income.

Questions or letters of general interest on assessments and the property tax should be addressed to Assessment Answers—James Burley' in care of this newspaper. They will be answered through this column to the extent that space allows.

A Four Year Sentence Is Given To One

One man was given a four-year sentence last Thursday by Judge Fred A. Thayer. Another person received a suspended sentence.

Andrew Charles Snyder, RD 1, Oakland, was sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for four years, with sentence to begin as of February 27, 1978. Snyder pleaded guilty to charges of storehouse breaking and larceny at a trial May 31. At that time Judge Thayer ordered a presentence investigation. The charges involved an incident in Oakland in January.

Elwood Elmo Sweitzer, Aurora, W. Va., received a three-year suspended sentence and was placed on probation for three years under supervision. Sweitzer pleaded guilty to amended information on larceny after trust at a trial May 31. A charge of embezzlement was dismissed at the trial. A presentence investigation was ordered at the same time. He was fined $200 and ordered to make restitution when determined.

During a lifetime the average human heart beats 2½ billion times.

Rains Hinder Area Stock Car Races

Stock car racing in the tri-state area was considerably hindered by rains during the past week.

On Wednesday, July 30, Frank Lewis started seventh in the heat race and finished fourth. He then started 17th in the 50-lap invitational feature and moved up to 15th place by checkered flag time.

On Friday night at Elkins Speedway, Frank's car came in fourth in the feature.

Rain stopped the races before all the heats were run Saturday at Morgantown. Randy McCartney started first in his heat and finished first. Bob Hershman's car came in third in the heat, just before heavy rains cancelled the remainder of the running.

BRUSSELS, BELGIUM (UPI) — From 1973-76, Emiel Puttemans of Belgium recorded seven track performances that still stand as the "world indoor bests" in the 2,000-meters, 3,000-meters, 2-mile, 3-mile, 5,000-meters, 6-mile and 10,000-meters.

Low gross winners were Janice Welch with 93 and Diane Cogley, 99. Pat Filsinger was a member of the first place team and scored a 56 while Helen McHenry and June Bray were on the second place team, finishing with a 64.

The Association will hold its regular business meeting at 9 a.m. Thursday, August 3 followed by a "Captain's Choice."

Pete's Tournament has been rescheduled for August 23 and 24 while the Fall Tournament will begin August 3. Three rounds must be played by August 31.

A nine-hole Scotch Foursome is scheduled for 5:30, August 3.

Rally In Seventh Defeats Grantsville

A three-run seventh inning was the decisive factor in Fort Cumberland's 3-0 victory over Grantsville July 26 at Donahue Field.

Ken Klosterman began the inning by drawing a walk, as did Pat Cunningham. Kevin Carcella singled to score Klosterman with what proved to be enough for the win and on the throw to the plate, both baserunners moved up.

Cunningham then scored the second run on an error, and Todd Eirich followed with his base hit that plated Carcella.

Lawrence Nesselrodt had Grantsville's only extra-base hit, a double. Charles Rapp, who relieved starter Randy Edwards in the fifth inning earned credit for the win over Joey DiSimone.

Even Year Graduates Defeat Odd Year In First Alumni Contest

A 67-yard touchdown from Rich Skipper to his brother Bill with two minutes and thirty-two seconds left in the game gave the Even Year Graduates a 6-0 win over the Odd Year Grads in the first Southern High School Alumni Football Game held Saturday night on the Southern field.

Bringing back memories of their high school days, many of Southern's best gridders battled out a defensive-dominated game. The Even team blocked two Jim Ashby punts in the second quarter, only to be stopped twice inside the ten on a Harold Cannon fumble and an interception by Rich Skeweris.

The only offensive weapon the Odds had against the much bigger and younger Even squad was the punting of Rich Ringer who had boots of 37, 44 and 63 yards. Two field goal attempts were missed by the Odd team, one a Rich Skeweris 36-yard kick that struck the crossbar.

Primarily an on-the-ground game, the Even team passed only twice in the first half, but won the game on the Skipper third down completion.

Defensive standouts for the Odd team were Jim Livengood, Eric Cvetnick and Dave Upole while Jeff "Smiley" Friend, Rick Shaffer and Rich Orr were stalwarts defensively for the Evens. Key offensive players and those receiving most of the passes in the second half were Skipper, as well as Charhe Shahan and Denny Skeweris.

Following the game, Mrs. Betty Friend presented a plaque in memory of her son, Bill Ravenscroft, to the Even team. The game was dedicated to Ravenscroft, who was killed in an auto accident last month. Members of the Even team, who would have been led by Ravenscroft, wore black armbands in his memory.

For a game played by many men who hadn't appeared on Southern's field for several years, the "Casualty" list was surprisingly short. Don Stemple sustained a dislocated finger while Bill Martin broke a rib and received a bruised kidney.

Bill Frost, former Southern coach, led the Even team to victory while Leroy Bolding, also a former coach, watched his team go down in defeat.

An estimated crowd of 800 braved the Saturday night drizzle to watch the first of possibly many more alumni games.

Cards Given To Parking Offenders

"Hi, friend," the card reads. "We didn't know about your handicap. Surely you have one — you parked in a space reserved for handicapped people. (Sorry, ingnorance and insensitivity do not qualify as a handicap)."

From now on people all over Maryland who park their cars in spaces reserved for the handicapped will be finding cards bearing that message on their windshields. The State Department of Education is distributing 100,000 of the cards to dozens of handicapped-advocate organizations and all have permission to use them.

Able bodied people are using parking spaces reserved for the handicapped at shopping centers, public buildings, and other public palces, even though it is unlawful," siad Dr. Linda Jacobs, assistant state superintendent for special education. "We think it is an important enough issue to provoke this action — to shame them into more compassionate parking habits."

Local Rescue Squads, Fire Companies Function Smoothly In Realistic Drill

KEEPING SCORE — Roy Keling, an evaluator from Frostburg and a CRT, peers through the bus window, observing emergency treatment processes during the mock disaster drill. A total of 22 "victims" participated in the drill on the Heise property bordering the Hoyes-Sang Run Road. Two other simulated accidents were conducted simultaneously; in one the Frostburg Ambulance Service was required to attend a mock motorcycle accident in the Cove area; in another the Terra Alta Emergency Medical Squad treated and transported victims at a staged car accident near Crellin. The Maryland State Police assisted in traffic control at the accident sites.

WAITING HIS TURN — A young victim quietly oversees the doings of the emergency medical staff. He's probably thankful it was only a mock disaster; in fact, his only worry could be his mother's reaction to several severe lacerations of his t-shirt.

GETTING A LEG UP — Mary Ellen Lichty, right, an RN and EMT for the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad assembles a stretcher to bear away the injured. Trained EMT's expertly treated mock fractures, heart attack victims, head and facial injuries, severe bleeding, and flail chest to name a few. The "injuries" were the handiwork of several volunteer cosmetologists. The drill exemplifed tremendous cooperation between Northern and Southern Rescue Squads and the Deep Creek Lake Fire Department.

SEA OF ORGANIZED CONFUSION — The interior of the "wrecked" bus was not a pleasant sight. The convincing cosmetology and award-winning performances of the victims contributed to the realism. The bus was "driven" by Charlie Grubb of Oakland and the vehicle was donated and transported by Junior Hartman. After victims were delivered to the hospital, the cooperation of Garrett Memorial's administration and staff made the completion of the drill quick and effective.

ALL TRUSSED UP AND NOWHERE TO GO — A young victim submits to being bound to a full back board. Robert Sincell, right, EMT for Southern Rescue Squad, examines the patient while Jerry Humberson, left, of Southern Rescue Squad completes the emergency procedures.

WHAT IN THE WORLD IS "TRIAGE" — Triage is a method used by medical personnel to "sort" injured persons according to the seriousness of their wounds. Victims were classified on an A-F alphabetical scale in order of life-threatening injuries and were tagged for identification. The more critically injured victims were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. At the hospital site, Dave Ramsey, area coordinator for EMS systems; Dr. Van Elliot, director of Cumberland Memorial Hospital's emergency department; and Judy Bobb, nursing coordinator and instructor for Maryland Institute of EMS, evaluated the EMT's and the hospital's mass disaster pre-plan.

IN GOOD HANDS — If this had been an actual mishap, those involved would have been in good hands. The two rescue squads and the Deep Creek Lake Fire Department responded with six rescue vehicles and two fire trucks. Stewart's Funeral Home donated the use of a station wagon and Southern Rescue Squad president, Frank Eberly, donated a van. The drill was triggered at 1:30 p.m. Sunday by the Garrett County Central Alarm and continued until 4 p.m. After the drill, evaluators met at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to study the results. The accident site evaluators were Jim Crabtree, EMT; Bob Rudy, Oakland Volunteer Fire Department; Dave Wade, a member of the Tri-Towns Rescue Squad and instructor; and Roy Keling, CRT and Frostburg training officer.

ANGEL OF MERCY — An attentive EMT consoles a young victim who was transported to a nearby clearing. The drill was an exercise to test the working relationship of both county rescue squads, fire departments, the central alarm system and the hospital's mass disaster pre-plan.

USING A CAN OPENER — As in an actual emergency, fire and rescue personnel had to cut access ways into the bus using air chisels and a Hurst power tool. With attention to every detail, the communications system staged simulated transports by State Police helicopters to Morgantown and Pittsburgh hospitals. One of a few negative criticisms of the drill was that rescue personnel should have used both hard hats and gloves to protect themselves from injury.

MASS TRANSPORTATION — Area EMT's were kept busy transporting the injured to clearings for further treatment and to the hospital. Communications during the drill were coordinated by Dean Savage, dispatcher with assistance from the head dispatcher Ed Livengood. The communications systems were evaluated by George Comp, Garrett County Commissioner. Wayne Hamilton was at the accident site and the hospital to observe the procedures. The exercise was scheduled by Ron Bowser of Northern Rescue and Roger DeWitt of Southern Rescue with the cooperation of the squads' presidents, Don Ringer and Frank Eberly.

The Jefferson County Chamber of Commerce announced this week that the Third Fall Mountain Heritage Arts & Crafts Festival will be held September 29-30 and October 1. This increasingly popular event will take place near Harpers Ferry, W. Va., just off U.S. Rt. 340.

This fall festival will feature over 125 skilled artisans who have been carefully screened and judged for their high quality crafts. There will be rug making, quilting, pottery throwing, wool spinning, weaving on hand looms, vegetable dyeing and much more. Visitors may also watch the craftspeople as they produce their handwrought creations.

As in the past, continuous entertainment will be provided daily and spectators are invited to picnic on the grounds. Food concessions will be provided for your convenience.

Festival hours will be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. for all three days, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Admission of $2.00 for adults includes free parking. Children 6 through 17 will be admitted for $1.00. Mrs. Marius P. Johnson, President of the Three Arts Club of Homeland has announced that there will be 40 divisions in 26 categories of needlework, knitting, weaving, and crewel in the Second Annual Baltimore Needlework Exhibition to be held at the Three Arts Club in September.

Mrs. Johnson also announced that Mrs. Thomas J. Piazza and Mrs. E. Sherwood Dickinson have been named Co-Chairpersons of the Exhibition, with Mr. John I. Kohler, II, serving as the Director

The exhibition will feature quilts, crewel embroidery, canvaswork of all kinds, counted threadwork, pillows and pictures in all mediums, furniture, rugs, wearing apparel, knitting, crochet work, weaving, and special sections devoted to the work of Juniors and Men.

There also will be special sections of the Club set aside which will feature decorator rooms by several of the leading Interior Designers of Baltimore, as well as a special section for the exhibition of doll house furniture with special emphasis on needlework and weaving used in the creation of miniature rooms.

In addition, the exhibition will have a section of stitchery by leading figures in the worlds of art and the threatre, as well as work from several foreign countries. Mrs. Johnson pointed out that even though the Club was founded almost fifty years ago to foster an appreciation of the worlds of art, music and literature, this new kind of outreach to the community was very much in keeping with the spirit for which the Three Arts Club of Homeland was founded.

Briner Memorial Scholarship Fund Set Up At GCC

A special Charles L. Briner Memorial Scholarship Fund was initiated recently at Garrett Community College, according to Dr. Donald L. Ruhl, College President. Charles L. Briner, who died in August 1976, was the former local Employment Security Office Manager, and was prominent in Garrett County civic and business activities.

This memorial fund provides for an annual award of $600 to be given to a returning full-time sophomore student in a business major, who has earned the highest grade point average in his or her freshman year at GCC. The first award of $300 will be made in and for the Spring Semester, 1979. Thereafter, the award will be made annually in the Fall Semesters. Only Garrett County students will be eligible.

The Charles L. Briner Memorial Scholarship will be open to contributions by anyone wishing to do so. Donations may be made to Garrett Community College identifying this scholarship.

Cold Virus Can Affect The Heart

Summer colds are a headache. They can also affect the heart.

Viruses that cause upper respiratory infections and trigger sniffles and coughs can damage the heart, especially if the person is very active during the period of infection, according to the American Lung Association.

"Untold numbers of people are developing heart disease by not taking care of the 'simple' cold," says Dr. George E. Burch, professor emeritus of medicine, Tulane University School of Medicine, New Orleans. "People know that something is happening to their skeletal muscles when they have a cold and fever — they can feel it. Something is happening to their heart muscle, too, and they had best stay physically inactive until at least two days after the disappearance of symptoms."

According to Dr. Burch, the younger person, who is most likely to continue physical exertion while suffering a cold, is especially susceptible to heart damage. And the more severe the infection, the greater the hazards.

No extensive investigations on humans have yet been attempted; and research to inflict such damage on subjects is not likely. However, investigations of hearts — of persons who have died from respiratory viral infections — frequently show this finding under the electron microscope: millions of particles resembling viruses within the heart tissue.

Monkeys injected with a cold virus consistently develop heart conditions within about four months. And rabbits develop heart damage about 35 percent of the time. But when they are subject to the virus and physical stress simultaneously, the incidence of heart damage soars to 100 percent.

Plenty of rest has been standard advice for cold sufferers. And avoiding heart damage may be one more reason to take it easy when suffering colds.

Fate Of Reporters Unknown In USSR

MOSCOW (UPI) - The Soviet Union faced a legal and diplomatic dilemma today what to do with two American reporters who defied a court order to print retractions to stories decreed libelous.

In a trial July 18, a Moscow city court ordered reporters Craig Whitney of the New York Times and Hal Piper of the Baltimore Sun to print the retractions in five days in either a Soviet or American newspaper.

Under Soviet Law, they had a 10-day grace period and the deadline did not fall until today. They were also ordered to pay more than $3,000 in court costs.

Both newspapers refused to print the retractions, though they indicated they might pay the court costs. The deadline for the payment is August 7.

No retractions appeared in any Soviet newspapers.

Whitney and Piper refused to take part in the trial and were out of the country at the tune of their convictions. Whitney returned to Moscow Sunday and Piper is due back in mid-August.

The civil suit, brought by the Soviet Television Committee, accused the reporters of slander for an article in which friends of dissidents were quoted as saying the broadcast confession of a Georgian dissident may have been faked.

In a letter, the reporters challenged the court's jurisdiction over material distributed outside the Soviet Union. It also said the charge was flawed because it listed them as defendants and not their editors and publishers, who make the final decision on story selections.

It was not clear what action, if any, the Soviet authorities might take against the two reporters.

Western diplomatic sources said the Soviet authorities "behaved stupidly" in the case and suggested they might revoke the two reporters' press credentials.

The case further strained relations between the Soviet Union and United States. The U.S. State Department called in Soviet officials in Washington to discuss the status of the Soviet Tass News Agency Bureau in San Francisco, implying U.S. officials might shut it down in retaliation.

Chance Exists For Negotiations To Resume In Egypt

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton returned to Israel today saying he feels there is a chance for the negotiations with Egypt to resume.

"I am convuiced the peace process will continue," Atherton told reporters at Ben-Gurion airport on his arrival from Egypt, where he failed to persuade the Egyptians to join another round of face-to-face talks with Israeli leaders.

He said he brought no message from Cairo to Jerusalem and would remain in Israel until the arrival of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance expected Saturday.

Atherton was scheduled to meet with Prune Minister Menachem Begin and top-ranking cabinet ministers in the afternoon.

The United States is seeking a meeting of the Israeli and Egyptian foreign and defense ministers at an American electronics station in the Sinai as the next step in the process that began with President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem in November.

But the influential newspaper Ha'aretz said it appears such a meeting will not take place. Ha'aretz said it appeared Sadat would stand by his refusal to renew the talks unless Israel commits itself to withdraw from occupied territory.

Israeli officials have said repeatedly that they will not agree to prior conditions in order to resume negotiations, although they are willing to discuss anything once the talks get going.

Atherton's failure to persuade Egypt to resume direct talks with Israel put the success of Middle East peace efforts in the lap of Vance.

Atherton, who has been in Cairo for the past five days, shuttled back to Israel after a final, futile meeting Tuesday with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ibrahim Kamel.

Sadat Sunday ruled out further direct talks with Israel until Begin agreed — in advance — that Israeli will withdraw its forces from all occupied Arab lands, a position repeatedly rejected by Jerusalem.

Attention was now focused on Vance's arrival in Israel Saturday. He will fly to Egypt Monday for talks with Sadat, probably at the Mediterranean city of Alexandria.

Sale Of U. S. Savings Bonds Is Suspended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sales of U. S. savings bonds will be suspended until Congress approves an increase in the federal debt ceiling, the Treasury Department said today.

The department said notice of the immediate suspension is being given to about 40,000 banks, corporations and other agents with authority to issue bonds.

Congress is considering legislation to raise the debt ceiling from the current record high $752 billion. Through July 28, the federal debt was estimated at $749.1 billion.

The suspension of new sales will not affect redemption of savings bonds, the department said.

The department has suspended bond sales in the past when the debt ceiling is approached. When federal spending exceeds income from taxes and other sources, the Treasury Department issues bonds, bills and notes to the public to raise the difference in cash.

For the current fiscal year, the department expects to raise more than $45 billion to pay for expenses that exceed income.

Candidate Says Beall Profited From Legislation

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Carlton G. Beall, one of four Republican candidates for governor, said rival J. Glenn Beall profited from race track legislation passed by the General Assembly 15 years ago, it was reported today.

Beall said the Cumberland race track and Cumberland Fair Association, which was then controlled by the J. Glenn Beall family, made $600,000 because of legislation that allowed tracks to transfer their racing dates to other tracks, the Baltimore Sun reported.

Beall conceded that J. Glenn Beall — the two men are not related — did not vote for the racing legislation, but said Beall, who was then in the House of Delegates, failed to follow legislative rules and enter the reason he did not vote on the measure.

J. Glenn Beall, who is also a former U.S. Senator, called the charges "ridiculous."

The Cumberland track, now defunct, sold its 12 racing days to a track in Timonium for $600,000, but J. Glenn Beall said he owned only three shares in the track at the time of the deal.

He said the money was used to make the Cumberland Fair Association into a profit-making venture. Beall inherited controlling interest of the fair association after the 1971 death of his father, former U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall Sr.

Soviet Union To Break American Record For Time In Outer Space

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, capping a series of spectacular space firsts in the past 10 months, today approached a cherished United States record as the most experienced nation in space.

As Soyuz 29 cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Ivanchenkov circle Earth in the Salyut 6 space lab, the Soviets were to break the American record of a total of 937 man-days spent in space.

The United States had consistently held and expanded the time-in-orbit record since 1965, when the successful Apollo-Skylab program got rolling.

But an American hiatus, while waiting for development of the next generation spacecraft, the Enterprise space shuttle, has allowed an increasingly active and ambitious Soviet space program to catch up.

Earlier this year a pair of Soviet cosmonauts, Georgy Grechko and Yuri Romanenko, broke the U.S. manned spaceflight endurance record of 84 days and went on to spend 96 days in orbit.

The American manned spaceflight program will remain at a complete standstill until the first flight of the revolutionary reusable Enterprise space shuttle, scheduled for late 1979.

The shuttle technologically far outstrips anything Moscow has on the drawing board — but by the time it goes into space, the Soviet Union will have milked every drop of potential out of its current space capsules and space labs.

A series of spectacular firsts chalked up in the 10 months since the Salyut 6 space lab was launched has moved the Soviets ever closer to the dream of a permanently manned orbiting space lab.

Since the Sept. 29 launch of the Salyut, 10 Soviet cosmonauts have lived and worked aboard the lab.

The Soviets have carried out two spacewalks, the first double-docking in space history, the first docking of an unmanned cargo capsule, the first refueling of a space lab, the longest manned orbital mission and the first spaceflights by a non-Russian and non-American.

Western scientific experts have watched with interest, and some envy, Soviet experiments to smelt and combine dissimilar metals and metallic compounds in the weightlessness of space and other experiments aimed at growing semiconductor crystals in orbit.

"After all, you could create in space a perfect hollandaise sauce which would never separate," one Western expert said. "Why not a similarly perfect metal or crystal?"

Flood Hits Texas

One of the first people to see the Uvalde flood forming was Barry Jones, a Texas A&M University employee who lives on a bluff outside the valley town. He said the daylong rain ended about mid-afternoon Tuesday. At about 8:30 p.m., the 5-foot-high wall of water struck.

"I was standing outside working in my yard and all of a sudden I heard trees cracking," Jones said. "My dog went berserk. In a matter of seconds it was 8 to 10 feet high."

"It was quiet and placid here and then whop!" Jones said. "I'm an Easterner and from here it looks like the Mississippi River."

At Bandera another wall of water swept homes off of the banks of the Medina River and the Department of Public Safety said only one road into town was still open for traffic.

Evacuations also were begun by military helicopters and private boats at Medina, 13 miles northwest of Bandera. A Bandera County sheriff's spokesman said the tiny Texas town was "completely cut off. They had about 20 inches of rain in the city."

Reports from Kerrville, located about 20 miles north of Medina on the Guadalupe River, indicated mass evacuations throughout the city.

A Uvalde police spokesman said authorities had been warned of flash flooding from the tropical storm that moved into the area from the Gulf of Mexico.

"The river bed was dry, and I had to run some people out of it at the beginning," the spokesman said. "It looked like a tidal wave coming in. It was about 100 yards wide, and about 5 feet high at first. Within a matter of seconds it was 20 feet deep."

The spokesman said the river overflowed almost immediately.

Authorities quickly called in all off-duty municipal employees to organize the evacuation. There was no official count of the number of families driven from their homes, but one police officer said he had seen about 150 families to safety.

By 11:30 p.m., the flood waters began to subside, but much of the city still lay under water up to 5 feet deep in places.

Five Firefighters Die This Morning In Brooklyn Blaze

NEW YORK (UPI) — Five firefighters were killed and one was reported missing today in the rubble of a Brooklyn supermarket that collapsed during a four-alarm blaze, officials reported.

Fire Commissioner Augustus Beekman said the six unidentified firemen were trapped when the roof of a Waldbaum's supermarket collapsed unexpectedly. The store had been under renovation, and officials believed the roof might have been weakened by the construction work.

Men from all four of the Fire Department's rescue units were frantically cutting through the brick structure in the hope of finding the last missing fireman alive.

Coney Island Hospital reported seven firefighters were being treated in the hospital's emergency room for burns and smoke inhalation, although none of the injuries appeared life-threatening.

More than 150 firemen from 30 units were fighting the blaze, which broke out at 8:40 a.m.

Gas Prices Go Up In Maryland

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Maryland gasoline prices, which hit an all-time high in July, are expected to be even higher in August.

"The prices will probably be higher yet in August, since previous patterns have shown that they reach their peak right before Labor Day and then start to decline at the end of the summer vacation period," said William Zorzi.

Zorzi, a spokesman for the Automobile Club of Maryland, said the club's survey of 100 stations showed the average price of regular gasoline peaked at 66.3 cents a gallon, no-lead at 70.4 cents a gallon and high-test at 72.2 cents a gallon.

It was the third straight month gas prices had hit a record high in Maryland.

"The price of no-lead gas, which is required in the cars of at least half of all Maryland motorists, climbed above 70 cents for the first time ever," Zorzi said Monday.

In June, the prices were 65.4 cents a gallon for regular, 69.9 cents a gallon for no-lead and 71.4 cents a gallon for high-test.

Dollar Falls To Record Low Today

TOKYO (UPI) — The dollar fell to still another record low in Tokyo and Zurich today and opened mixed on other European money markets.

With the dollar closing on the Tokyo foreign exchange market at an unprecedented 184.70 yen, Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda said he will send an emissary to the United States to discuss the deteriorating international monetary situation.

In a meeting with finance ministry adviser Michiya Matsukawa, Fukuda emphasized the need to exchange views on the issue and the yen's steep climb following last month economic summit in Bonn.

Swiss dealers said the dollar's latest plunge in Zurich was due mainly to the strengthening of the yen.

Trading in Zurich was very busy with the dollar opening at a low of 1.7130 Swiss francs against Monday's close of 1.7345, the previous low. The markets in Switzerland were closed Tuesday for a national holiday.

The dollar opened higher in Frankfurt at 2.0460 marks against 2.0370, in Brussels at 32.895 Belgian francs compared with 32.84 and in Amsterdam at 2.2090 guilders against 2.1985.

In London the pound opened today at $1.9255, down from $1.9270 at Tuesday's close.

The dollar in Paris began trading at 4.3630 French francs, down from 4.3670. In Milan it opened at 841.38 lire against 840.70 the previous day.

In London, where gold hit a record high of $207.50 an ounce Tuesday, the metal opened at $203.05. In Zurich gold opened at $202.875 an ounce.

London dealers said the bullion market remained firm but business volume was greatly reduced.

Sheila Stem, Michael Simpson Wed

Miss Sheila Ann Stem, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stem, Mt. Lake Park, and Michael Glen Simpson, also Mt. Lake Park, were united in marriage on June 17 at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland. The Rev. Fr. Martin Feild officiated, assisted by Rev. Paul Crumley, pastor of Oak Park Church of the Brethren.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her satin gown was simply fashioned with a fitted bodice, long tapered sleeves, and a flared skirt. A row of flower medallions circled the empire waistline of her gown and edged the flowing hooded cape of sheer chiffon which completed her ensemble. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and daisies.

Miss Kathy Stem served as maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Vicki Stem, also a sister of the bride, Miss Tina Mason, cousin of the groom, and Mrs. Susan Shaffer. The maid of honor wore a gown of yellow floral print crepe and the bridesmaids' gowns were of yellow satin, all styled identical to the bride's. Their colonial bouquets were yellow roses and daisies.

Eugene Holland served as best man, and the ushers were Tom Simpson, brother of the groom, Eric Wotring, and Jeff Fike.

Flower girl, Miss Melinda Zampogna of Erie, Pa., cousin of the groom, also wore a yellow satin gown and carried a basket of daisies. Ring bearer, John Eric Stem, brother of the bride, wore a gold jacket and black trousers identical to the groomsmen's.

The bride's mother chose a dress of mint green floral print, and the groom's mother wore a pale yellow dress. Both had corsages of yellow roses and daisies.

Contemporary organ music was furnished by Miss Diane Dean. Mrs. Elizabeth Simpson of Petersburg, W. Va., sister-in-law of the groom, sang "You Light Up My Life," and Mark Fisher, Elkins, W. Va., brother-in-law of the groom, sang "Just The Way You Are." Mr. Fisher played guitar accompaniment for both solos.

The reception was held in the Church Fellowship Hall. The wedding cake, decorated with yellow roses and daisies, was served by Mrs. Ann Caulford of Westminster, Maryland, and Mrs. June Mackley of York, Pa., aunts of the bride. Mrs. June Biser, aunt of the groom, served the punch. The bride's attendants assisted in opening the gifts.

Following the reception, Mrs. Shirley Stem served dinner at her home for both families and the wedding party. The bride and groom had entertained their wedding party on the previous evening with a rehearsal dinner at Alpine Lodge in Terra Alta.

After a wedding trip to Erie, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Simpson moved into their home in Pleasant Valley.

A reception followed in the church social room with a sit-down luncheon.

The groom's mother baked the wedding cake, assisted by Monica Sanns who decorated it with yellow and aqua rosebuds.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Marv Redman, friend of Mrs. Beitzel. Mrs. Harry Glotfelty, sister-in-law of the bride, served ice cream. Mrs. May Walton served at the salads and Beulah Walton served fruit cup from a watermelon basket she had made. Mrs. Mary Glotfelty, sister-in-law of the bride, was at the guest book and Mrs. Vera Sweitzer, sister of the bride, served punch and assisted at the gift table.

TENDER LOVING CARE

Esther has the most beautiful flowers of anyone I know. Every plant she touches seems to grow magically. When her sister discarded some seedlings, Esther rescued it. Within months the plant had grown until it reached the ceiling.

Houseplants must be tended regularly. They must receive water and food. The earth in which they grow must be loosened periodically.

If Christians are to survive and flourish, they must receive the nurture that comes from worship. God's Word, prayer and meditation strengthen and fortify them for a rich life. God's help is OUR tender loving care.

Find it in church this Sunday.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THINKING WITH EMOTIONS

Lesson for August 6, 1978

Devotional Reading: Psalms 118:6-

A friend of mine, A Palestinian (Arab) "Christian" with a history of heart disease, is forced to do hard labor in an Israeli prison. The crime of this man with no previous criminal record, he made the mistake of following the lead of many of his Israeli neighbors and began work on an addition to his house before his permit had been approved. Fined an enormous sum of money and sentenced to hard labor, he was not permitted a Palestinian lawyer to defend him. A normally peaceful, law-abiding citizen, it is difficult for him to manage his anger.

Rev. Althouse

They Supposed

Another friend of mine is an Israeli professor. For several years he risked his life posing as an Arab to bring Jewish children safely out of Arab lands where they faced persecution. He has lost many friends in battle and he never knows when his wife goes to the supermarket or department store whether she will be the victim of an Arab guerilla bombing. He too, normally a peaceful and civilized man, is frustrated and angry.

One is a Christian, the other a Jew: both of them are thinking with their emotions! Both are letting anger and frustration cloud their ability to think and their capacity to live by their own religious principles. It is impossible to reason with these men. A little bit of truth and a lot of emotion are holding sway.

It is hardly a novel situation for the Middle East — or even the world. For example, it is just such a situation we find in Acts 21 with Paul in Jerusalem and, as usual, in trouble as well! The ingredients of the trouble are familiar. First, there are troublemakers who "stirred up all the crowd" (Like the "poor," I suppose, we always have with us the troublemakers.) Secondly, we have a little bit of truth which is greatly distorted. They had seen Paul in the Temple and they had seen him with Trophimus, an Ephesian Greek, so "they supposed that Paul had brought him into the temple."

Because Of The Uproar

Manipulating the prejudices and emotions of the people, the troublemakers provoked such an uproar that the tribune "could not learn the facts." Nothing is more helpful when you're on the wrong side of the facts than a good, old-fashioned uproar.

Finally, as so often happens, we have a situation completely out of hand. Stirring up the crowd to oppose Paul and threaten him, the troublemakers now have a mob on their hands that wants to kill Paul. When we think with our emotions, someone is going to get hurt, perhaps even die.

Despite a Lord who taught the primacy of love and a Saviour who gave himself on a cross, Christians have all too often been numbered among the mobs and armies who, thinking with their emotions, have allowed the cross to continue as a symbol of man's shame.

KEEP WATER SAFE
During the summer season, people take to the water in huge numbers, and accident figures reflect it. Swimming pools and beaches are fun, of course, but can be hazardous to the careless or unwary. Near drownings, jellyfish stings, cuts from glass, eye abrasions from windblown sand-all may require a physician's treatment.
Everyone, especially children, should be aware of proper safety rules. Young children should never be permitted to swim unsupervised-no matter how well they claim to be able to swim.

Special People Devoting Time To Special Children

by Jim Willis

The annual Outdoor Education Program for Special Education Students, held at Camp Hickory near Accident, concluded a week of activities Friday.

The program, now in its fourth year, is funded by the Garrett County Board of Education and a small grant from the Maryland Mental Retardation Association. There is no charge for those attending the program.

This year's camp hosted 49 special education students, ages six to 19, from Accident, Broad Ford, Crellin, Dennett Road, Route 40, Northern High, Southern High, and Yoder schools. Many of the students are physically handicapped, mildly or severely retarded, and have developmental lags or learning disabilities.

The camping experience is coordinated by Sarah G. Wilson, Coordinator of Special Education for the Board of Education, and Ruth Ryan, Camp Director for the Outdoor Education Program.

Statting the camp this year were 14 full-time counselors, eight daytime counselors, a lifeguard, nurse, and night security officer. Among the qualified staff members were Mark Alkire, civics teacher; Lana Brenneman, music therapy student; Jean Coviello, registered nurse; Eleanor Fisher, vocational education-special education teacher; Roslyn France, emergency medical technician; Rachel Garner, teacher, orthopedic class; Cheryl Henderson, teacher, primary TMR class; Joanne Graybill, hearing therapist, level II; Natalie Jenkins, teacher, SLE level III; Donna Kotting, teacher, orthopedic class; Jennifer Kotulak, teacher, SLE level III; Cindy Marx, teacher, SLE level III; Suzanne Ryan, teacher, intermediate TMR class; Rosetta Rodeheaver, teacher, learning disabilities; Jim Sell, Charles Strauss, director of Camp Hickory; Barbara Sweitzer, kindergarten teacher; Barry Sweitzer, Ted Sweitzer, junior high teacher; Ruth Tasker, Terry Wakefield, Julie Truss, lifeguard; Ruth Ryan, camp director; and Sarah Wilson, coordinator of special education.

The counselors volunteer their services and were instructed in caring for their charges at the orientation which preceeded the camp. During the orientation, Mrs. Wilson spoke on "What Camp Hickory Means to the Special Child," and "Staff Professionalism." Mrs. Ryan addressed the counselors on "Handicaps."

Mrs. Ryan, who worked with multiply handicapped youngsters, called the camp program "very flexible." During the week her staff members expertly dealt with everything from sleepwalking and bedwetting problems to three grand mal epileptic seizures.

The services of a trained nurse, Jean Coviello, were only needed for minor incidents such as removing a few splinters.

Great care is taken during the camping experience to individually meet the needs of the children. Each child has an IEP, or individual educational program, which is followed during his or her school year. Rosetta Rodeheaver, a teacher trained in learning disabilities, reviews the IEP's before the start of the camp. She then assigns the children to specific camping programs tailored to reinforce what the children have learned throughout the school year.

Some of the programs open to the youngsters included rhythms, where the children use right-left directionals and co-ordination; therapy, including physical aspects, eye-hand coordination, gross and fine motor skills, auditory perception, language development, self-help skills, memory and auditory discrimination; campskills; arts and crafts; nature skills, such as leaf identification, marking trails, safety tips, hiking, planting foliage and general respect for the outdoors; and physical education.

The older campers are encouraged to participate in several sports and games, such as the hula hoop contest. Another favorite is the scavenger hunt in which the campers find a feather, four different types of insects, an animal's home, food for a squirrel, food for a bird, food for an insect, something black from nature, something soft from nature, three kinds of wild flowers and various objects of different shapes. Games such as these, while carefully supervised, allow the special child to explore and learn.

Each activity was carefully logged by the older campers and by the counselors. In this way, the unique program is constantly re-evaluated and improved when necessary. The individual reports on the campers are made available to the child's teacher and parents upon request.

Children are recruited for the Outdoor Education Program during the school year. Parents of special education students receive an application and a cover letter explaining how to enroll the child in the camp. The parents must list a child's nervous habits or fears and any allergies for the benefit of the camp director and nurse. Each child's confidential folder is carefully studied so that particular goals or limitations are attended to.

Although ten of this year's 49 campers had never been away from home, the only home sickness problems were parental. Camp director, Ruth Ryan, explained that it is often hard for parents to let go of a special child. However, in the stimulating atmosphere of the camp the children sometimes exceed their parents expectations. One mother sent her son's basketball with him, stating that it was a "security blanket" which he slept with. On the last day of camp, Mrs. Ryan reminded the youngster that his basketball was in the dining hall. It had been there all week.

As further proof of the camp's "flexible" program, the scheduled swimming program was almost curtailed when Camp Hickory's pool was closed for repairs. Fortunately, The Village Inn at the Wisp Ski Area was kind enough to donate the use of their indoor pool for the week. Charles Strauss, director of Camp Hickory, transported the children back and forth to the pool by school bus four times a day.

Throughout the week the children were "judged" in various areas. An awards certificate with their picture was then completed, listing areas in which they had excelled.

Parents of the campers were invited to join them for an evening meal Friday, followed by an awards presentation and a closing campfire. During the culminating ceremonies, Charles Strauss presented an award to Wayne Lewis who was chosen as exemplifying the spirit of Camp Hickory. Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lewis, Oakland, and a student in the orthopedic class at Broad Ford Elementary School.

The campers, then in turn, presented Charles Strauss with two rhododendron plants as a token of their appreciation.

As expected, this year's Outdoor Education Program for Special Education Students was a success. And in these days of negativism and constant reminders of society's ills, it is indeed refreshing to watch some dedicated, special people doing something for some very special children.

TIRED, BUT HAPPY — Campers at last week's Outdoor Education Program enjoyed swimming although they were glad to return to the camp for needed rest and relaxation. The Village Inn donated the use of their pool when Camp Hickory's pool was closed for repairs. Camp Hickory director, Charles Strauss, transported the children back and forth to the pool four times daily. Pictured above, is camper, Wayne Lewis with his helpful "chauffeur," Ted Sweitzer, a junior high teacher. Wayne, a member of the orthopedic class at Broad Ford Elementary School, was given an award by Charles Strauss for exemplifying the spirit of Camp Hickory.

SPLASHING HAPPILY — The campers and staff members enjoyed the use of the Village Inn's indoor pool last week during the Outdoor Education Program's Special Education camp. To allow for better supervision, the swimming groups were divided in half. While one group swam the other watched . . . but one youngster was enjoying himself so much that he cried until it was his turn to go back into the water.

POTTING PLANTS — Participants in the special education camp were instructed in a variety of nature skills such as leaf identification, marking trails, safety tips, hiking and general respect for the outdoors. Pictured above, a group of campers each plant a potted seedling which they were allowed to take home. For many, the attractive plants will serve as a constant reminder of their joy-filled week at Camp Hickory.

LOVE EASES THE HURT — The Outdoor Education Program's camp director, Ruth Ryan, left, and camp nurse, Jean Coviello, right, tenderly remove a splinter from a young camper's hand. Most likely, the fact that splinters were the extent of the camp's medical injuries, is due to the excellent supervision the children receive during the program.

FRISBEE FUN — During their free time most campers spent every available moment in some type of activity. Pictured above, these boys are having fun with a frisbee. At the end of the day both campers and counselors slept soundly. For many campers who had never been away from home the fresh air, good food, and exercise worked like a sleeping tonic.

A FUTURE REMBRANDT — Many of the older campers participated in an arts and crafts program. The use of creative techniques reinforces the special education student's color perception, discrimination, coordination and fine motor control. Pictured, right, Cindy Marx, a teacher, SLE level III, praises a youngster's "stamed glass" coloring.

Correction

The breeding sheep and market lamb show at the Garrett County Fair will be held on Wednesday, August 9, starting at 1:00 p.m. The sheep classes will be judged by Kennith Shifflet, Agriculture Science Agent, with the Frederick County Extension Service. It was incorrectly reported in last week's Republican that the Sheep Show would be held on Thursday, August 10.

Laws Enacted To Aid Handicapped

With the September 12 Primary Election only a few weeks away, the Maryland Office for Coordination of Services to the Handicapped wishes to remind Marylanders of State laws designed to assist handicapped voters at the polls.

One measure, enacted in 1977, allows local boards of elections to assign an alternate polling place to a qualified disabled voter if that voter's original place of voting is inaccessible. Accessibility of polling places can be determined by calling the local board of elections.

Applications requesting transfer of polling place for this fall's Primary Election must be received by the local board no later than August 14. The deadline for applying for the General Election is October 9. Postmarks are not applicable.

Another law assisting the disabled voter involves the actual voting process. If a voter is incapable of marking his ballot or operating a voting machine because he is blind, visually impaired, or physically disabled, assistance may be given by any person selected by the disabled voter or by two judges of opposite political parties. A disabled voter may take advantage of this law by taking an oath of disability before the election judges at any polling place.

In addition to these laws, disabled voters are still eligible to vote by absentee ballot.

In Gratitude and Thanks

Robert F. Twigg and the family of the late Dolores Twigg wish to say thank you at this time to the following special friends and loved ones who, during the past ten months, have come to our aid during the illness and passing of my late wife, Dolores Twigg: All my co workers at Head Start and the parents of the Crellin students for their kindness and understanding, the staff and workers at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Sacred Heart Hospital, and Winber Hospital; the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad; my brothers and sisters throughout the country who rendered assistance in any way. May the God of the Bible (Psalm 83 18) bless and watch over each and every one of you.

Robert Twigg

The family of James R. Twigg wants to extend its special thanks and appreciation for the kindness extended after his death on July 6. We especially thank the brothers and sisters of the Kingdom Hall in Oakland, the American Legion, V.F.W. and also the Aurora Fire Department, as well as all others who assisted.

TENDER LOVING CARE

Esther has the most beautiful flowers of anyone I know. Every plant she touches seems to grow miraculously. When her sister discarded some seedlings, Esther rescued it. Within months the plant had grown until it reached the ceiling.

How plants must be tended regularly. They must receive water and food. The earth in which they grow must be loosened periodically.

If Christians are to survive and flourish, they must receive the nurture that comes from worship. God's Word, prayer and meditation strengthen and fortify them for a rich life. God's help is OUR tender loving care.

Find it in church this Sunday.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THINKING WITH EMOTIONS

Lesson for August 6, 1978

Background Scripture: Acts 21:17 through 25:27
Devotional Reading: Psalms 118:6-9

A friend of mine, A Palestinian (Arab) "Christian" with a history of heart disease, is forced to do hard labor in an Israeli prison. The crime of this man with no previous criminal record: he made the mistake of following the lead of many of his Israeli neighbors and began work on an addition to his house before his permit had been approved. Fined an enormous sum of money and sentenced to hard labor, he was not permitted a Palestinian lawyer to defend him. A normally peaceful, law-abiding citizen, it is difficult for him to manage his anger.

Rev. Althouse

They Supposed

Another friend of mine is an Israeli professor. For several years he risked his life posing as an Arab to bring Jewish children safely out of Arab lands where they faced persecution. He has lost many friends in battle and he never knows when his wife goes to the supermarket or department store whether she will be the victim of an Arab guerilla bombing. He too, normally a peaceful and civilized man, is frustrated and angry.

One is a Christian, the other a Jew: both of them are thinking with their "emotions." Both are letting anger and frustration cloud their ability to think and their capacity to live by their own religious principles. It is impossible to reason with these men. A little bit of truth and a lot of emotion are holding sway.

It is hardly a novel situation for the Middle East — or even the world. For example, it is just such a situation we find in Acts 21 with Paul in Jerusalem and, as usual, in trouble as well! The ingredients of the trouble are familiar. First, there are troublemakers who "stirred up all the crowd." (Like the "poor," I suppose, we always have with us the troublemakers.) Secondly, we have a little bit of truth which is greatly distorted. They had seen Paul in the Temple and they had seen him with Trophimus, an Ephesian Greek, so "they supposed that Paul had brought him into the temple."

Because Of The Uproar

Manipulating the prejudices and emotions of the people, the troublemakers provoked such an uproar that the tribune "could not learn the facts." Nothing is more helpful when you're on the wrong side of the facts than a good, old-fashioned uproar.

Finally, as so often happens, we have a situation completely out of hand. Stirring up the crowd to oppose Paul and threaten him, the troublemakers now have a mob on their hands that wants to kill Paul. When we think with our emotions, someone is going to get hurt, perhaps even die.

Despite a Lord who taught the primacy of love and a Saviour who gave himself on a cross, Christians have all too often been numbered among the mobs and armies who, thinking with their emotions, have allowed the cross to continue as a symbol of man's shame.

KEEP WATER SAFE

During the summer season, people take to the water in huge numbers, and accident figures reflect it. Swimming pools and beaches are fun, of course, but can be hazardous to the careless or unwary. Near drownings, jellyfish stings, cuts from glass, eye abrasions from windblown sand-all may require a physician's treatment.

Everyone, especially children, should be aware of proper safety rules. Young children should never be permitted to swim unsupervised-no matter how well they claim to be able to swim.

Special People Devoting Time To Special Children

by Jim Willis

The annual Outdoor Education Program for Special Education Students, held at Camp Hickory near Accident, concluded a week of activities Friday.

The program, now in its fourth year, is funded by the Garrett County Board of Education and a small grant from the Maryland Mental Retardation Association. There is no charge for those attending the program.

This year's camp hosted 49 special education students, ages six to 19, from Accident, Broad Ford, Crellin, Dennett Road, Route 40, Northern High, Southern High, and Yoder schools. Many of the students are physically handicapped, mildly or severely retarded, and have developmental lags or learning disabilities.

The camping experience is coordinated by Sarah G. Wilson, Coordinator of Special Education for the Board of Education, and Ruth Ryan, Camp Director for the Outdoor Education Program.

Staffing the camp this year were 14 full-time counselors, eight daytime counselors, a lifeguard, nurse, and night security officer. Among the qualified staff members were Mark Alkire, civics teacher; Lana Brenneman, music therapy student; Jean Coviello, registered nurse; Eleanor Fisher, vocational education-special education teacher; Roslyn France, emergency medical technician; Rachel Garner, teacher, orthopedic class; Cheryl Henderson, teacher, primary TMR class; Joanne Graybill, hearing therapist, level II; Natalie Jenkins, teacher, SLE level III; Donna Kotting, teacher, orthopedic class; Jennifer Kotulak, teacher, SLE level III; Cindy Marx, teacher, SLE level III; Suzanne Ryan, teacher, intermediate TMR class; Rosetta Rodeheaver, teacher, learning disabilities; Jim Sell, Charles Strauss, director of Camp Hickory; Barbara Sweitzer, kindergarten teacher; Barry Sweitzer, Ted Sweitzer, junior high teacher; Ruth Tasker, Terry Wakefield, Julie Truss, lifeguard; Ruth Ryan, camp director; and Sarah Wilson, coordinator of special education.

The counselors volunteer their services and were instructed in caring for their charges at the orientation which preceeded the camp. During the orientation, Mrs. Wilson spoke on "What Camp Hickory Means to the Special Child," and "Staff Professionalism." Mrs. Ryan addressed the counselors on "Handicaps."

Mrs. Ryan, who worked with multiply handicapped youngsters, called the camp program "very flexible." During the week her staff members expertly dealt with everything from sleepwalking and bedwetting problems to three grand mal epileptic seizures.

The services of a trained nurse, Jean Coviello, were only needed for minor incidents such as removing a few splinters.

Great care is taken during the camping experience to individually meet the needs of the children. Each child has an IEP, or individual educational program, which is followed during his or her school year. Rosetta Rodeheaver, a teacher trained in learning disabilities, reviews the IEP's before the start of the camp. She then assigns the children to specific camping programs tailored to reinforce what the children have learned throughout the school year.

Some of the programs open to the youngsters included rhythms, where the children use right-left directionals and co-ordination; therapy, including physical aspects, eye-hand coordination, gross and fine motor skills, auditory perception, language development, self-help skills, memory and auditory discrimination; campskills; arts and crafts; nature skills, such as leaf identification, marking trails, safety tips, hiking, planting foliage and general respect for the outdoors; and physical education.

The older campers are encouraged to participate in several sports and games, such as the hula hoop contest. Another favorite is the scavenger hunt in which the campers find a feather, four different types of insects, an animal's home, food for a squirrel, food for a bird, food for an insect, something black from nature, something soft from nature, three kinds of wild flowers and various objects of different shapes. Games such as these, while carefully supervised, allow the special child to explore and learn.

Each activity was carefully logged by the older campers and by the counselors. In this way, the unique program is constantly re-evaluated and improved when necessary. The individual reports on the campers are made available to the child's teacher and parents upon request.

Children are recruited for the Outdoor Education Program during the school year. Parents of special education students receive an application and a cover letter explaining how to enroll the child in the camp. The parents must list a child's nervous habits or fears and any allergies for the benefit of the camp director and nurse. Each child's confidential folder is carefully studied so that particular goals or limitations are attended to.

Although ten of this year's 49 campers had never been away from home, the only home sickness problems were parental. Camp director, Ruth Ryan, explained that it is often hard for parents to let go of a special child. However, in the stimulating atmosphere of the camp the children sometimes exceed their parents expectations. One mother sent her son's basketball with him, stating that it was a "security blanket" which he slept with. On the last day of camp, Mrs. Ryan reminded the youngster that his basketball was in the dining hall. It had been there all week.

As further proof of the camp's "flexible" program, the scheduled swimming program was almost curtailed when Camp Hickory's pool was closed for repairs. Fortunately, The Village Inn at the Wisp Ski Area was kind enough to donate the use of their indoor pool for the week. Charles Strauss, director of Camp Hickory, transported the children back and forth to the pool by school bus four times a day.

Throughout the week the children were "judged" in various areas. An awards certificate with their picture was then completed, listing areas in which they had excelled.

Parents of the campers were invited to join them for an evening meal Friday, followed by an awards presentation and a closing campfire. During the culminating ceremonies, Charles Strauss presented an award to Wayne Lewis who was chosen as exemplifying the spirit of Camp Hickory. Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lewis, Oakland, and a student in the orthopedic class at Broad Ford Elementary School.

The campers, then in turn, presented Charles Strauss with two rhododendron plants as a token of their appreciation.

As expected, this year's Outdoor Education Program for Special Education Students was a success. And in these days of paratrooms and constant reminders of society's ills, it is indeed refreshing to watch some dedicated, special people doing something for some very special children.

TIRED, BUT HAPPY — Campers at last week's Outdoor Education Program enjoyed swimming although they were glad to return to the camp for needed rest and relaxation. The Village Inn donated the use of their pool when Camp Hickory's pool was closed for repairs. Camp Hickory director, Charles Strauss, transported the children back and forth to the pool four times daily. Pictured above, is camper, Wayne Lewis with his helpful "chauffeur," Ted Sweitzer, a junior high teacher. Wayne, a member of the orthopedic class at Broad Ford Elementary School, was given an award by Charles Strauss for exemplifying the spirit of Camp Hickory.

SPLASHING HAPPILY — The campers and staff members enjoyed the use of the Village Inn's indoor pool last week during the Outdoor Education Program's Special Education camp. To allow for better supervision, the swimming groups were divided in half. While one group swam the other watched . . . but one youngster was enjoying himself so much that he cried until it was his turn to go back into the water.

POTTING PLANTS — Participants in the special education camp were instructed in a variety of nature skills such as leaf identification, marking trails, safety tips, hiking and general respect for the outdoors. Pictured above, a group of campers each plant a potted seedling which they were allowed to take home. For many, the attractive plants will serve as a constant reminder of their joy-filled week at Camp Hickory.

LOVE EASES THE HURT — The Outdoor Education Program's camp director Ruth Ryan, left, and camp nurse, Jean Coviello, right, tenderly remove a splinter from a young camper's hand. Most likely, the fact that splinters were the extent of the camp's medical injuries, is due to the excellent supervision the children receive during the program.

FRISBEE FUN — During their free time most campers spent every available moment in some type of activity. Pictured above, these boys are having fun with a frisbee. At the end of the day both campers and counselors slept soundly. For many campers who had never been away from home the fresh air, good food, and exercise worked like a sleeping tonic.

A FUTURE REMBRANDT — Many of the older campers participated in an arts and crafts program. The use of creative techniques reinforces the special education student's color perception, discrimination, coordination and fine motor control. Pictured, right, Cindy Marx, a teacher, SLE level III, praises a youngster's "stained glass" coloring.

Laws Enacted To Aid Handicapped

With the September 12 Primary Election only a few weeks away, the Maryland Office for Coordination of Services to the Handicapped wishes to remind Marylanders of State laws designed to assist handicapped voters at the polls.

One measure, enacted in 1977, allows local boards of elections to assign an alternate polling place to a qualified disabled voter if that voter's original place of voting is inaccessible. Accessibility of polling places can be determined by calling the local board of elections.

Applications requesting transfer of polling place for this fall's Primary Election must be received by the local board no later than August 14. The deadline for applying for the General Election is October 9. Postmarks are not applicable.

Another law assisting the disabled voter involves the actual voting process. If a voter is incapable of marking his ballot or operating a voting machine because he is blind, visually impaired, or physically disabled, assistance may be given by any person selected by the disabled voter or by two judges of opposite political parties. A disabled voter may take advantage of this law by taking an oath of disability before the election judges at any polling place.

In addition to these laws, disabled voters are still eligible to vote by absentee ballot.

ARC Announces Regional Grants

William A. Pate, Maryland's representative on the Appalachian Regional Commission, has announced that the ARC has approved four grants totalling $191,421 to continue educational programs in Allegany and Garrett counties through June 30, 1979.

A $105,558 grant will be applied to fourth-year funding of the Management Counseling Institute for Small Business (ISB) at Frostburg State College. At a total cost of $179,553, of which $73,995 will be provided by the college, the ISB will continue its management counseling and training aimed at developing and upgrading managerial skills for small business firms. Professional training opportunities in the form of workshops, seminars, and problem clinics will be available to owners, managers and employees of small firms. Projects will be undertaken to provide a better understanding of the needs and problems of small businesses and to develop techniques of small business management. The ISB program is consistent with Maryland's approved FY '78 Appalachian Development Plan, which establishes as one of its goals the development of community service programs that have an immediate and direct impact on improving the economy of the region.

As a result of a $48,313 grant, the Associate Career Counselors Program conducted by Allegany Community College will continue for a third year. The grant will provide support for the hiring and training of five Associate Career Counselors, who will spend one day a week at Allegany Community College for training and four days each week working under the supervision of a cooperating counselor in the county's participating high schools. The project's paramount goal is to place successful graduates of Allegany Community College in the high schools as paraprofessional career counselors. The specific target group for these counselors are students seeking employment after high school; students with a firm commitment or interest in career training at the post-secondary level; or those students unsure of their goals but with interest in one or more career areas.

Another grant of $20,000 will be in support of the Cooperative Work Experience Coordinator in Garrett County's Northern and Southern high schools. The primary goals of this project are to prepare the student for gainful employment and to provide an incentive for those who might otherwise leave school because of financial difficulty or lack of interest. This project is in its second year.

The fourth grant in the sum of $17,550 will defray costs of Allegany County's program for developing essential reading skills, now in its fourth year. During the coming school year, the project will meet the reading needs of junior and senior high school students, who will be given assigned reading as part of their schedules.

Congress established the Appalachian Regional Commission in 1965 in response to the severe economic and social conditions which existed in large sections of Appalachia in the late 1950's and early 1960's. The Commission was created to provide a cooperative federal-state framework for planning a coordinated social and economic development program in affected areas of the 13 states concerned.

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with the citizens of Central and Western Maryland. You may send your questions to me, in care of the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I will answer each of you who writes. The following questions are typical of those asked of me in recent weeks:

What is the status of your legislation to abolish fuel adjustment charges on electric bills?

I am pleased to report that I have received assurances from the House Commerce Committee that it will review this bill. Chairman Harley Staggers of the Committee has indicated to me that there is substantial concern over a number of issues related to electricity price regulations which is demonstrated by the support that has been expressed for this measure. Legislation prohibiting the use of automatic fuel adjustment charges is scheduled to be reviewed following completion of the National Energy Bill and I believe this is a significant legislative step.

I understand you have proposed the construction of a foot bridge to connect Harper's Ferry with the C&O Canal. Please explain.

I added an amendment to the recently passed Omnibus Parks Bill which would provide the authorization to build a foot bridge across the Potomac River linking Harper's Ferry with the C&O Canal. The bridge would also carry the Appalachian Trail across the river, eliminating the need to hike over the dangerous highway bridges across the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers. Presently, there is no convenient way for visitors to Harper's Ferry to get to the Canal, and users of the Canal are not able to walk over to Harper's Ferry. I am hopeful the Senate will go along with the House and approve this project.

Does the government publish any booklets on jogging?

If you want to learn more about jogging, and review a basic 12-week jogging program, write for the free publication "Successful Jogging." To order your copy send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Department 20, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

What can be done to cut Federal Red Tape and bring the Bureaucracy under control?

I have co-sponsored legislation to give Congress the power to veto agency regulations. This will help prevent the enactment of rules that would impose unreasonable requirements on our citizens or are contrary to the intent of Congress and the public. I have also introduced 'sunset' legislation which would automatically terminate federal agencies unless Congress studies their operations and votes to extend them. Finally, I have supported the Executive Reorganization Act, which gives the President the authority to reorganize the federal government, with the approval of Congress. Hopefully, this will lead to a reduction in the number of agencies that currently lack coordination, duplicate each others functions, and thwart effective and efficient government.

What is Congress doing to encourage the use of Solar Energy?

Legislation creating a loan program for small businesses involved in the solar energy, renewable energy and energy conservation fields has been passed by Congress. The House also recently approved the Solar Power Research Bill providing accelerated federal research on developing energy cells to convert sunlight to electricity.

PET POINTERS

by jim willis

Many animal lovers may mourn the death of Morris the Cat; and some of you may know that a new "Morris" will now take over as spokesman for 9-Lives. The following reprint from Cat Fancy (June 1973) details the nationwide search that went on for a Morris look-alike a few years back.

"Humans may have their "Summer of '42," but for many cats, the most memorable tune will always be the 'Fall of '72.'

For that was the year of the first Morris Look-Alike contest...a search to find a cat with the looks and charm of that great supercat himself, Morris, the finicky 9-Lives TV star.

"With his usual cool, Morris pussyfooted out on the media circuit with his handler, Bob Martwick, to promote the contest — attracting throngs of people wherever he went: Morris may be the cat's meow, but he's also the heart throb of many a human.

"Morris traveled to each of the nine cities in which the contest was held: Boston, Buffalo, Providence, Baltimore, Cleveland, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and the Hartford/New Haven/Springfield area. As he visited each city the entries with snapshots of beloved family cats began pouring in.

"Most of them were accompanied by letters from owners who thought their pets were another Morris — if not in looks, then in personality. Cats of all color, sizes and shapes were entered. One photo of a small black cat came with the explanation. He may not look like Morris on the outside, but inside he is Morris.

"Others simply wrote to express their admiration of this furry star who has made it to the big time: 'I've seen stars come and go — but there's never been one yet with the charm of Morris, our favorite finicky feline,' wrote one woman.

"'I thought Burt Reynolds was masculine — until I saw Morris. He puts them all to shame: Bogart, McQueen and Newman included,' read another letter.

"Others wrote that their cat's likeness to Morris was more than fur deep: a Pennsylvania woman described her cat as, 'cool, emotional when he wants to be, handsome, and very, very appealing, just like Morris.' Still another woman claimed that, 'Our Fred and Morris are not only look-alikes in coloring, but both are personified arrogance and preposterous aloofness.' A letter from Indiana read, 'My cat, Puff, seems to be of the same temperament and personality as Morris. He is totally independent...he looks, acts, and if he could, would talk like Morris.'

Some cats 'wrote' their own entry letters: 'I am Morris of Chelmsford, Massachusetts,' began a letter from one of Morris' many namesakes. 'I am the most popular cat on the street with the neighbors, especially the children. I am a large cat with the same coloring as you, and always come running at 'Din-Din' time.'

"Another tomcat from Massachusetts told Morris, 'At last you have found your twin. Being a cat, I have the right to be conceited. I am a very handsome boy, quite talented and very charming and a Romeo with all the girls.'

"The entries came from all catwalks of life: from the story kitten found on the doorstep one cold morning and adopted out of pity, to the cat who knew nothing but the luxury of a warm and loving home from the very beginning of his furry little life.

"Some entries had extravagant tastes while others preferred the simple life...like Bingo of Rhode Island who takes his catnaps stretched out among a cackling mass of chickens or in a hen's nest box.

"But they all had one thing in common: one and all were finicky eaters.

"At last Judgement Day arrived. The distinguished panel of judges — Dr. Lester Fisher (director of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo), Dr. Walter Eagle (Morris' personal veterinarian), Bob Martwick (Morris' handler) and Morris himself — assembled to examine the photos.

"Much was at stake. Each of the local winners would receive not only an engraved silver cat food dish, but enough 9-Lives to fill it every day for a year. The grand winner would also spend a whirlwind weekend in Chicago, Morris' hometown, hosted by the Finicky One himself.

"Since the photos were of the homegrown variety, the judging took many hours: who could be sure that the furry orange streak in the upper left-hand corner was indeed a cat — much less Morris' look-alike.

"But finally, after long consideration, the judges made their decision, and from the piles of entries on the table before them, they selected one grand winner: Gilly of Holbrook, Massachusetts, owned by Mr. and Mrs. John H. Quimby.

"Where do two 'alleycats' go on a whirlwind weekend? Only to the finest restaurants and to places of cultural interest to felines.

"The weekend began one snowy Friday in December, when Morris met the three Quimbys at Chicago's O'Hare airport and drove them into the city in his chauffered limousine. The entire entourage—including photographers, reporters and Bob Martwick — then began a celebrity tour of the Windy City elegant enough for even Morris' tastes.

"After Morris 'pawtographed' his guests into the plush Ambassador East Hotel, he led them into the Pump Room (a famed celebrity dining spot) for a late lunch. Gilly and he got acquainted as they waited for their flaming 9-Lives 'Kitty Burgers' en brochette.

"From there the entourage headed for Chicago's famed Shedd Aquarium to view a special coral reef exhibit. Even to the world-weary Morris, the exhibit was mildly interesting, but to his less sophisticated friend, the school of fish swimming lazily within inches of his face were mesmerizing.

"At last, Morris had to drag Gilly to their dinner appointment at Maxim's de Paris, one of Chicago's most exclusive dining spots. Morris selected the wine (a dry white vintage to go with 9-Lives Tuna) and then he and Gilly retired to his small estate in the suburbs for a quiet weekend, leaving the humans to explore the city on their own.

"All in all, it was a purr-fect weekend, even by the standards of the world's most finicky feline."

FALLING FOR FRILLS

Many people go househunting in a remarkably casual way - and sometimes end up making costly mistakes. One of the mistakes a househunter can make is to buy the frill instead of the house. All too often a family will fall in love with an eye-catching feature and buy the wrong house. This mistake happens frequently and in all price ranges.

Families skip over careful consideration of the major factors because something minor has really grabbed them. The lure may be a charming fireplace, a glamourous lighting fixture, a garage door opener, or even a unique tree or shrub in bloom.

Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family winding up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that these same alluring features can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost, considering the amount of the overall purchase.
